GOP Wins In Maine By Better Than 4 to 1

Scolten Concedes Mrs. Smith's Win With More Than Half Of Precincts In

Scolten Concedes

Portland, Me., Sept. 13 (AP).—Maine Republicans captured all top offices in today's general election—the first in the Nation.

It was the GOP's seventh straight "clean sweep" in the State.

U. S. Representative Margaret Chase Smith captured a Republican seat in the U. S. Senate after her opponent, Dr. Adrian A. Scolten (D.), conceded defeat. Mrs. Smith takes over the seat of retiring Majority Floor Leader Wallace H. White.

The unofficial tabulation of 325 of 621 precincts gave Mrs. Smith 60,162 votes and Dr. Scolten 13,505—better than 4 to 1.

Frederick G. Payne, GOP gubernatorial candidate, and three Republican congressional candidates also defeated their Democratic opponents by wide margins.

Payne polled 56,632 votes as against 15,828 for his opponent, Louis B. Laussier.

GOP presidential Nominee Thomas E. Dewey telephoned congratulations to Mrs. Smith.

Republican State Chairman Alan L. Bird said the "impressive percentages" of the victors "portends a smashing victory for Dewey and Warren in November."

The votes in the last two Maine elections were:

In the congressional races: Representative Robert Hale had 20,304 votes to 5847 for James A. McVicar (D) in 65 of 152 First District precincts.

In 142 of the Second District's 210 precincts, Charles P. Nelson led Benjamin J. Arena (D), 27,978 to 6261.

Representative Frank Fellows polled 18,269 votes to 6973 for F. Davis Clark (D) in 178 of 259 Third District precincts.

In the 325 tabulated precincts Mrs. Smith had 81.6 per cent of the vote.

Mrs. Smith's victory statement called the "wonderful" vote given her "the forerunner of a great Republican national victory in November. . . ."

"It means better hopes for peace and for conquering inflation and high prices," she said. "It means increased chances for a better world—for just as America goes so goes the world—to the same degree that as Maine goes so goes the Nation."

Wallace Expects To Put $2,500,000 Into 44 States

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—Henry Wallace's campaign manager said today Wallace will be on the ballot in 44 States and will spend $2,500,000 on his campaign.

Progressive Party Campaign Manager C. B. Baldwin also predicted that Wallace will carry California, Oregon and Washington, and other States which he did not name.

Baldwin said the party presidential candidate has been certified in 17 States and sufficient signatures have been obtained already to assure certification in 15 more States.

Plans are being made to get signatures for certification in 12 other States.

Daughter Acts To Void Will of Mrs. Patterson

Mind Not Sound, Document Faulty, Court Petition Says

Countess Felicia Gizycka yesterday asked District Court to decree her the sole heir to the estimated 15-million-dollar estate of her late mother, Mrs. Eleanor M. Patterson.

The countess filed formal notice that she will contest the will by which her mother called for distribution of the estate to a number of persons and charities and left the Washington Times-Herald to seven top employes. Mrs. Patterson was editor and publisher of the Times-Herald. She died July 24.

Mrs. Patterson's will gave her daughter a $25,000 annual life income, plus an estate at Port Washington, N. Y., real estate in North Dakota, and other personal property not otherwise bequeathed. Mrs. Patterson left nothing to her granddaughter, Ellen Pearson Arnold, daughter of the countess and Columnist Drew Pearson. Countess Felicia and Pearson were later divorced. Mrs. Patterson's will said she had made her granddaughter "a substantial gift during my lifetime."

Notice of the court battle to be waged over the Patterson will was given in a petition for caveat, that is a warning that the will is to be contested. It was filed for the countess by Attorneys Randolph E. Paul, former general counsel of the Treasury Department, now partner in the firm of Paul, Weiss, Wharton & Garrison, in New York City; William A. Roberts, former people's counsel before the District Public Utilities Commission, now in the Washington firm of Roberts & McInnes, and Harold A. Kertz, also in Roberts' firm.

The countess' petition in no way affects current operation of the Times-Herald, attorneys said. The paper is being published under terms of a District Court order assigning direction of its business affairs to the Riggs National Bank of Washington in the role of collector for the estate pending court proceedings on the Patterson will. Her petition asked that the ar-

D. C. Schools May Stress U. S. History

A major change in District high school curriculum requirements to lay greater emphasis on the study of American history will be recommended to the Board of Education Wednesday.

Schools Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said yesterday he will ask the board to extend the study of American history from a two-semester to a three-semester course.

One semester of the new course will be devoted to a detailed study of the Constitution and of the Federal and District governments, he said. A one-semester study of civics, now offered as an elective, will be absorbed in the proposed study program.

The present one-year course in American history includes a six weeks' unit on the Constitution and political events leading to its enactment and a week's study of the District government.

Firebug Sought Who Set 11 Fires In Two Hours

An elusive firebug who set 11 blazes in a two-hour period, two of them baby carriages, was sought last night by police.

One of the fires was started in a rubbish pile at No. 9 Engine Company, in the 1600 block U st. nw., while firemen were out fighting a blaze reported earlier. They returned in time to prevent the blaze from spreading.

All of the fires were reported in the Tenth and Thirteenth Precincts. Police said a switchboard operator at an apartment at 2001 16th st. nw., observed a man coming out of the basement at that address just before one fire was reported.

A general lookout was broadcast for a slender white man or light-skinned Negro, about 6 feet tall.

Negro Entry To Arlington High Refused

'Equal Facilities' Plea Barred at Washington-Lee

Virginia's school segregation issue moved next door to the Capital yesterday when nine Negro parents asked—and were denied—permission to enroll their children in Arlington's white Washington-Lee High School.

The nine said that facilities at Arlington's only Negro high school, Hoffman-Boston, were not equal to those at Washington-Lee.

For this reason, they declared, they wanted their children admitted to the white high school, which registered its pupils yesterday.

Their request was refused by Washington-Lee principal, Claude M. Richmond, who told them the Virginia constitution "does not allow colored and white children to attend the same school."

Similar Negro delegations recently have received the same answer from school officials in Virginia's Gloucester and King George Counties.

Schools in both counties are under order by the Federal District Court in Richmond to provide equal facilities for both races.

The situation in Arlington is different in this respect—county schools are under no court order to provide equal facilities.

However, Arlington is awaiting

Truman Hits 'Smears' on Scientists

Blames Politicians For 'Totalitarian' Climate Impeding Defense Research

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

President Truman last night charged "some politicians" with creating a "totalitarian" climate in this country by smear campaigns against scientists working for national defense.

He spoke at Constitution Hall from the same platform as Dr. Harlow Shapley, world-famous astronomer who is known equally well for his advocacy of uninhibited international cooperation.

But where President Truman urged that scientific efforts be directed to "unprecedented peacetime efforts to maintain our military strength," Dr. Shapley stressed his familiar theme that science should continue to lead humanities in "cooperation across national boundaries."

Both spoke at the opening session of the 100th anniversary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in convention here this week. About 5000 delegates and guests are attending the convention.

"Continuous research by our best scientists is the key to American scientific leadership and true national security," declared President Truman.

"This indispensable work," he said, "may be made impossible by the creation of an atmosphere in which no man feels safe against the public airing of unfounded rumors, gossip and vilification. Such an atmosphere is un-American.

"It is the climate of a totalitarian country in which scientists are expected to change their theories to match changes in the police state's propaganda line."

He approved a plan devoting at least two billion dollars yearly to scientific research.

Referring to work on the atom bomb, but with no specific mention of subsequent congressional attack on one of its projectors, Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the National Bureau of Standards, as "the weakest link in our atomic chain," President Truman declared:

"It was the scientists who first saw the possibility of an atomic bomb. It was the scientists who proved the possibility. It was the scientists who first saw the need of security measures, and who on their own initiative clamped down a tight lid of security on all experiments.

"It must not be forgotten for a moment, and certainly it must not be obscured by any smear campaign, that but for the scientists we would have no atomic energy program. . . . We cannot drive scientists into our laboratories, but if

Reds Jail 5 In Berlin Riot For 25 Years

Youths Are Given Harshest Penalty Possible Under Laws of Russia

Berlin (Tuesday), Sept. 14 (NYHT).—A Soviet military court yesterday decreed the harshest punishment permitted by Soviet law—25 years at hard labor—for five German youths accused of attacking Russian soldiers and the Red flag in riots following last week's anti-Communist rally in Berlin.

The verdict, obviously intended as a severe lesson to Berliners, was announced early this morning by the Soviet news bureau ADN, which stated that all the defendants had confessed and pleaded guilty.

After Thursday's rally, anti-Soviet feeling erupted in the home-going crowds. They stoned and jeered Russian soldiers and Russian-controlled police, who retaliated with gunfire killing one boy and wounding a number of people.

The Russian verdict today held the German demonstrators responsible for the dead and injured. According to the Soviet news bureau, the defendants had asked for a mild punishment, saying they had "acted under the influence of provocatory speeches" made at the rally by Social Democratic leaders.

The hard labor will presumably be served out in the Soviet Union and, so far as Berliners are concerned, the verdict is equivalent to a sentence of death.

Meanwhile in Berlin the Soviet military administration, in a swift consolidation of power, has in the last week swept its sector of Berlin clear of almost all non-Communist city employes, it was officially reported yesterday.

The mass firings, which have been coincident with the recess period of the four-power high-level talks on the Berlin crisis, caused Berlin's acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg to predict that the executive branch of the city administration—the clerks, statistical department, building and utilities department, etc.—would soon have to follow the legislative branch into the western sectors.

The administrative end of the

Truman, Cabinet Meet, Have Nothing to Say

By the United Press

President Truman conferred with his Cabinet yesterday in an atmosphere of official secrecy that completely blacked out all information on the next move in the Berlin crisis.

The White House had nothing to say on the Cabinet meeting, except that it was one of the President's regular luncheon sessions with his official advisers.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall stayed on to confer privately with Mr. Truman, presumably on the explosive situation created by Russia's refusal to lift the Berlin blockade.

Yugoslavia Pays $17 Million on American Claims

The government of Yugoslavia has paid 17 million dollars to the United States to settle American financial claims, the State Department announced yesterday.

The money will be distributed to American companies and individuals claiming compensation for their property in Yugoslavia which was nationalized by the Tito government.

The Yugoslav payment was agreed upon last July after lengthy negotiations. In return, the United States agreed to unfreeze Yugoslav assets in the United States including 47 million dollars in gold held in the Federal Reserve Bank.

Congress will be asked by the State Department when it convenes to lay down rules under which American claimants can divide the 17-million-dollar pot.

Pakistan Successor

Moslems Aroused

New Delhi, Sept. 13 (AP).—The government of Hyderabad claimed tonight it had checked the invasion from India on all fronts, some hours after India had announced its troops were driving in from all four sides and were possibly within 60 miles of the princely state's capital.

The Hyderabad communique, as made public at Karachi, Pakistan, gave no details other than to say the Indian troops could make no headway.

Karachi also reported Premier Mir Laik Ali broadcast a message to the people of Hyderabad tonight asking them to cooperate fully with their government. He said the state was determined to drive away the Indian troops.

Air and Tank Support

New Delhi reported the Indians had air and tank support. Forces jumping off from Bezwada near the southeast border of predominantly Hindu Hyderabad advanced 40 miles toward Secunderabad, site of army installations and ammunition dumps, said dispatches from Madras.

India said the invasion was ordered to prevent anarchy in the state controlled by a wealthy Moslem Nizam.

Dominion forces generally met little initial opposition. The first Indian communique tonight reported "steady progress in all sectors." It said several columns had penetrated Hyderabad territory since the march began at 4 a. m.

(In Karachi, word of the invasion touched off demonstrations demanding that Moslem Pakistan declare war on India.)

Lieut. Gen. Shri Rajendrashinhji, Indian commander in chief, sent congratulations to all his troops on the initial successes.

Telephoned messages from inside Hyderabad quoted official sources as saying the Indian air force raided airfields in Warangal and Bidar, two towns in the central part of the state.

India Surrounds State

The Indian communique said the most serious opposition was met at Naldrug on the western border along the Sholapur-Hyderabad city road.

The communique said Naldrug fell after "severe fighting and considerable casualties" for the defending forces.

Constabulary To Defend Japan Urged

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Creation of an American-trained and armed Japanese constabulary of from 150,000 to 200,000 men was suggested yesterday by Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger.

The former commander of the American troops in occupied Japan told a press conference that he felt today that he had carried out his job of disarming the Japs "perhaps too well."

While avoiding any direct recommendation on immediate Japanese rearmament, Eichelberger declared that before America withdraws its occupation forces "we've got to give these poor people something to defend themselves with."

He suggested a constabulary only strong enough to put down "Communist uprisings" and to preserve internal order. But Eichelberger also has some things to say of the importance of Japan in global strategy.

And while he did not mention Russia by name, he left no doubt but that he had the USSR in mind

A-Bomb Data Piped to Reds, Thomas Says

House Group Probing Wartime Leaks Laid To Missing Engineer

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

An inquiry into atomic bomb espionage in the United States with a direct link to Canada and Russian secret agents is now under way before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (R., N. J.) disclosed yesterday.

Thomas declared that the committee is now taking testimony in closed sessions concerning the espionage activities of a Canadian-educated individual whom he described as one of the most important of Soviet agents.

The man was named by Thomas as Arthur Adams, an electronics engineer and his particular wartime assignment, Thomas declared, was the procurement of atomic and radar secrets.

Adams, said Thomas, has now fled the United States. He declined to say where Adams is, but indicated that the committee had little expectation of being able to serve him with a subpena to testify.

The committee yesterday in executive session heard Eric Bernays, a New York businessman in the sound recording business, testify concerning Adams.

Closed Sessions Extended

Thomas described Bernays as a former Communist, now cooperating with the committee, who once employed Adams in the Keynote Recording Co. in New York.

The committee's executive session records, Thomas told reporters, are already filled with considerable testimony concerning the espionage activities of Adams.

Because of the important new developments in this espionage case, Thomas told reporters, the committee must hear at least 10 more witnesses in closed sessions before it can proceed with open hearings.

Public hearings scheduled for Wednesday have been canceled, Thomas declared, and will not be

2 U. S. Air Lift Pilots Bail Out Over Russian Zone

Frankfurt, Germany (Tuesday) Sept. 14 (AP).—Two American airlift pilots were reported to have bailed out over the Russian zone this morning.

Air Force headquarters said the two-man crew of a C-47 en route from Wiesbaden to Berlin with a full cargo of food bailed out when their engines failed.

A radio message from the pilot was received at 4:20 a. m.

The pilot said one engine had failed and that the other had begun to cut out. The plane, he said, was losing altitude.

The commission said the three northern neighbors had contributed large-scale aid to the Greek guerillas with the knowledge of their governments.

Hurricane Rakes Bermuda With Gusts Up to 140 MPH

Miami Fla., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Atlantic hurricane continued its northward movement tonight after lashing Bermuda with winds of 100 miles an hour.

A 10 p. m. (EST) advisory said the hurricane was located 140 miles north northwest of Bermuda, moving northward at 16 miles an hour.

Highest winds were estimated at 140 miles per hour in a small area near the center with gales and heavy squals extending outward 200 miles from the center.

Indications are the hurricane will continue its northward movement with a slow turn to the north northeast during the next 24 hours, and accelerate in a forward movement, the Weather Bureau said. All shipping in its path was advised to exercise extreme caution.

No loss of life was reported as the hurricane whirled past Bermuda.

Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said the hurricane apparently had begun a slow recurve to the north and northeast that will take it out to sea without any effects being felt along the United States coastline.

Bermuda, a group of British islands about 600 miles off the South Carolina coast, was buffeted by winds that reached 123 miles an hour in gusts but there was no extensive property damage.

Main highways were blocked by debris, roads flooded and electric power cut off. Telephone service failed and commercial radio stations fell silent.

Power lines were blown down and streets were strewn with fallen tree limbs.

Heavy rain swirled with the wind, and the city barricaded itself against the blow. Stores opened briefly to permit residents to stock up, then closed again. Buses stopped, and tourists and residents holed up in hotels and homes.

The rising winds reached hurricane force at 9:30 a. m. (Eastern Standard Time). Five hours later, at 2:30 o'clock, a hard-to-decipher radio message from Bermuda reported sustained wind velocity of 99 miles an hour.

New U. S. Note Tells Russia Case of 2 Teachers Is Closed

By Ferdinand Kuhn, jr.
Post Reporter

The case of the two Russian school teachers in New York is officially closed, as far as the United States Government is concerned.

The State Department yesterday made public a new American note which again insisted that Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina and Mikhail Samarin did not have to see Soviet officials here if they didn't want to.

Mrs. Kasenkina, storm-center of the dispute that led to the ousting of Consul General Jacob Lomakin last month, is still recuperating in Roosevelt Hospital from her jump from the Soviet consulate window. Samarin is now under a guarantee of protection from the United States.

The State Department's new note, delivered to the Soviet Embassy last Thursday, wound up with a polite reminder to the Russians to hurry with the final closing of the Soviet consulates in New York and San Francisco. It said the department "will appreciate being advised" of the official closing dates.

The department still refused to make public the photostat copies of letters, allegedly from Mrs. Kasenkina, forwarded by the Soviet Embassy on August 24. A department

2 Area Men on Navy Plane Missing in Upper Manitoba

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 13 (AP).—A United States Navy plane carrying the American naval attache in Ottawa and four other persons was missing today in northern Manitoba.

Capt. Custer

The United States Embassy in Ottawa said its naval attache, Capt. Benjamin Scott Custer of 8 Oxford st., Chevy Chase, Md., and Capt. Sir Robert Stirling Hamilton, naval adviser to the British High Commissioner in Ottawa, both were aboard the missing plane. The plane, a two-motor Beechcraft, left Churchill, Manitoba, Sunday morning for The Pas and Ottawa and has been unreported since then.

Others aboard, all United States military personnel, were: Lieut. Charles Wilcox, East Oskaloosa, Iowa, a Navy pilot; Chief Petty Officer Jack M. Kastner, Tucson, Ariz., also a Navy pilot, and Master Sergt. Jerome Scalise, Cambridge, Mass.

Scalise, a passenger aboard the plane, was being flown from a joint services winter experimental base in Churchill, where several hundred Canadian and about 100 American troops are based. He is

Harlow Shapley, Harvard Astronomer, One of Best Known Scientists in World

A national magazine some years ago devoted its front cover to Harlow Shapley, the astronomer. The following week the publication decorated its cover with Jean Harlow, the late siren of the films. The sky-gazer's friends were delighted by the coincidence.

"First, Harlow Shapley. Then, Shapley Harlow. What next?" they chaffed.

The point of this pun—admittedly a weak one since the astronomer's name is pronounced "Shapplee—is that fellow scientists always expect the unexpected to happen when Shapley shows up.

Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory and sometimes referred to as the "statistician of the universe" is unquestionably one of the best and most widely known scientist in the world.

Fellow savants say that he is also the most beribboned and bemedalled scientist on earth. This claim is substantiated—in part, at least—by a Harvard neighbor who used to throw a waffle party for Shapley every time he won a new honor, until it got to be so that the astronomy faculty was on a steady diet of waffles.

Renowned as an astronomer, the outgoing president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science has a great range of interests, from the behavior of galaxies through the behavior of human beings down to the behavior of ants.

A veteran globe-girdler, Shapley is an inveterate ant collector. He picks them up wherever he finds the critters and appropriately pickles them. For example, the ant he captured in the Kremlin is soaked in vodka; those he got in Mexico are steeped in tequila.

But it's people, rather than astral bodies or ants, which most concern the doughty Missouri-born scientist. He's worried about the fate of humanity at war, and so is an ardent advocate of one world. He's a devoted defender of civil liberties, who has often exchanged volleys with the House Un-American Affairs Committee. He's a foe of bigotry and thereby has become something of a one-man employment bureau for refugee scientists from any and all countries.

Dr. Shapley is the leading and loudest spokesman for the modern school of scientists who feel they must speak up on political as well as purely scientific issues. He has spoken out against military control of the atom bomb, against loyalty-harrassment of Government scientists, against actions of the Government which he believed to be anti-Russian and prowar. He has been an open friend and adviser to Henry Wallace and other left-wingers.

Noted Astronomer

But Harlow Shapley, for all of his anxiety about man, is no worrywart. He loves a good joke, even on himself. He likes parties, games, dances. At 62, he possesses a sharp wit and a keen sense of the dramatic, and gets a kick out of life.

Star-chaser Shapley is a down-to-earth guy who's just as eager to play with the kids, including his grandmother, as he is to compute orbits of double stars. With his wife, Martha, (who like so many other wives of astronomers is an astronomer in her own right) Dr. Shapley likes equally to play bridge with adults, or "Hells Bells," a game of their own invention, with the children. He's the emcee at parties and he stomps and calls the steps for a brisk Virginia Reel.

Shapley can't play an instrument, but he is fond of classical music, and sponsors musicales, presenting such distinguished violinists as Einstein. He's a rabid radio fan who'll listen in to a Braves or Red Sox game while working on cosmic problems. He's a poor sleeper, who keeps a radio, detective stories, and a dictaphone by his bedside.

A newspaper reporter for a year before he turned from the headlines to the heavens, Shapley is a speedy shorthand stenographer, who makes use of the skill attending lectures and in communicating with members of his family.

Professor Shapley has one absent-minded habit: He smokes a pipe, but often forgets the tobacco. On such occasions he borrows a cigarette, removes the tissue paper, and serenely refills the empty bowl.

Truman Hits Slurs on Scientists

Hits Politicians' Attitude

Though he mentioned no names, his protest was in obvious reference to repeated congressional efforts to secure confidential Government records on some of the top men engaged during the war in production and research on the atom bomb.

"There are some politicians," President Truman said, "who are under the impression that scientific knowledge belongs only to them. They seem to feel that it is dangerous to let scientists know anything about scientific developments in this country."

Dr. Shapley aired the same complaint, but expanded it to "obstructions set up by politicians and the agencies of statesmen" to impede the "natural, two-way traffic (internally) in good will and cooperation (of the scientists)."

Must Encourage Scientists

Declaring it an "obligation" of the Government "to provide working conditions under which scientists will be encouraged to work for the Government," President Truman declared:

"Scientists do not want to work in ivory towers, but they do want to work in an atmosphere free from suspicion, personal insult, or politically motivated attacks.

"It is highly unfortunate that we have not been able to maintain the proper conditions for best scientific work. This failure has grave implications for our national security and welfare."

To Keep Hands Off

In what will undoubtedly be interpreted as an Administration hands-off policy on scientific work, President Truman declared:

"Pure research is arduous, demanding and difficult. It requires unusual intellectual powers. It requires extensive and specialized training. It requires intense concentration, possible only when all the faculties of the scientist are brought to bear on a problem, with no disturbances or distractions."

Mr. Truman continued: "At a time when we hoped our scientific efforts could be directed almost exclusively to improving the well-being of our people, we must, instead, make unprecedented peacetime efforts to maintain our military strength."

Dr. Shapley, who attacked both directly and indirectly Government interference in international scientific cooperation, also belabored "our own American system of exploiting the fruits of science."

Shapley Hits Profit Angle

Declaring that scientists "are not natural war makers" and that their fights are "against unknowns, not against neighbors," he added:

"At least that is ideally true. In practice, in a society of free enterprise, the many scientific discoveries in physics and chemistry are not at all free to all men. The discoveries become trade secrets and are developed for private profit, and only eventually for 'all men'."

Dr. Shapley, in his theme "One World of Stars," methodically traced astronomy's advances with particular stress on the contributions by men of all nationalities. He stressed also the continuing efforts to scientists of these nationalities to work together.

"The 'One World of Stars' is a reality," he declared. "Its significance should not be ignored in other fields of science and art, and in fact one-worldness need not be confined to the cultural fields.

Wants Men to be Like Stars

"The stars are supranational, as also are the laws of gravitation, genetics, radiation, nutrition. Cannot good will, human brotherhood, and a common ambition for the higher cultures also develop as boundary passers?"

Dr. Shapley, personal friend and at times scientific adviser to Presidential Candidate Henry A. Wallace, concluded his one-world thesis with the challenge to scientists "to lead the way into an era of peace and human progress without which our efforts for human knowledge and human comforts will have been in vain."

"Our species of man is now at one of its critical epochs," he declared.

"Does it survive the crisis, through the use of intelligence and the submersion of avarice, or does it join the fossil biological failures of the past, which, through inability to meet their crisis, have lon gceased to greet nightly the world of enduring stars."

Reception for Members

Dr. Shapley spoke in his role as out-going president of the AAAS. He is director of the Harvard Observatory, at Cambridge, Mass.

Following the Constitution Hall assembly, the officers of the association and their Washington hosts received members and guests at a reception held in the Hall of the Americas, Pan American Union Building.

Today will begin a series of morning symposia on scientific papers, afternoon tours of scientific and cultural centers of the Washington area, and evening lecture programs to which the public is invited.

Tonight's scheduled activities, free to the public, include a "Town Meeting of the Air" at Constitution Hall on "What Hope for Man" (tickets for this must be secured in advance); a bird life lecture illustrated with color moving pictures at Hotel Statler; a talk on "Technics and Future of Western Civilization" at the Commerce Auditorium, and another on "Science and the Control of Human Populations, at Hotel Mayflower.

Director of Atom Lab Resigns, Hits Committee

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The New York Star says Dr. Philip M. Morse has quit as director of the Brookhaven National Laboratory because of "irresponsible smears" at scientists by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The Star said in a copyrighted story that Morse also told it that actions of the committee have made it "increasingly difficult" to work at the experimental project where peacetime possibilities of atomic energy are being studied.

It did not say when Morse resigned. Morse could not be reached for comment on the story.

The paper quoted Morse as saying:

"I had said a number of times that the job at the laboratory was a difficult one. It was a long uphill struggle in getting the staff together. But the committee did make it increasingly difficult in getting scientists to work there. . . . Many men preferred to take poorer paying jobs in universities . . ."

Spanish Grave Digger Held as French Ghoul

Paris, Sept. 13 (AP).—A Spanish grave digger was held in Bayonne today after police said he confessed to stealing gold fillings from the teeth of American corpses at Longuyon Cemetery in north France when they were exhumed for shipment to the United States.

Group Polls Opposition To Sales Tax

Three out of four members of the Washington Junior Board of Commerce are opposed to a District sales tax if levied in addition to other taxes now imposed.

But more than half of the members would favor the sales tax if the individual income tax were canceled for those making under $6000 a year.

These angles on the sales tax controversy were revealed at a meeting of the board at the Burlington Hotel last night, when the results of a poll of the membership were announced.

The figures showed 75.2 per cent opposing the tax as matter stands, with 18.5 per cent favoring the plan and 5.5 per cent undecided.

Were the District income tax on all income under $6000 to be dropped, votes in favor of the tax rose to 55.5 per cent with 41.2 per cent still opposed and 3.3 per cent undecided.

A total of 92.5 per cent reported the majority of their purchases were made in the District.

Polish Foreign Office Takes Dewey to Task

Warsaw, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Foreign Office decried today a recent statement of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York that Poles are enduring "starvation, cold and disease under a Red regime."

Grosz denied reports published in New York that he is quitting Warsaw for a post as ambassador.

Johnson Certified As Texas Winner

Reports Filed

All Parties But One Run In the Red

By The Associated Press

Led by Henry A. Wallace's Progressive group, all political parties except the Socialist Party have operated in the red this year.

Their financial reports for the first eight months of 1948 were filed yesterday with the Clerk of the House. Only the Southern States' Rights organization failed to report.

The Democratic National Committee listed the heaviest expenditures and the largest operating deficit, but a bank balance kept them solvent.

The Wallacites ended the period with the largest reported deficit.

Democrats Have $18,129

The Democratic National Committee reported receipts of $541,473 and expenditures of $838,712 during the eight months. But they started the year with a balance of $315,367 and on August 31 still had $18,129.

The Republican National Committee said it took in $525,455 and spent $641,351. The report did not show how much of the $115,896 deficit was covered by cash on hand at the start of the year.

Two reports were filed by C. B. Baldwin, Wallace's campaign manager. One listed contributions of $451,124 to the National Wallace for President Committee, and expenditures of $670,383. This meant meant a deficit August 31 of $237,735.

Baldwin also reported August receipts of $48,745 and expenditures of $67,221 for the Progressive Party.

The Socialist Party said it spent $26,256 and took in $28,272 from January 1 to June 30.

Machinists' Head Calls For Truman Support

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 13 (AP).—President Harvey W. Brown of the International Association of Machinists, addressing opening sessions today of the IAM's convention here, paved the way for possible political action by the union when he strongly defended President Truman's labor record.

Head of an independent union which claims a membership of 650,000 mechanics, machinists and tool and diemakers in the United States and Canada, Brown declared:

"If we mean what we say about the Tafts and Hartleys in the legislative branch of Government we can be charged with lacking in sincerity if we do not pay our respects to the distinguished gentlemen in the White House, who not only vetoed the Taft-Hartley bill but issued a scathing denunciation of that measure in his message to Congress."

Only three times have the machinists formally indorsed a candidate for President. They supported the elder La Follette in 1924, and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936 and 1940. There was no IAM convention in 1944.

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Texas State Democratic executive committee tonight voted to certify Lyndon B. Johnson as the State's Democratic candidate for the United States Senate. The vote was 29 to 28.

The vote came after speeches by attorneys representing Johnson and his opponent, Coke Stevenson, arguing pro and con the validity of the vote in Precinct 13 in Jim Wells County.

Stevenson refused to concede defeat. Asked what he considered the last authority in his contest, he said:

"I am thinking about the United States Senate."

Earler a tabulating subcommittee had found that Johnson led Stevenson by 87 votes in the official count, but refused to give him outright certification as the nominee.

The subcommittee's tabulation from the State's August 28 second primary election for the Texas Democratic nomination gave Johnson 494,191 votes and Stevenson 494,104.

The subcommittee voted 4 to 3 to leave the final decision on the record-breaking close-finish contest to the full committee.

A resolution adopted by the subcommittee certified as correct all of its tabulations except that of Jim Wells County where Johnson got 1988 votes to Coke R. Stevenson's 770.

A short time earlier Johnson was granted a temporary injunction at Alice, Tex., against a recanvass of the Jim Wells County votes.

Attorneys for Stevenson immediately filed notice of an appeal in the District Court hearing.

The injunction prohibits the Jim Wells County Democratic executive committee from making any change in the tabulation from Precinct 13 in the county as reported to the State executive committee.

Judge L. Broeter said he did not see how granting the injunction "would interfere in any way with an election contest." He pointed out that under Texas election laws an election contest has to be filed in Travis County, in which Austin, the State capital, is located.

Ordinarily the subcommittee's tabulation and certification of the winner are routine. This time it was complicated by the 162-vote margin given Johnson in the last unofficial count of the near-million votes cast.

Mississippi Urged To 'Sterilize' Laws

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 13 (AP).—The chief justice of the Mississippi Supreme Court urged the State today to "sterilize" any "dangerous political proposals" which become Federal law.

Chief Justice Virgil A. Griffith declared it "seems likely" such proposals will become law and will be upheld by the United States courts.

He did not specify the "dangerous proposals," but Mississippi is the home of the States Rights movement against enactment of a Federal fair employment practice act, and Federal antilynch, antipoll tax and antisegregation laws.

The chief justice said if "dangerous proposals" are enacted and upheld by the Federal judiciary, "it will be our duty to sterilize them by resort to every practical expedient within the broad reach of permissable State action."

Griffith addressed the Mississippi Bar Association.

7 States Hold Senate, House Contests Today

By The Associated Press

Politicians today have a chance to see how the political winds are blowing in seven States.

These seven, in New England and the West, hold primaries today to name candidates for five Senate, 53 House and seven Governor seats.

Senators Ball (R., Minn.) and Johnson (D., Colo.) are opposed for renomination. Without any opposition are Senators Bridges (R., N. H.), Saltonstall (R., Mass.) and Ferguson (R., Mich.).

Ball is opposed by Lenore Irene Bussman and Earl L. Miller. His campaigning, however, has been aimed more at the election itself. Of more immediate interest is the Democratic-Farmer Labor senatorial primary. Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis, a Truman backer, is opposed by James M. Shields, a Wallace supporter.

Both President Truman and Governor Dewey are to speak next week in Colorado, scene today of primary races for nomination to the Senate seat now held by Democrat Edwin C. Johnson.

Johnson, who has differed at points with the Truman Administration, is being opposed for renomination by Gene Cervi, former Democratic State chairman.

In the Colorado Republican senatorial primary, the battle is between former Gov. John C. Vivian and Will F. Nicholson of Denver.

Union Board Challenged By Local Over Dewey

Jersey City, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP).—John J. Moran, president of Local 311, Building Service Employes of Hudson County (AFL), today challenged the authority of the international union's executive board in backing Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency.

Moran said the members of his local, numbering in the thousands, were committed to the election of President Truman. Many other locals throughout the country, he said will dispute the endorsement of Dewey by the executive board and International President William McFetridge.

Reece Denies Deal With Crump, Expects Aid; Farm Leader Sees Dewey on Price Stabilizing

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Carroll Reece, Republican candidate for the Senate in Tennessee, hasn't made a "deal" with Memphis Democratic Boss Ed Crump but is plainly counting on some support in that quarter.

"There never has been any understanding between Mr. Crump and myself, but you can figure where his interest lies," Reece told reporters here today.

Reece, former Republican national chairman, tossed out the hint of some informal Crump backing in Tennessee's senatorial-gubernatorial race after at first parrying the question.

"Will you get any support from Ed Crump?" a reporter asked.

"That question has never been asked nor answered in Tennessee," Reece smiled.

Reece came to Albany today to urge Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to speak in the State. He failed to get a "yes" or "no" answer. Dewey told him he would come to Tennessee if he could find the time in an already crowded itinerary.

Likes Dewey's Tennessee Chances

At a press conference following his meeting with the Governor, Reece said he reported that Dewey has "a good chance" of carrying Tennessee. He would be the first Republican presidential nominee to do so since Herbert Hoover in 1928.

He further predicted that Roy Acuff, band-leading, ballad-writing star of "Grand Old Opry," Republican nominee for Governor against Gordon Browning, may get the GOP its first gubernatorial victory since 1920. As for himself, Reece charged that the "radicalism" of his opponent, Representative Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), may alienate enough Democrats to make him (Reece) the first Republican Senator from the State in recent history.

Switching from Tennessee politics to the boiling-point farm problem, Dewey conferred most of the afternoon with Allan B. Kline, president of the nonpartisan American Farm Bureau Federation, but a personal supporter of the Governor.

Contradicts Brannan

Kline later told reporters he couldn't "go along" with Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan's charge that Republicans are out to wreck the price-support program.

"The Republican platform is very clear," said Kline. "I know the Governor won't object to being quoted in favor of the long-range program, because he is." But the Farm Bureau chief dodged all other questions on the political aspects of the farm problem, saying his organization is composed of both Democrats and Republicans and he didn't want to mix in.

Kline said he conferred with Dewey at his own request to present his proposal for creation of a joint commission in Congress, with a body of experts and close liaison with the President, to study means of stabilizing prices and thus stabilizing the dollar.

He described Dewey as "sympathetic" to the plan, but got no final commitment.

Kline declined comment on either Harold Stassen's charge that the Truman Administration is trying to keep prices up or Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath's allegation that the GOP-controlled Eightieth Congress "double-crossed" the farmers by extending price supports without giving the Commodity Credit Corporation enough space to store crops.

"I'd better keep still," he said.

A native of Vinton, Iowa, he was asked how that State would vote in November.

"We vote for Democrats only in hard times," he said. "That's the easy answer, but it would be foolish to underestimate Guy Gillette (Democratic candidate for the Senate)."

Decentralization Discussed

Kline said he also discussed with the Governor what he said is the need for further decentralization of the farm program, with financing on the Federal level but activities largely administered in the States.

The Farm Bureau official said his organization supported the original principle of the Aiken bill, to launch the long-range program with flexible supports in 1949 rather than January, 1950, as the bill cleared Congress. But he said he now doubts the wisdom of Congress "Doing anything on a retroactive basis" next session.

Reece accused his Democratic Senator opponent, Representative Kefauver, of "following left movements" in Washington. He attributed his own senatorial prospects to the Democratic split and "a feeling in Tennessee that he (Kefauver) is following the radical ideology."

Kefauver, who smashed the Crump machine to win the senatorial Democratic nomination in a three-way race, battled similar attacks from Crump in the primary campaign. Crump accused Kefauver of Red leanings. Reece didn't go that far but said he (Reece) is getting increasing Democratic support because "they think he'll be a dangerous man to represent them in the Senate."

Reece, who was recently the target for eggs hurled at a Kingsport, Tenn., rally, said "it didn't create much excitement," adding:

"Of course they'll never find who did it. But it was hardly noticed by the 25,000 crowd that turned out to hear us."

Clothing, Hat Unions Back Truman Drive

New York, Sept. 13 (UP).—Two large unions in the clothing industry, one CIO and the other AFL, today announced their support of President Truman in the November election.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (CIO), with a membership of 375,000, proclaimed its stand in a union publication, charging that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey was "the candidate of the American monopolists," and that Henry A. Wallace was helping to defeat liberal candidates.

The United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers (AFL), representing 40,000, also indorsed the Truman-Barkley ticket and said it would campaign for the defeat of all Congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley Act.

Colonies Meeting Stalls on Status

Policy Coordinated

3 Envoys May See Stalin Today

London, Sept. 13 (NYHT).—The three western envoys at Moscow will see Premier Josef Stalin, probably Tuesday night, in an effort to revive the Berlin talks of the four military governors on the East-West split over Berlin.

Coordination of the western policy in the next crucial conference at the Kremlin was completed late last night at a meeting of the so-called standing committee on Berlin, made up of representatives of the United States, Great Britain and France.

Instructions were sent to American Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith, French Ambassador Yves Chataigneau and special British representative Frank Roberts to seek an early meeting with Stalin.

It was learned tonight that the western envoys will complain that the Berlin talks broke down because Marshal Vassili D. Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor, sought to expand the talks beyond the terms of the directives which had been agreed upon at Moscow.

5 Germans Get 25-Yr. Terms

city government has remained in the city hall in the Soviet sector despite the fact that recent Communist riots drove the legislative branch of the city government out of city hall and into the British sector.

The various clerks and functionaries of the administrative branch of the city government are the only symbol of unity left in the grievously divided city.

Yesterday at a press conference, Dr. Friedensburg said the firing of city employes—both elected and appointive—in the Soviet sector had "caused the utmost danger to the city administration."

"Purely political motives have caused the Soviet occupation power to order the dismissal of persons whose only crime is a different political creed from communism," Dr. Friedensburg said.

Dr. Friedensburg said the firings reported to him now totaled nearly 400, including that of one borough mayor and 13 councilmen. Social Democratic Party headquarters put the figure at over 500.

At the same time Berlin newspapers reported that Communists in meetings held over the weekend have been making final plans for seizure of power and installation of a "dictatorship of the proleteriat."

The Liberal Democratic newspaper Montags Echo reported that Communist cadres have already received arms and training to turn them into reinforcements for east sector police in the event of trouble from the population. The training of Communist squads to use weapons has been known to western Allied intelligence for some time.

The Communist campaign to distract and unnerve the Berlin populace, according to the Liberal Democratic newspaper, will be aided by the Soviet military administration's promise that more Russian planes would be sent up over Berlin to make difficult the western powers' air lift.

The Soviet War Memorial was projected into the battle for Berlin again today by a shot fired by an unknown sniper last midnight.

The memorial, built by the Red army to immortalize the conquest of Berlin, lies just inside the British sector.

A British officer who investigated last night's incident was shown "a small chipped indentation which might have been caused by a shot," a British report said.

It said the officer was "not allowed to touch the hole or otherwise examine it and therefore was unable to estimate the range at which the reported shot had been fired or the size of the bullet, or to establish that the damage was in fact caused by a bullet."

2 U. S. Jets Crash

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Two United States F-80 jet fighter planes heading for the Battle of Britain celebrations in London, crashed today in Bavaria. Both pilots were believed killed, Air Force headquarters reported.

A third jet plane in a group of eight made a safe emergency landing at Biarritz, France.

Paris, Sept. 13 (AP).—Delegates of the Big Four powers disagreed today on whether they constitute a foreign ministers' council, leaving scant hope they can work out an accord on the future of Italy's pre-war colonies before a September 15 deadline.

After the fruitless first session, Etienne Burin Des Roziers, French colonial expert, said only that the four nations might agree on one of the colonies, Italian Somaliland. A British spokesman said he saw little chance of any agreement.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky accused the United States and Britain of violating the Italian peace pact by failing to send the foreign ministers to the conference.

He got a quick answer from Lewis Douglas, United States Ambassador to Britain and Hector McNeil, British Minister of State. They told Vishinsky they were fully authorized to make decisions on the colonial issues in the name of their respective governments.

Vishinsky said he did not have that authority. He said he could only discuss settlement of the questions.

Most of today's meeting therefore became a lengthy argument as to whether it was in fact a foreign ministers' council as established by the Potsdam pact.

Vishinsky said it was only a conference of "representatives" of the big four powers to discuss the Italian colonial question.

French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman supported Douglas and McNeil.

Without reaching a decision on the point, the conferees adjourned until 11 a. m. Tuesday (5 a. m., EST) when the report on the Italian colonies will be considered.

Today's session in the French Foreign Ministry, with Schuman presiding, broke up after four and a half hours of discussion.

Unless an agreement on disposition of the colonies is reached by Wednesday, the subject will be given to the United Nations Assembly, which convenes here September 21.

The colonies are Libya, Italian Somaliland and Eritrea.

American, British and French officials, who outlined today's discussions for newsmen, said there was agreement in principle for placing Italian Somaliland under Italian trusteeship, but that four or five secondary points on this issue still were to be ironed out.

Italy Premier Amends Dewey Colony Message

Rome, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Government quarters today undertook to correct an "erroneous impression in the United States" resulting from Premier Alcide de Gasperi's recent message to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York regarding Italy's former African colonies.

In his message, de Gasperi said that Italy "is not looking for adventures in Africa, but for work and civil cooperation with autonomously organized African populations."

Orphan in Berlin

Reds Given Custody of Girl Cripple

Berlin, Sept. 13 (AP).—A 14-year-old crippled girl claimed by the Soviet Union as a citizen was turned over to Russian authorities on order of the United States military commandant of Berlin on September 6, it was revealed today. Helena Kerlenko of Ukrainian parentage.

Helena

The International Refugee Organization said on September 2 it had asked the surrender be delayed pending an investigation.

Col. Frank Howley, United States military commandant, said today the IRO is not recognized by the four-power government of Berlin. He added the girl was turned over according to four-power agreements that citizens of any of the four powers must be returned from any occupation sector on demand.

"There were no political angles," Howley added.

The case came to public attention when a Soviet ambulance with a Russian doctor appeared to demand the girl's custody from a hospital where she was an infantile paralysis patient. She had been in a German hospital in the Soviet sector at the end of the war. She had become separated from her parents and probably is an orphan.

Howley said he had been assured she will receive "adequate medical care."

U. S. Praised In British King's Speech

London, Sept. 13 (AP).—Britain's third labor-dominated session of Parliament closed today with a plea from King George VI for "an increasing degree of union" among western European countries.

The traditional King's Speech—written by Labor ministers as a declaration of policy — praised American aid to western Europe as "farsighted and generous."

The King was absent, but Tuesday he will drive in state to open a special 10-day session of Parliament called to speed up the government's program to limit the powers of the House of Lords.

But overshadowing the old fight about the power of the Lords to delay Labor government legislation will be the increasing tension over Germany. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is expected to make a statement on the Berlin negotiations later this week.

In his message today, the King said the government leaders "are still doing their utmost to reach agreement with the Soviet Union on the fundamental problems affecting Germany as a whole."

Young Man Kills Self On Atlantic City Beach

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13 (U.P.).—A young man was found shot to death on the beach today, and police identified him through cards in his wallet as Paul J. Koval, Yonkers, N. Y. "I hate to be a cripple," said a note beside the body.

in stressing the strategic importance of Japan.

"I know our Chinese, Philippine and Australian friends fear Japan and with some reason," said the general. "But if I lived in the Pacific I wouldn't worry about a boy in the corner when there's a big fellow behind me with a baseball bat.

"Japan is a pigmy nation in a military way today unless someone takes him by the hand. If we pull out our troops, somebody will."

Eichelberger said "you don't have to be a Father Walsh" (referring to Rev. Dr. Edmund J. Walsh of Georgetown) to see the "geopolitical importance of Japan. Should one power get possession of both the Japanese islands and the Kuriles, we could well wonder "who won the war," he added.

The former commander of the famed Eighth Army, who fought the Nips from New Guinea through the Philippines and then helped rule them as General MacArthur's troop commander, talked to reporters after being decorated by Army Secretary Kenneth Royall. He received a third oak leaf cluster to his Distinguished Service Medal.

Eichelberger said that if we armed and trained a force of 200,000 Japanese "or perhaps even 150,000," it would be able to "guard bridges, preserve internal order and put down any Red uprising."

Asked if he would rearm Japan further to enable her to protect herself against external aggression, level" for him to answer.

But he stressed weakness of the Japanese police force of some 125,000 men. The "sad-looking" group has but 18,000 pistols—"only some of which shoot"—and isn't strong enough to guard New York City, he said.

Eichelberger said that in his opinion the Japanese people—except for the Reds—do not want the American forces to leave. He praised the bravery of the Japanese "simple man" and declared they were an "officer's dream" as soldiers.

The war atrocities, he declared, were the work of the "military caste," which was deliberately trained in brutality.

As a result of the impressive American victory and the fair way American troops have treated them since, the Japanese people have a genuine respect for the United States.

Eichelberger said he expected he would settle here for the time being if he could find an apartment. He expects to write a book. Eichelberger declined to comment. He said he had his own ideas, but that the question was too "high

Hyderabad Claims Indian Invasion Halted; Premier Says Troops Will Be Driven Out on the Tungsbdra River in the south in the Hospet sector; from Bezwada on the east and in the Aurangabad and Balharshan sectors on the north.

The state—about the size of Minnesota—is a land island surrounded by Indian territory. India claims disorder is rife in Hyderabad and that the fabulously rich Nizam (ruler) has refused to disband private Moslem armies such as the Razakars. The Nizam also is understood to have strong state forces at his command.

The state and the dominion have been at odds for months because the Nizam, Gen. H. E. H. Sir Mir Osman Ali Khan, has refused to accede to Hindu India.

India said in the invasion proclamation that as soon as "a government which will maintain a rule of law and conform with the will of the people is established" the troops will leave. It also was announced that the people then would be given an opportunity to decide their future, apparently through a plebiscite.

Despite announced evacuation plans, approximately 200 Britishers and 30 Americans remained in Hyderabad. Most of the Americans were missioneries and chose to remain.

Chakravarthi Rajagopalachari, Governor General of India, tonight issued a proclamation declaring a grave emergency exists where the security of India is threatened by internal disturbance. The edict gives extraordinary powers to police, military and the courts to meet any emergency.

A home ministry official emphasized, however, no communal disturbance had been reported.

Hyderabad Appeals To U. N. Council

Paris, Sept. 13 (AP).—Hyderabad today asked the United Nations Security Council to meet within three days on India's invasion of the princely state.

A U. N. official said the Council could be called together by Wednesday but that so far no U. N. member has asked for a session on Hyderabad.

(Arab sources said recently in Alexandria that the Arab League would offer to mediate the dispute and should the plan be rejected, Lebanon would bring the case before the U. N.)

Najimuddin Reported Made Pakistan Head

Karachi, Pakistan, Sept. 13 (U.P.), Sir Khwaja Nazimuddin, 54-year-old provincial Premier of Bengal, was reported named today to succeed the late Mohammed Ali Jinnah as governor general of Pakistan.

The appointment came one day after Jinnah, beloved Moslem leader and founder of Pakistan, was buried with full military honors. He died Saturday night of a heart attack.

Nazimuddin was educated in England and admitted to the bar there.

Today's invasion of Hyderabad by India has caused observers to fear a war might be touched off between India and Pakistan.

The new governor general takes over also at a time when Pakistan and India are engaged in a bitter dispute over which will control the state of Kashmir.

Lower Air Line Fares Approved by CAB

The Civil Aeronautics Board has approved new, lower fares for both American Airlines and United Air Lines DC-6 planes, officials of both companies announced last night.

The new fares, which go into effect today, will give passengers on both lines a 5 per cent discount on round trip rates.

In addition to the discount, both lines have elminated extra fares on their DC-6's.

Rickenbacker Urges Speedup on Planes

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said last night that military aircraft production should be shifted into high gear immediately as the surest means of preventing an attack by Russia.

Describing Soviet leaders as the "brutalitarians of the Kremlin," the Eastern Air Lines president said they "exploit weakness but shrink away from strength."

The World War I air ace addressed Government and civic leaders at a preview showing of the motion picture "Air Power Is Peace Power," a technicolor history of air power in which Rickenbacker does the main narration. The picture will be shown at movie houses and newsreel theaters across the country.

The premiere last night, at the Statler Hotel, was attended by several members of the cabinet, high and low ranking officers of the Air Force, the Army and Navy, and heads of many executive agencies.

In his speech, Rickenbacker said that Russia, "being stronger than we are as of this moment and in the near future, may decide to attack rather than wait while we gather strength, this despite our monopoly of the atom bomb."

He said American air power—the sum total of combat and cargo planes—should be made invincible even if that means spending "billions as if they were beans" and cutting out "charity and the dole for other nations."

The airline president was critical of the Air Force purchasing program. He said that only 127 of the 2200 planes ordered for the current year are cargo-carrying types. Cargo planes available today, he added, "wouldn't be a start" on the wartime needs of the armed forces.

"Let us face the fact," he went on, "that from a standpoint of preparedness, America stands today an open and unprotected foundation without even the benefit of a storm cellar to seek shelter in should the holocaust of war break loose."

He said the recent highly publicized New York Air Show was not a demonstration of air might but of "our ineffective and inadequate air power in being."

"The string of skeletonized formations was a ghost fleet of World War II planes interspersed with a handful of drawing board dreams that will come true much too slowly and much too late unless we open the purse strings for all-out production," he said.

What is needed, he said, is a "wartime hot, hard and heavy around-the-clock schedule" of military plane production and not the present "spaced and dribbling pace over a year-by-year timetable."

Some of 55 D. C. Draftees Due for Call

Some of the 55 Washington men who are to be drafted in November may be tapped today by District Selective Service.

Classification of registrants will get under way at 2:30 p. m. at Selective Service headquarters, 19th and D sts. nw., when Board No. 1 has its first business session. Others of the District's 15 boards will meet through the week.

The November quota of 55 will be filled by men from the 25- and 24-year-age groups, Selective Service officials figure. Most questionnaires already returned are of those classifications, since the men were the first to get them.

Nearly 41,000 Washington men from 18 through 25 have registered for the peacetime draft, according to the latest tally. Selective Service officials predict the number of men who will have registered when the period closes Saturday may exceed 50,000.

Men born in 1928 will register today, followed by men born in 1929 on Wednesday and Thursday. Registration will wind up Friday and Saturday with men born in 1930 before September 19. Men reaching 18 after that are required to register with their draft boards.

Lieut. Col. Walter S. Welsh, chief of the local draft's manpower division, yesterday announced that men inducted in November to fill the District's 55-man quota "probably will be taken 10 at a time."

Army Plans to Hire Its Own Stevedores

The Army announced last night that it will hire its own West Coast stevedores to handle cargoes for its Far Eastern outposts because of the West Coast maritime strike.

The announcement was made by Army Secretary Kenneth C. Royall, who said that all except one of the West Coast stevedore contractors and charter vessel operators have either refused to haul Army cargoes during the current strike or have failed to indicate their intentions by the Army's deadline of 7 p. m., Eastern daylight time, yesterday.

"Under the circumstances, the Army will undertake to employ at its regular West Coast port employment offices such stevedores and associated personnel as are needed to handle essential Army cargo," Royall said.

"The pay rates will be those in effect on the West Coast before the strike," he said. "All those employes must sign the usual Army loyalty affidavit."

An Army spokesman said the affidavit requires the employe to swear that he is not a member "of any political party or organization that advocates the overthrow of the Government by force or violence . . .")

The Army said that the one line which has not turned down the Army request is the Pacific Far East Lines, which "have requested a 48-hour extension in which to reach a decision."

The management representatives turned down the Army's request to move its cargoes on the grounds that they would not deal with Communist party-line leadership, self-sworn to the destruction of American shipping." The owners have refused to reopen negotiations until officers of the striking unions have taken non-Communist oaths.

Harry Bridges, CIO longshoremen's president, said the five maritime unions would load and sail Army cargoes, freeing some 50 to 75 ships at prestrike wages and working conditions.

The Army ships about 250,000 tons of cargo a month to Hawaii, Japan, Okinawa, Korea and other Far Eastern bases.

D. C. Guard To Give Ball

National Guard Day, falling on Thursday, will be observed by the District National Guard with a military ball Saturday at the Armory, 2001 East Capitol st. The event also will celebrate Air Force Day.

President Truman established Thursday as National Guard Day by proclamation. This is the eighth anniversary of the Guard's entry into Federal service. This year it also marks the end of the second year of the Guard's reorganization since the end of the war.

Tht Guard is conducting a recruiting drive during September, October and November in most areas aimed to bring units up to ceiling strength, in others to maintain such strength.

The strength ceiling set by Congress for this fiscal year is 341,000, and units in several States already have exceeded their proportionate allotments. But the Guard still needs men to fill vacancies under ceilings and replace losses inevitable in voluntary organizations, and to expand when the strength ceiling is raised at the end of this fiscal year.

The District Guard's ground forces are now approximately at ceiling, but selected recruits are being accepted as replacements for members moving from the District. Veterans with more than 90 days and less than a year of ervice also are being accepted. Its air units are under authorized strength and are recruiting actively. There also are some vacancies for officers. The ultimate strength of the District Guard is set at 4025.

West Coast Oil Strike Cuts Gas Deliveries

By The Associated Press

While talks continued to end the CIO oil workers' strike yesterday, gasoline deliveries to West Coast service stations were cut 25 per cent in a conservation move.

The strike over wages involves 16,000 workers and 6 companies.

Federal conciliators are currently sitting with the union and companies in talks to end the 10-day old dispute.

GEORGIE MARTIN

Detroit, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—A pretty law student said tonight that her ailing father wrote letters in her name to three Western newspapers offering marriage to anyone who had $7000 to pay the mortgage on their home and provide her "the means for a happy life."

Miss Georgie Martin, 19, said her father made the offer in letters to newspapers in Boise, Idaho; Helena, Mont., and Cheyenne, Wyo.

"Dad did it all," she said, "but he thought he was doing the right thing."

Miss Martin said the first she heard of the offer was when she arrived home today to find her house besieged by reporters.

Tobin Urges Law to Replace Taft Act

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP).—Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin today proposed new Federal laws to replace the Taft-Hartley Act.

Tobin said the new laws should "insure free and effective bargaining, determine rights of employes and employers in the light of public interest, reduce conflict to a minimum and enable unions to keep their membership free from Communist influence."

He spoke to some 2000 delegates at the twenty-third annual convention of the AFL Electrical Workers.

Tobin called the Taft-Hartley Act a "piece of class legislation" which has placed "restrictions on democratic union operation."

"But worse, and more dangerous, is the threat that the rugged individualist employers of the country will be able in depression times to use the act for purposes of union-busting and wage-cutting," Tobin said.

He told the convention "the danger is great of a bust and a depression, since we have reached a very high point in a traditional boom."

Then, he made his only references to the current political situation, saying "even at this late date, I believe some action can be taken if the Congress will follow the proposals made in the President's anti-inflation program."

Missing Witness Postpones Hearing

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—A missing "key Government witness" held up deportation hearings today against Claudia Jones, Communist women's leader.

The Government moved to adjourn the proceedings when the unnamed witness did not appear, District Immigration Director W. F. Watkins said.

Miss Jones, a native of Trinidad, had refused to take the stand. She said she would defend herself when the "air is not filled with hysteria."

The Government, she said, "instead of prosecuting the Ku Klux Klan, the anti-Semites and the reactionaries, is arresting the anti-Fascists."

She was charged with belonging to a group advocating forceful overthrow of the Government.

A small group picketed outside with placards calling the hearing "illegal."

Another Communist national committeeman, Jack Stachel, obtained a Federal Court order to make the Government show cause why it should not delay deportation hearings against him.

spokesman explained that these letters had been turned over to the New York police authorities, who would decide whether or not to publish them.

Categorically Rejects Charges

The Russians have cited these letters as evidence that Mrs. Kasenkina was "kidnaped," with the help of FBI agents, to the headquarters of the Tolstoy Foundation. The department said in its new note that it "must categorically reject as without any basis in fact the wholly unsubstantiated accusations made against the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the welfare organization known as the Tolstoy Foundation.

As for letting Soviet officials here see the two teachers, the new note argued that "compliance with this request would be incompatible with the principles of law on which the United States Government was founded and to which it adheres."

Teachers' Freedom Assured

"The persons of individuals in the United States are not liable to restraint or compulsion except in accordance with duly enacted statutes and subject to constitutional safeguards," the note declared.

"It is a matter exclusively for the determination of Mrs. Kasenkina and Mr. Samarin whether they will see the representatives of the Soviet government.

"Upon her recovery and departure from the hospital, Mrs. Kasenkina will continue to be free to see whomsoever she wishes, and, of course, she will enjoy complete freedom of movement.

"Mr. Samarin has stated under oath to a subcommittee of the Congress, before which he appeared at his own request, that he determined voluntarily and on his own initiative to renounce his Soviet citizenship and to remain in the United States. He, of course, enjoys complete freedom of movement and can see whomsoever he wishes.

"In these circumstances, the United States Government must consider the matter closed."

The note also informed the Russians that the American consulate at Vladivostok was closed August 27, and that the building would be vacated as soon as possible. Consul Scott Lyon and his staff are expected to leave Russia by way of the Trans-Siberian Railway and Moscow.

U. M. to Register Students for 18 Pentagon Classes

Registration for University of Maryland classes to be given in the Pentagon this fall will be held September 23, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., in Room 5 B 458, the Military District of Washington announced yesterday.

The classes, part of the Army and Air Force off-duty education program, will run for 16 weeks beginning September 27. They are open to military and certain qualified civilian personnel within the Washington Military District.

The 18 classes offered include mathematics, composition and world literature, history, economics, criminology, psychology, public speaking and the military policy of the United States. Most subjects carry both graduate and undergraduate credit.

Passes Offered for Subscriptions

Music lovers with a flair for salesmanship were beckoned yesterday by the National Symphony Orchestra Association.

The association is offering a free season subscription to National Symphony concerts this year to any person who obtains six subscriptions to the Wednesday evening or Sunday afternoon series from persons who did not subscribe last year.

The first person to sell six new subscriptions will receive in addition to the season pass a "personality scarf" designed by Charles Latshaw, president of the Washington Fashion Designers' Institute.

Groups not eligible to participate are school and organization purchasers of large blocks of tickets which already receive a discount.

Franchot Tone Heir

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—Franchot Tone, movie actor; his brother, F. Jerome Tone, jr., and his mother, Mrs. Gertrude Tone, will share the estate of $936,499 left by his father, the late Dr. Frank J. Tone, former president of the Carborundum Co., who died in 1944.

GIVE YOUR PREWAR BUICK today's ZIP and GO with this complete, brand-new Fireball engine

THERE'S a brisk new snap to the air and the open road is calling with a siren-song your Buick loves to answer.

Why not climb in and go places—not with your present, time-dimmed power, but with all the zip and zing of a brand-new 1948 Fireball engine?

In just a day or two, we can put a fresh-from-the-factory 1948 Fireball engine under the bonnet of any Buick from 1937 models on. And it will be ALL NEW—fully equipped with every one of the items listed in the panel.

All the thousands of miles of driving you've done are left behind in our shop. In their place, you have miles and miles of carefree, new-engine driving—and a car that will be worth more when trade-in time comes.

Best of all, the job doesn't cost as much as you think. It varies a bit from model to model, but it's always low enough to make this deal a prize bargain.

Come in and let us quote you the exact figure for making your Buick a 1948-powered car.

Pay as you drive if you wish

Atom Bomb Leaks Laid to Engineer

held until either Friday or sometime next week.

The atomic bomb phase of the committee investigation, Thomas emphasized, is only one aspect of the current inquiry into Communist and Communist espionage in the United States.

The committee, Thomas said, plans a full report on the investigation into the activities of Alger Hiss, former policy-making State Department official, now $20,000-a-year head of the Carnegie Peace Foundation.

Changed Testimony

Hiss, who at first denied knowing Whittaker Chambers, $30,000-a-year Time Magazine editor, who had described Hiss as a member of an "elite" group of secret Communists dedicated to getting places in the Government, subsequently changed his testimony under oath and admitted that he had known Chambers under another name.

Harris & Ewing
ERIC BERNAYS
Testifies in Closed Session

The missing Adams, Thomas declared, had been described in testimony as a man of Finnish ancestry with a Canadian education. He said that to the best of his knowledge Adams had never worked for the Federal Government.

Thomas said that Adams' activities under study by the committee were subsequent to 1943. He declared he could not say when Adams fled the United States but he believed it was probably after the war.

Fur Liner Heard

Meanwhile another group on Capitol Hill was busy inquiring into Communist activities in the United States. A House Labor subcommittee heard testimony from a New York fur liner that the Fur Workers Union (CIO), whose president is Ben Gold, a member of the Communist Party National Executive Committee, seized delivery books of nonunion contractors to get evidence for assessing fines against unionized firms which do business with those contractors.

Morris Coopersmith, president of the American Fur Liner Association in New York City, told the subcommittee headed by Chairman Max Schwabe (R., Mo.) that the union trails messenger boys making deliveries of finished garments to union shops.

Use Books as Evidence

The union members, Coopersmith charged, then seize the delivery boys' books recording the work performed, and use the books as evidence against the manufacturer to levy fines for dealing with a nonunion contractor.

"Do you mean that they grab the books off the boy physically?" shot Representative Wingate H. Lucas (D., Tex.).

"If he don't give it to 'em physically, they break his neck," Coopersmith replied.

Coopersmith said the union picked on him and "murdered all my customers."

"By murder, I trust you mean in an economic way," commented Schwabe.

"Yes," replied Coopersmith.

Fines Kill Business

Coopersmith said he was being driven out of business by the CIO Fur Workers Union because of the fines levied against manufacturers who contract with him.

He said the union requires manufacturers dealing with him to pay fines up to $2000 for contracting with him and other nonunion liners to finish fur garments. His own brother, he declared, was threatened with a beating by union leaders if he were found delivering garments to manufacturers. His brother then quit his delivery job, the witness said.

Asked about New York City police protection, Coopersmith replied:

"The union money is more than our money. We cannot afford to pay graft. When you want a cop, you cannot get a cop."

Won't Hire Non-Union Men

A plant manager employed by I. J. Fox Co., Morris Farber of New York, testified that he never hires nonunion fur workers because he knows "the shop would be pulled out on strike."

Reminded that a closed shop is illegal, Farber said "there is no sense in me putting on a nonunion man."

On May Day, celebrated in Russia and some other countries as Labor Day, the union orders the workers out of the shops, Farber declared, "and there is nothing you can do about it."

"You're just supine," commented Lucas. "You let that union run over you any way it likes."

The Thomas committee will question today among others, Steve Nelson, of Pittsburgh, described by the committee as a Communist organizer, and Dr. Martin D. Kamen, of Washington University, St. Louis, employed at the radiation laboratory in Berkeley, Calif., during the war.

Italy Turns Down Pardon Deal With Rampaging Bandit

Rome, Sept. 13 (NYHT).—Communists and their allies protested tonight as the Italian parliament opened that the De Gasperi government has given spectacular evidence of "incapacity" in its failure to capture the young bandit, Salvatore Giuliano, a former farmer. They said Giuliano and other bandits are so strong within 15 miles of Sicily's capital city, Palermo, that police are unable to punish crimes in that area.

Minister of the Interior Mario Scelba admitted to parliament that Giuliano had been sufficiently brazen recently as to establish connection with the government in an effort to receive a pardon for his crimes as the basis for a discontinuance of his five-year war with the police. Scelba said the Italian government let Giuliano know that "we do not deal with bandits."

Berlin Provocation

The critical nature of the Berlin situation has been further aggravated by wild and irresponsible charges from a Russian general sent to the former German capital for that special purpose. Lieut. Gen. Ivan Gordejev is the head of a 10-man Soviet delegation that attended the Communist-sponsored rally in the Lustgarten on Sunday. His masters in the Kremlin had undoubtedly told him to charge that "American imperialism has chosen the same path as that previously taken by German fascism" and to declare that "imperialistic America" is the enemy of the future. This lying assault comes at a time when American, British and French diplomats in Moscow are negotiating with the Soviet Union in an effort to find a solution for the Berlin impasse. The general got precisely nowhere with his invective, and the Russians must realize by this time that, as propaganda among the Germans, their blockade of Berlin has become a deadly boomerang.

For this reason the Kremlin is frantic with the effort to maneuver the United States into an unfavorable position before world opinion. In the negotiations at Moscow Mr. Molotov has repeatedly tried to divert attention from the issues at stake to minor points of difference on which Russia thinks she can make a good case. The Russians' game is to discredit the United States as a fascist aggressor, and if they could provoke a hostile act on the part of any irresponsible American group it would be so much grist to their mill. The people on this side of the iron curtain should never forget that we are dealing with a coterie of ruthless strategists. Nor can we afford to forget that distortion and open falsification is part of the day's work for Kremlin emissaries. Neither their desperation nor their verbal belligerence calls for any emulation on the part of people whose objective is a free world that, in spite of differences, can live in peace.

Bulwark Of Democracy

Nothing—no military measures, no foreign policy, no economic program—will so definitively shape the future of the United States as the treatment accorded some 25 million young Americans who this week will enter or return to the classrooms of this country's public schools. America will be, a decade or two hence, what these Americans make it. And their capacities will inevitably be determined in large part by the advantages, or limitations, of the education they receive.

It is certain that the schooling of a great many of these Americans is going to be far inferior to what it might be. They are going to be crowded into inadequate buildings; according to the Office of Education, the space shortage will be the "worst of any time in American history." They are going to have teachers, in many instances, inadequately trained for their jobs; last year about 98,000 emergency permits were issued to substandard teachers, and the number will not be much lower this year. The ratio of teachers to pupils is going to be so low as to forbid the kind of individual attention necessary to foster special aptitude and encourage those with special difficulties. And of course there are going to be, as in the past, extreme inequalities in educational opportunities among the several States of the Union; in many communities, so little money will be spent on schools and teachers as to make even minimum standards of decency in education an impossibility.

This situation is going to become more grievous and more acute in the years immediately ahead unless heroic measures are taken to correct it. As a result of the rise in births during the war and postwar years, public school enrollment is expected to increase to a level of close to 34 million by 1957. Construction of school buildings is not keeping pace with this increasing need. Training and recruitment of teachers is falling far short of the demand, in large part because teachers' salaries are insufficient to bring men and women of ability into the teaching profession.

Federal aid to education, and on a generous scale, is only one part of the remedy, although an indispensable one in view of the economic conditions in some of the States. An equally important part of the remedy must come through efforts at the local level—increased expenditures, and therefore increased taxation, for educational purposes, an increased sense of community responsibility for betterment of the local school system. Only the educated can cope with the complexities of contemporary life. What was true more than a century ago when Lord Brougham told it to the British House of Commons is even more true today: "Education makes a people easy to lead, but difficult to drive; easy to govern, but impossible to enslave." The United States is likely to maintain freedom precisely in the degree to which it equips its citizens to enjoy and to employ it.

Shield For Communists

A strong case can be made for new methods of obtaining testimony from recalcitrant witnesses in the so-called spy investigation as well as for fairer investigative methods. As matters stand, the most important witnesses are not required to testify. The result is that public attention is diverted to side issues, such as whether Alger Hiss or Whittaker Chambers is telling the truth. Mr. Hiss was one of seven persons named in the testimony of Mr. Chambers and Elizabeth Bentley who appeared before the Committee on Un-American Activities at their own request. Whether or not he was entangled with Communist cliques operating in Washington, his case can scarcely be regarded as the most important facet of the current investigation.

Far more significant, in our opinion, is the potential testimony of the witnesses who were subpenaed before the committee and who refused to give it any information on grounds of self-incrimination. This group includes such important former Government employes as Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, John Abt and Nathan Gregory Silvermaster. It would be ironical, indeed, if their pleas of self-incrimination should continue to shield them while the spotlight is turned on sideshows involving dramatic clashes of personalities. The greatest service to be rendered in this field is the exposure of communistic techniques and operations. To do this the committee will obviously have to get much closer to the center of the Communist movement than it has done to date.

It is encouraging to note that the committee is taking steps in this direction. J. V. Peters, alleged head of the Communist underground, who has refused to answer questions on grounds of self-incrimination, is apparently to be prosecuted for contempt of Congress. The outcome should help to clarify the status of witnesses before congressional investigating committees when they seek the protection of the Fifth Amendment. Meanwhile, the committee is seeking advice as to a new law under which it could compel witnesses to testify or suffer the consequences — presumably imprisonment for contempt.

Representative Nixon came out the other day for a law which would "make it absolutely clear that what anyone says in congressional testimony can't be used against him in a criminal trial." The problem is not to carry such grant of immunity too far. If Congress should give every witness complete protection against prosecution in connection with anything disclosed at a congressional investigation, many criminals would escape punishment. The conviction of Secretary Fall for taking a bribe and more recently of Bennett Meyers for inducing a witness to lie under oath grew out of congressional inquiries. But in the case of many witnesses subpenaed before congressional committees the value of having their stories told in public far exceeds the public interest in their possible prosecution for some crime that might be uncovered. The ten alleged Communists who are now hiding behind the Fifth Amendment may have committed no crime. At least in some of their cases the Government may be sacrificing nothing at all by giving them immunity to prosecution for anything they might disclose before the Thomas or Ferguson committees.

It is significant that the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Securities and Exchange Commission and various other administrative units now have the authority to grant witnesses appearing in their inquiries complete immunity from prosecution for any wrongdoing they may confess. But such immunity is granted on a highly selective basis. If a witness says that he cannot answer the question put to him without incriminating himself, the agency has to decide whether to grant him immunity and compel him to testify or let him stand on his right and seek evidence of his possible misconduct from other sources. The system seems to maintain a nice balance between the advantage of compelling testimony and the disadvantage of granting general immunity. We think there is good reason for Congress to grant its investigating committees similar power to decide in each instance whether complete immunity is to be given in the interests of full disclosure. In the case of the Communist conspiracy full light on what is taking place will certainly buttress our security more than possible punishment of individuals for relatively minor offenses.

Political Football

Back from the South, where he was pelted with eggs and over-ripe fruit, Henry Wallace is now running into barrages of a different sort from the least suspicious quarters. Even Moscow is taking him to task for heresy. This may be only a return slap for Mr. Wallace's repudiation of Comrade Lysenko's strange notions of heredity which have been elevated to the status of party gospel in Russia. But in any event the New Times, internationally circulated Moscow journal, has taken an unfriendly swing at Mr. Wallace's "naive and utopian" ideas about capitalism. Poor Mr. Wallace is simple enough to believe in "the possibility of establishing a 'progressive' capitalism in the United States and of 'reforming' the capitalist system." That single statement is sufficient to indicate what would happen to Mr. Wallace if, God forbid, he should ever ride to power on the wave of Communist support now behind him.

This Communist deprecation of Mr. Wallace had scarcely found its mark when another blow landed in a still more vulnerable spot. Mr. Walter White, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, accused the third-party candidate of encouraging racial segregation while he was Secretary of Agriculture and Secretary of Commerce. The former Vice President is learning what many before him have known—that the chief utility of a third party in the United States is to provide a candidate that everyone feels free to kick around.

Conflict In India

The loss of Jinnah, like the loss of Gandhi, removes a pillar of accommodation in the affairs of India and Pakistan, as may soon be demonstrated. Kashmir may be less susceptible to settlement, and armed conflict has now broken out in Hyderabad to add to the troubles caused by the conflict in Kashmir. Both are princely states which stayed outside the partition between India and Pakistan. Kashmir has a Hindu ruler and a Moslem population, and abuts upon both India and Pakistan; Hyderabad is an island in the heart of India, with a Moslem prince and a Hindu population.

The trouble in Kashmir is of direct concern to the United Nations, since both India and Pakistan are member nations. Yet the United Nations Commission to India and Pakistan has reported failure of its efforts to bring about a truce in Kashmir. Both contestants "accepted" the commission's cease-fire proposal, but with so many conditions unpalatable to the other party as to amount to rejection. The fighting that has been going on somewhat covertly between Indian troops and Kashmiri tribesmen backed by Pakistan is now out in the open. If not yet acknowledged as such, it is in fact warfare between two members of the British Commonwealth as well as two members of the United Nations, and both must continue the use of their good offices in promoting a just settlement.

If the trouble in Hyderabad is local, it is, nonetheless, of concern to the outside world, which wants to see India, as well as Pakistan, get over its birth pains, and settle down to a healthy statehood. No doubt Hyderabad is an anachronism, with turmoil in its history, moreover, which seems to have come to life again, now that the British have withdrawn their garrison. But the facts of the dispute, like the facts about Kashmir, are not altogether clear enough to allow judgment of India's invasion of Hyderabad. The given reason is to "insure security." Nehru's choice of words sounds like mailed-fist statesmanship, but there appears to have been a good deal of provocation in border disturbances, though we have only India's word for it.

It is now 13 months since the British withdrew from India and left Hindus and Moslems to find their own way to mutual tolerance and self-government. The results to date, while certainly discouraging at the moment, have been far better than the seers of disaster predicted and far better than might, indeed, have been expected. No one thought—or could have thought—that the division of India into two or more parts would be simple. It has been a task of incredible proportions and complexities, and on balance it has been carried out successfully. But the subcontinent needs a great measure of statesmanship to carry it over the shoals of political birth, particularly in the relations between India and Pakistan.

Descent To Demagogy

The political campaign is getting off to a start that is different in at least one respect from the usual pattern. Most campaigns, if our memory is correct, begin on a relatively high plane and sink toward political depravity only at the end of their course. Mr. Oscar Ewing, Federal Security administrator, has descended right to the bottom of the trough in his first oratorical effort for the Democratic candidate.

Mr. Ewing spoke in Richmond last Thursday at the annual conference of the National Urban League, an interracial organization that has carefully eschewed politics in the 38 years of its efforts for Negro betterment. A Republican victory, he ominously warned, "will wipe out every vestige of social and economic progress which the American Negro has made during the past decade and a half." This is the sort of claptrap that many politicians indulge in. It has little effect except on the speaker's own reputation. The administrator went a good deal further down, however, when he declared that "every Negro that loves his race should be fighting for the reelection of President Truman." Any Negro who votes otherwise, Mr. Ewing said, is "betraying his race." This, it seems to us, is not so much an appeal for votes as it is a demand that Negro citizens vote en bloc as Negroes, putting the interests of their race—as Mr. Ewing interprets those interests—ahead of any other interests of citizenship or of the general welfare.

We do not for a moment suppose that Negro voters will not and should not take into consideration the advantages they may suppose accrue to them from having Mr. Truman in the White House, or vice versa. That is but natural to the members of any group having the common interests of a minority. But an outright appeal to race as the sole justification for partisan support is quite another thing. Mr. Ewing's demagoguery is so reprehensible as to merit the repudiation it will surely get—if not from the Democratic leadership at least from the Negro leadership.

Berlin Solution

If we would terminate the crisis at Berlin:

(1) Let us demand that all Russian personnel leave the enclave and that we be ceded a land route to it.

(2) Let us de-symbolize the city by removing from it all offices governing western Germany, by retaining there only the staff necessary to provision all of its sectors, by returning municipal control to the Germans, and by issuing a scrip valid only in the metropolis.

(3) Let us enforce this settlement by the immediate and final cessation of the airlift.

The alternatives would be so punitive that the Russian government would have to accede to our terms, and rather sooner than later. If it could not maintain exemplary living conditions in the city, Berlin would have no attraction for either the Ost or the Westdeutsche.

If Russia fed Berlin at the expense of its satellites, it would endanger its position in Eastern Europe. If it did nothing, the citizens would riot and plunder the countryside. If it deliberately sought to starve them, the American conscience would resolve to bring them relief even if it meant war, the Communist Party cannot wage a war, for it has neither an armed force in front of it nor a nation behind it.

This policy would stabilize the situation in Germany. Berlin would be neutral, but entirely supported by the United States. The Rusian government would establish Weimar, or some other city in its zone, as the capital of an authoritarian German state. We would endeavor to make Frankfurt the permanent seat of a German confederation which the eastern lander would ultimately join. TACITUS.

Foreign Films

A more than normally glaring ineptitude in caption writing for a foreign film is to be found in the excellent French Lover's Return, now in Washington. Toward the end there is a witty scene in which a salty, worldly-wise beldame advises the cynic Jouvet that he has had enough fun at the expense of his old enemies and that it is time to cry quits. At the end of this she rises to her feet with an airy, "Don't bother to see me out." The English caption on the screen translates this one for the benefit of Washington's aficionados as "Please don't send me away!"

I have the suspicion that Washington film audiences are not awfully hep to French—a suspicion confirmed by an occasional pilot laugh which I introduce at tragic moments. Thus a character on the screen may announce, "Alas! Old Mme. Sanglier has just shot herself in the bocage," and before the caption has time to appear I laugh uproariously. The audience usually follows suit, checking itself a moment later in some bewilderment when it sees what actually has been said (or an approximation of it).

Without going into the merits of the system of teaching French in the schools, a system which it seems to me must be a little on the sketchy side, it is clear that the Russians are missing an outsize bet in the cold war. Far from stopping Hollywood films at the iron curtain, Stalin should be busy smearing them all over his tundra. But first, of course, they should be exposed for butchering purposes to the Muscovite counterparts of the boys who do the captioning for foreign films in this country.

Thus an original showing Randolph Scott, say, striding into the traditional Western saloon, knocking back his three jolts of Old Redeye, glancing coolly at the bad man, and drawling, "Pardner, if you aims to draw, better draw quick," might emerge for the baffled citizenry of Sverdlovsk as "Comrade, if you are planning to draw then let us by all means attend the People's Art School together."

And the resultant gunplay would, no doubt, be attributed by the audience to a falling out over the rival merits of oil and watercolor. RENE MacCALL.

Two-Way Inflation

In reviewing all the comments of our high meat values, in fact the high cost of living in general, experience tells the inflation spiral got a definite start when Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace started killing off our expectant mother hogs and millions of little pigs, plowing under our food and other commodity crops, 16 years ago to inflate values.

That it was further boosted up when the Administration sustained the policies of Mr. John L. Lewis in striking for higher wages which, of course, inflated all things that follow labor.

The definite cause of high meat costs today is traeable to when the Administration violated its own control laws, inflating the price of corn and wheat to send it overseas and not raising the controlled live stock values on an equal basis. A farmer having 1000 bushels of corn and wheat could get $2250 cash for it from the Government whereas if he fed it to livestock at the controlled values, he would only net about $1600. Of course he sold the grain and millions of young immature livestock went to the slaughter pen, eliminating our future supply.

However, why pick on meats all the time? The leaders in the milk industry are so powerful in our Federal, State and city politics that during the past 16 years control laws have been enacted that allow them to demand a pure, high, quality milk from the producers and then to take off about 19 per cent of the cream content from every quart of pure milk before they sell it. On butter, the farmer is asked to produce along with his milk and cream on a 100 per cent butter fat standard. The standard under which butter is sold to you is on 80 per cent. In simple figures, for every 400 pounds of butter fat they pay the farmer for, they make and sell to you 500 pounds of butter.

Congress' Concern

"How Did Atomic Energy Information Leak Out to the Damn Scientists in the First Place", is the heading of a cartoon lampooning the Un-American Committee by a character who signs his name "Herblock", published September 12.

The smart employes of The Washington Post should know that two billion dollars was appropriated by Congress for this atomic bomb project. Then why does not the Congress elected by the American voters have an interest in the scientists whom this money was spent to employ at much higher wages than paid in their respective colleges?

Laissez-Faire

Tut, tut. Since when is the lone word "uncontrolled" a true translation of what is meant by "laissez-faire"?

(See the Associated Press dispatch of September 3 on the church report amendment engineered in Amsterdam by Charles P. Taft, younger brother of the Senator, as well as ensuing news items and editorials.)

As a noun, "laissez-faire" first meant a do-nothing government policy in France. Thence the meaning is twisted to "uncontrolled" (as to trade, industry, capital, etc.).

But is the distinguished lawyer pleading for more control of capital? Perish the thought. Or was the "translation" written with tongue in cheek?

However, the "amended" report uses "laissez-faire" as an adjective. The Webster definition is "Noninterfering, do-nothing, inactive, extremely tolerant; also individualistic."

Then, literally, the "amended" report condemns capitalism which is "noninterfering." It implies that if capitalism has full power—and used it—all would be well. Hitler sold Germany the same idea as to nazism.

Backed by crude violence, Lysenko of Moscow compels a surrender by Russian science in opinions on environment vs. heredity; with finesse, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati attains a retraction by the Church. Verily, sundry isms breed strange similarities. EDGAR H. BERRY

"Story Of Peter"

The "Story of Peter" by Joseph and Stewart Alsop appearing in your issues of September 6 and 8 was indeed a strange story; stranger perhaps than the Alsops realize. At least it left a question in my mind I wish someone (the Alsops) would answer.

When they say, in the first installment, that death by freezing in the "terrible Siberian cold" was a regular, predictable occurrence, I can nod agreement and go on. When they say "the burial detail methodically dug a mass grave in the morning and filled it in again at night . . ." I pause and begin to wonder—How do they do it?

Folks from Duluth, Minn., tell me there are no burials in the winter months up there. The ground is frozen to such an extent that grave digging is out of the question before the spring thaw.

Yet the Alsops say the Russians dug a mass grave every morning, despite the fact that the "cold was so intense that when a man died his corpse became hard as rock in a matter of minutes."

Are those Russians supermen or is the Story of Peter a bit overdone? BEWILDERED.

Age No Factor

In "This Morning" of September 10 Mr. Shirley Povich gives us his views on the coming welterweight championship bout, slated for September 21, between "the aging, 34-year-old defender, Tony Zale, and the energetic Frenchman, Marcel Cerdan, who is favored by youth."

The contest involves the middleweight, not the welterweight, championship; Marcel Cerdan was all of 30 years when he met Georgie Abrams, not a year ago, as the article says, but on December 6, 1946.

My authority for this statement is the ringside report on this fight by Mr. Povich as it appeared in The Washington Post of December 7, 1946.

The factor of youth really should not enter a comparison of a 34-year-old boxer with one of 32 or more. H. E. OSANN.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Truman's Hope

IN THIS moment before the kickoff there is an unnatural glow of optimism in the Democratic camp, and this goes not merely for the professional optimists immediately around the President. It has infected even the realists who, up until now, have taken a dim view of Mr. Truman's chances for reelection.

The encouragement comes not so much on the positive side. The handicaps of the Truman campaign still loom large as the Rocky Mountains. Instead it comes from a hope that the Republicans can throw away what has seemed an almost certain victory.

This small flame of hope was fed by Harold Stassen's Detroit speech. The Democratic National Committee plans to distribute thousands of copies of that speech in Iowa and in other predominantly agricultural areas.

Passages of the Stassen speech are to be underscored in an effort to convince farm voters that the Republicans are opposed to the present policy of price support for major agricultural products. Passages in the speech will be linked with a statement Stassen made in an interview in Albany when he blamed high food prices on Truman's Secretary of Agriculture.

This seems at first glance to be clutching at straws. There is, however, some reason to believe that farmers are suspicious of Governor Dewey's attitude on farm prices. Statements made in past years, when Dewey talked to city audiences about high prices, are remembered in the farm belt, where phenomenal prosperity is bolstered by support programs that may this year cost the Government several billion dollars.

IN OPENING his campaign at Dexter, Iowa, President Truman will stress the gains to agriculture during the past 16 years, beginning with the New Deal's AAA program. As now planned, he will openly charge that a Republican Congress and a Republican President would modify or even do away with the support program and put a period to farm prosperity.

Another section of the Stassen speech has been under close study by Democratic strategists. That is the section dealing with the Taft-Hartley law. In typical campaign fashion Stassen credited the law with wage increases gained since its passage.

While he generalized about the need to subject all labor-management laws to study and possible change, he said nothing specifically about amending the Taft-Hartley Act. Because of this omission, in the view of those helping to plan the Truman campaign, Dewey will get no avowed labor support other than the recent pledge of the Building Service Union, which has only 175,000 members throughout the Nation.

The root cause of the timid flush of optimism in the Truman camp is the active support of a large majority of organized labor. Again the realists have no illusions. It is not so much that the labor bosses—and perhaps the rank and file, too—are for Truman as they are against Dewey.

The conviction has spread among union heads that there is nothing to be gained from Dewey. They are convinced that management will be firmly entrenched between the Republican candidate and organized labor, even though Dewey might prefer it otherwise. Therefore, as they see it, they have nothing to lose in going all out for the Democratic ticket.

HOW FAR the leadership reflects the views of the ordinary working man and woman is another matter. Stassen made a telling point when he charged that union bosses had compelled attendance at the Truman rally in Detroit on penalty of a fine. James Hoffa, boss of the Teamsters Union in Wayne County, sent a letter to all the 55,000 members in his jurisdiction saying that each man not present and counted would be fined.

The objective of the President's Western trip will be to convince the farmer that, like labor, he has nothing to gain and a lot to lose by a Republican victory. It is hoped that the small cloud of suspicion on the rural horizon can be blown into a major threat which will persuade farmers with a record crop that they must not change things in Washington.

All this, of course, is before the game has actually begun. The flush of hope may be due merely to the pep talk that the coaches are giving each other under the stadium before the whistle blows. In a single farm speech, Dewey may blow Democratic hopes for the rural vote sky high.

Asked for something more tangible, the Democratic planners point to the latest Gallup Poll in Missouri, the President's home State. This shows that the President's strength has risen to 53 per cent of those expressing an opinion, with 36 per cent for Dewey. If the undecided vote was distributed in the same proportion, Truman would have 59 per cent, Dewey 41. But the skeptics raise an eyebrow since, in 1944, when Dewey was running against the champ, he got 48½ per cent to 51½ for Roosevelt.

Italian Colonies

By Sumner Welles

The Case For Return

THAT UNJUST and unworkable instrument ironically called the Italian peace treaty deprived Italy of Libya, Eritrea and Italian Somaliland. After two years the major powers are still in radical disagreement as to the disposition of these colonies. Unless the Kremlin's last-minute proposal for a further conference achieves a miracle, the decision must now be made by the United Nations Assembly.

In principle the four powers agree that Italy should have a trusteeship over Italian Somaliland, and that Ethiopia should receive an outlet through Eritrea to the Red Sea port of Assab.

France and the Soviet Union propose that Italy become the trustee for the rest of Eritrea. Britain insists that this region be placed under a British-controlled international regime. Only on this basis will she agree to an Italian administration of Italian Somaliland.

The French, with Russian backing, want Italy to be the trustee for all of Libya. The British desire the Libyan territories of Cyrenaica and eastern Tripolitania made an autonomous state, to remain under British supervision until the native Senussis are ready for independence.

FRANCE'S policy has been consistent. She wishes no precedent created which might prejudice her own colonial position. She prefers to have a contented Italy remain her neighbor in North Africa.

Moscow's strategy is obvious. In 1945 Molotov claimed a trusteeship over Libya. The moment is not propitious for a renewal of that claim. The Soviet objective in backing an Italian trusteeship for Libya is to end British and American control and to give a powerful propaganda issue to the Italian Communist, with the knowledge that if Italy ever falls under Communist domination Russia will immediately have access to her overseas territories.

Britain has administered the Italian colonies since the end of the war. She has sought to perpetuate her hold upon them.

WHEN United Nations delegates visited Italian Somaliland last January, the British authorities fostered anti-Italian demonstrations, but repressed all attempts of native organizations to demonstrate their preference for Italian, rather than British administration. The result was a massacre in which 54 Italians and several hundred Arabs and Somalis were killed. In Libya and Eritrea a similar effort has been made to create the belief abroad that the native population clamors for British rule.

The British base their Libyan proposals on their secret pledge of independence made to the Senussi chieftains in 1940. This Government was first advised of the commitment when Sir Alexander Cadogan officially informed me of it at the Atlantic Charter meeting the following year. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden honorably desired that Britain's secret treaties should not again be concealed from the United States as they were during the First World War. Yet I see no reason why Britain's allies need be bound by a commitment to which they were not a party, and which disposes of Italian territory, unless they believe it to be just and to make for lasting peace.

THE PROBLEM of the Italian colonies offered this Government its best chance to exert a beneficial influence in negotiating a peace settlement.

In 1945 our contest with the Soviet Union had not crystallized. We were known to have no selfish ambitions in Africa. Had we shown that we had a realistic and consistent policy when the Council of Foreign Ministers first met that autumn, our views might well have been conclusive. Mr. Byrnes, however, at that most critical moment, made it clear that the United States had neither convictions nor policy by announcing two diametrically opposed positions within the brief space of 10 days.

In general we now oppose France. Yet, from the standpoint of enlightened self-interest, the United States would benefit by backing the French proposal which, except for the territory ceded to Ethiopia, would restore all of her former colonies to Italy, as trustee under the United Nations.

If the trusteeship council faithfully discharges its charter obligations, the native peoples, none of whom is yet ready for independence, would be fully safeguarded under an Italian trusteeship.

Overpopulation is the greatest impediment to Italy's recovery. Before 1939 three quarters of a million Italians had settled in Libya. While the Italian colonies afford no unlimited opportunities for immigration, they can provide homes for Italy's present excess population, and the commercial benefits derived from a scientific colonization and development program would make for Italian prosperity.

WE HAVE already spent billions of dollars for Italian relief and reconstruction. We try in every way to strengthen Italian democracy. What sense does it make for us to oppose an Italian trusteeship when the injustice of our policy must alienate Italian sympathies from the western democracies, and when that policy would deprive Italy of the means for recovery that the colonies afford?

It is argued that we cannot risk losing the strategic bases which are at our disposal so long as Libya and Eritrea remain in British hands. Yet in view of the other strategic areas the Western powers now hold in the Mediterranean and Red Sea does this advantage outweigh the effects upon the growth of democracy and upon recovery in Italy, or compensate for the threat to future peace represented by a settlement which is fundamentally unwise?

There is increasing evidence that the National Security Council now dominates the conduct of our foreign relations. The council is desirable as an agency to coordinate our global strategy. It is logical that the military concept should prevail in its findings. But our defense authorities are unfitted by their very point of view to formulate a liberal and constructive foreign policy. They have neither the experience nor the vision needed to determine those basic long-range policies through which the American contribution to lasting peace must be made.

It was their influence that was chiefly responsible for a Palestine policy which reduced to an all-time low the confidence of other peoples in this Government's judgment and dependability.

If that same influence determines American policy when the fate of the Italian colonies is decided the results will be equally disastrous.

Hoover Commission Debates Streamlining Postal Service

By the United Press

The 12-man Hoover Commission met behind closed doors yesterday to take up proposals for cutting the time and cost of mail handling by increased mechanization of the postal service.

The group of citizens, headed by Herbert Hoover, former President, began the semifinal conferences in a year-long study of plans for streamlining the executive branch of the Federal Government.

Hoover will present the findings of his commission to the eighty-first Congress within 10 days after it meets next January. The recommendations may pave the way for a wholesale reorganization of the 2309 units which have grown up in the Federal Government in 150 years.

The full commission debated a postal report prepared by the management engineering firm of Robert Heller & Associates, Inc., of Cleveland. This is one of 23 private agencies which Hoover recruited to do preliminary spadework.

The report was understood to call for improving the efficiency of mail handling by installing mechanical equipment and automatic devices in postoffices, and for simplifying such procedures as issuing money orders, registering mail, and the like.

It reportedly also suggested that the commission consider the advisability of having the Postoffice Department itself, instead of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Civil Aeronautics Board, fix the rates to be paid by the Government for mail carrying on trains and planes.

9 Nations Get 47 Millions In ECA Aid

A $47,687,179 slice of Marshall Plan funds was approved yesterday for nine participating nations.

Included was $33,400,000 for United Kingdom, and $356,086 purchase from Argentina—the first such authorization for commodities from the South American country.

More than 44 million dollars of today's authorizations, or about 89 per cent, are for purchases outside the United States.

With the latest approvals, Economic Cooperation Administration funds so far committed amount to $1,495,261,557.

The Argentine purchase covers goatskins, horses and cattle hides destined for bizone Germany.

Fruit Juice From United States

Authorizations for Great Britain topped the list and included 29 million dollars for Canadian wheat and flour, and $3,500,000 in Canadian lead. Another $900,000 was approved for purchase of United States concentrated and canned orange juice.

The breakdown of authorizations follow:

Bizoned Germany: $8,216,001 for wool rags, hides, wood pulp and ocean freight.

Austria: $2,392,808 for soyabean oil, ferrochronium, copper, medical supplies, rye, and ocean freight.

The Netherlands: $2,261,107 for lumber and sawmill products, barrels and staves, raw sugar and ocean freight.

Denmark: $1,620,023 for cotton seed cake, machine tools, peanut and copra expellers, industrial equipment and tobacco. A $1,211,234 cancellation for copra cake, rape seed meal, and tobacco was made.

$1.4 Million for France

France: $1,411,514 for cotton fabric, molybdenum concentrate, spare bicycle parts, paint, copper and machine-tool spare parts.

Greece: $816,610 for aluminum ingots, bars, tubes and sheets; zinc, cattle hides, green coffee, copper, sheet-steel piling, textiles, industrial equipment and ocean freight.

Norway: $187,500 for petroleum products and bulldozers.

Trieste: $125,000 for sugar, coal and ocean freight, with a cancellation of $1,399,000 previously authorized for sugar, coal and ocean freight.

No Lottery, Says WARL Of Program

By The Associated Press

Radio Station WARL of Arlington, Va., denied yesterday charges that a "Dollars for Answers" program it had broadcast violated the lottery section of the Communications Act.

The station contended the program, now discontinued, was one "predominantly of skill."

The Federal Communications Commission on August 5 said it agreed with its examiner's report holding that the program was in violation of section 316 of the Communications Act of 1934.

In its answer yesterday the station asked for a hearing before the commission to present additional information.

The commission also on August 5—in a separate action—indicated it will crack down on various radio "money" programs.

Because of the "growing number" of such programs, the commission said it proposed to lay down stringent rules as to what type programs may be broadcast.

It has agreed to hear arguments October 19 before putting any new rules in force for the industry.

In the Arlington case, Station WARL contended today that 97 per cent of the persons called on the telephone to answer "money" questions had not been listening to the program.

Although admitting that the correct answers were given over the air prior to the telephone calls, the station said 44 per cent of the prize winners were not listening to the station at the time of earning the award.

Thus, the station insisted, it had not violated the lottery chance section of the act.

The Arlington station said that a "logical extension" of the examiner's report on its own case would place such programs as "Take It or Leave It," "Breakfast in Hollywood," "Dr. I. Q." and others in violation of the Communications Act.

Clinic Here Open Again To Alcoholics

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Half a dozen persons whose faces reflected both anxiety and hope sat in the lobby. They paced the floor, smoked cigarettes in quick succession, clasped moist palms together, or just sat.

"I'm really in tough shape today," a swarthy, balding man with hangover jitters said as he mopped his brow with a shirtsleeve. "I was getting along all right until I started drinking with that redhead."

The scene was the basement of 1740 Massachusetts ave. nw. The speaker was waiting, like the others, to chat with a kindly, silver-haired Viennese psychiatrist. They came voluntarily, and there was no charge.

Clinic Reopens

In such a fashion did the clinic for alcoholics, sponsored by the Health Department's Bureau of Mental Hygiene, resume its regular Monday evening sessions after a summer "vacation." Those addicted are accorded private consultation with Dr. Leopoold Wexberg, director of the bureau, and then meet together in a "group therapy" conference to discuss their individual problems.

The clinic is one of three which opened almost three years ago. Others are held at 1:30 p. m. every Friday at the same address, and at 5:30 p. m. Tuesdays at the Polk Health Center, 7th and P sts. nw.

They still do not have a full-time director, as recommended by the Commissioners' Advisory Committee on the Alcohol Clinic. When one can be found for the $10,000 authorized salary, Dr. Wexberg says the clinic will be organized in line with the Commissioners' original intent and with that of the Hebert Act, passed in 1947.

Treatment at Clinic

The act provides that persons determined by Municipal Court judges to be chronic alcoholics may be committed to the clinic for up to 90 days' treatment in lieu of a jail sentence. And $75,000 annually has been oppropriated for the purpose.

For the time being, however, "patients" visit the clinic of their own accord. There have been some 1800 since the program's inception.

To support his belief that the clinics are succeeding, Dr. Wexberg keeps statistics based on each 100 days during which a patient is under observation.

Of 400 cases for which there has been thorough "follow-up" treatment, 62 per cent had abandoned their quaffing completely well before or by 800 days after they first reported to the clinic.

Convinced of the plan's soundness, Dr. Wexberg will admit, however, that what one of his patients in the lobby said is generally true:

"It can't be done overnight."

Hospital Men, Truman Talk Over Program

Officials of the American Hospital Association discussed with President Truman yesterday their opposition to a Federal compulsory health insurance program.

Graham L. Davis of Battle Creek, Mich., association president, said he told Mr. Truman the group is in agreement with a number of other aspects of a national health program recently submitted to the President by Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security Adminstrator.

Davis said the President assured his callers none of the plans he has in mind "would interfere in any way with the 3000 or more of our voluntary (nongovernmental) hospitals which supply so large a part of the hospital care for our people."

Davis said the President asked him to submit a memorandum embracing the association's suggestions for combining governmental and voluntary activity.

The association recommended increased governmental assistance for expansion of hospital facilities and financial aid for training doctors, nurses and other health personnel.

Among those accompanying Davis was the Rev. George Lewis Smith, Aiken, S. C., president of the Catholic Hospital Association.

The President's Calling List

By The Associated Press

President Truman saw the following White House callers yesterday:

10:45 a. m.—Former Arkansas Gov. Carl Bailey.

11:00—Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.).

11:15—Dan Nee.

11:30—American Hospital Association group.

11:45—Hugo Rogers, head of Tammany Hall.

1:00 p. m.—Lunch.

Taft's Son Named To Irish ECA Job

William Howard Taft, 3d, son of Senator Taft (R., Ohio), last night was named special assistant to the chief of the Economic Cooperation Administration's mission to Ireland.

ECA also announced the appointment of Norman S. Taber as director of the Marshall Plan's budget division.

Young Taft, who has been an English instructor at Yale University since 1945, has been making a special study of Irish culture and customs. The 33-year-old educator previously held positions at the University of Maryland and Haverford, Pa.

ECA's new budget director is the owner of Norman S. Taber & Co., New York governmental finance consultant firm. He is a native of Providence, R. I., and was a Rhodes scholar and graduate of Brown University.

Green Enters Protest On Hoover Researcher

AFL President William Green yesterday asked the Hoover Commission to fire one of its hired experts.

Green wrote to Herbert Hoover, chairman of the commission studying reorganization of Federal agencies, to protest the assignment of Dr. Lewis Merriam to make a study of Government social insurance programs.

The AFL president said Merriam, a researcher on the staff of the Brookings Institution, is prejudiced against Federal social security systems.

Green urged Hoover to "avoid the obvious waste of public funds involved in asking a person who is committeed to the system of dole and public charity characteristic of the Elizabethan poor laws to make recommendations for a twentieth century social insurance program."

Medical Society Plans Parley

Plans for the coming nineteenth annual Scientific Assembly of the District Medical Society were disclosed here yesterday by the assembly's general chairman, Dr. Robert H. Groh.

The assembly, to be held September 27, 28, 29 at Hotel Statler, is a focal point of interest for physicians, surgeons and medical students in the Washington area. It also attracts a large national following. More than 6000 invitations have been sent to doctors in Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and North Carolina.

Theme of this year's assembly will be "Modern Medicine and the Patient," with more emphasis toward giving the physician an overall picture of patients' needs and less on "timely specialties," said the assembly planners.

Scientific sessions and technical exhibits are open only to those registered. An elaborate, special exhibit room for the display of public health services will be open to the public as well as a special evening program on September 27.

The public meeting on "Heart Disease—How To Live With It" will be conducted with Dr. Herbert P. Ramsey as moderator and Dr. Howard B. Sprague of Harvard Medical School as guest speaker. It will include an on-the-stage interviewing of the guest speaker by leading Washington science writers.

Area Army Units Set Social Events

Dances and other social events at three Army installations in the area are planned for Wednesday night. Government girls and students are invited. At Fort McNair, the recreation center has arranged a hayride and picnic. Special services at the North Post, Fort Myer, Va., is planning a swimming party and outdoor dance and at Andrews Air Force Base a dance will be held in the Service Club.

Kaiser-Frazer Sues Otis for 38 Million

Detroit, Sept. 13 (AP).—Kaiser-Frazer Corp. filed a counter claim in Federal Court today asking $38,552,118 in damages from Otis & Co., a Cleveland investment firm.

The auto firm accused Otis & Co., James F. Masterson, a Philadelphia lawyer, and David V. Martin, a Detroit attorney, of conspiring to escape a contract to market 900,000 shares of Kaiser-Frazer stock.

The latest suit was in the nature of an answer to a complaint filed last February 9 by Masterson. He sought to halt the sale of the Kaiser-Frazer stock.

When Masterson filed his suit, Otis & Co. withdrew from an agreement to market the stock on the basis of a contract provision against pending lawsuits.

Textron, Inc. to Close Its Mills at Nashua

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 13. (AP).—Textron, Inc., Nashua's main industry, announced today it will close its Nashua mills this year as soon as present work is finished.

Textron bought the 116-year-old mills from the Nashua Manufacturing Co. in 1945.

Textron, in its statement today, explained that "during the summer of 1947 the 'new Nashua plan' was adopted in an attempt to save one of New England's oldest and largest textile operations.

"Success of the plan required reduction of labor, overhead, power and tax costs by more than two million dollars during the first year," the company said.

"We regret to announce that results obtained to date do not justify continued operation of the Nashua mills."

Argentinian Coming To U. S. on Exchange

Buenos Aires, Sept. 13 (AP).—Orlando Maroglio, president of the Argentine Central Bank, left by plane for the United States today to attempt to arrange a settlement of Argentina's growing exchange problems.

Maroglio will arrive in Miami tomorrow and proceed to New Orleans before visiting Washington and New York. In New York, he is expected to consult with leading banks which hold an estimated $275,000,000 worth of unpaid Argentine letters of credit.

The Argentine bank president probably will consult Washington officials about the prospects of obtaining dollars through Marshall Plan sales. He also is expected to see James Bruce, United States Ambassador to Argentina, who is back home trying to promote Argentina products for the European recovery program.

GE to Exhibit New X-Ray Robot

Milwaukee, Sept. 13 (AP).—A robot X-ray apparatus, described as "radically new," has been built at the General Electric X-Ray Corp. laboratory here and will be shown at Chicago tomorrow.

The company announced the device as several hundred leading scientists gathered to take part today in formal dedication of the laboratory, itself a new installation, to Dr. William D. Coolidge.

The X-ray apparatus, one of several projects carried out during the past year's development program at the laboratory, is the maxiscope 500, equipped for high voltage radiography that will provide, according to G-E, better X-rays of heavy body sections.

Dr. Coolidge, who discovered ductile tungsten in 1908 and has been called the father of the modern X-ray tube, is director emeritus of the G-E Research Laboratory at Schenectady, N. Y.

New York Cotton

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—Cotton futures developed an irregular pattern in moderately active dealings today. Trade and some commission buying sent prices up almost $1 a bale in early dealings, but thereafter rallying tendencies were checked by recurrent flurries of commission house and New Orleans selling. Final prices were 90 cents a bale lower to 60 cents higher.

Distant deliveries were firm on persistent commission house buying, attributed to the fact that the 1948 crop months were selling at a substantial discount to the 1948 crop deliveries.

Further reports that a large amount of cotton is being prepared for the loan was a supporting influence in the market. But this was offset somewhat by belief that the market at least temporarily will be under pressure of hedging operations when ginnings reach a peak in the next few weeks.

Washington trade quarters said that CCC plans to improve farm storage of loan cotton in belief that usual storage facilities may prove inadequate. These sources also believe there will be no marketing quotas on the next crop.

Daughter of Mrs. Patterson Files Action to Break Will rangement be continued until her case is decided.

In her petition, the countess alleged there were a number of defects in the will, one of her charges being that her mother was not "of sound mind and memory" when she made the will.

Besides questioning her mother's mental competence, the countess' petition charged:

1. That the will as filed in District Court was not the last will and testament of her mother.

2. That the will was obtained from Mrs. Patterson by "fraud and deceit exercised upon her by some person or persons unknown."

3. That the will was procured from Mrs. Patterson by "undue influence, duress, and coercion exercised upon her by some person or persons unknown."

4. That witnesses to the will did not sign their names to it in the presence of Mrs. Patterson or of each other.

The petition was filed just one day before the deadline for admitting the will to probate. Immediate effect was to hold up admission of the will to probate until the countess' case is settled.

Attorneys indicated some expectation that efforts will be made to compromise the dispute.

Attorney Kertz said that the question of Mrs. Patterson's mental fitness and four other charges were all included for the protection of the countess as being the five points on which a will can be contested. He was unwilling to say which point would be emphasized in actual trial of the case in court.

The big general issue raised by the countess was whether she would become sole heir to the estate. That issue was raised in this way.

". . . the petitioner respectfully prays . . . that said paper writings (the will) may be refused probate and that decedent (Mrs. Patterson) be decreed to have died intestate (without any will)".

(Editor's note: Material in parentheses in above paragraph added to original text.)

If the court finally decides after trial, according to Attorney Roberts, that Mrs. Patterson did die intestate, the decision would make the countess the sole heir to the estate. Her petition identified herself as a resident of New York, N. Y., and as "the daughter and sole heir at law and next of kin of Eleanor Patterson."

Estate Attorney Holds Comment

A copy of the petition was served upon Roy B. Kelly, Washington attorney for the executors of the Patterson estate as named in the will. Kelly said it was being studied and that there would be no immediate statement.

The executors have 10 days in which to answer the petition. Then the court is given 10 days in which to draw up a list of the issues to go before a trial jury and to set the date for trial. The court may have additional time if necessary. The listing of the issues is made in consultation with attorneys for each side.

2 Area Men On Lost Plane

stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va., where his wife lives.

Custer and Stirling-Hamilton were in the northern Manitoba district in connection with the first Hudson Bay operations of the Canadian Navy.

The Royal Canadian Air Force said eight planes were searching for the missing craft today.

The U. S. Air Force base at Selfridge Field, Mich., plans to send out a Flying Fortress and a C-47 transport plane, RCAF officials said.

Canadian Air Force authorities said the missing plane carried enough fuel to last only until early yesterday afternoon.

Both Custer, Scalise Married With Children

Capt. Benjamin Scott Custer, a native of Atlanta, Ga., graduated from the United States Naval Station, he was designated a Academy in 1926.

After a period of flight training at the Pensacola (Fla.) Naval Air naval aviator in 1930.

In 1939, after sea duty aboard the carrier Lexington and the battleship California, he became an instructor in history at the Naval Academy.

With the outbreak of the war, Captain Custer was assigned as assistant chief of air operations and gunnery officer for the Caribbean Sea Frontier.

He aided in the seizure of Martinique, and in 1944 assumed command of the USS Norton Sound, flagship for Fleet Air Wing 1, during the Okinawa campaign. Among his decorations are the Bronze Star and the Gold Star. He is married and is the father of four children.

Master Sergt. George Scalise, about 50, has been stationed at Fort Belvoir for the last two years. He lives on the post with his wife and four children. A fifth is a cadet at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Sergeant Scalise's current enlistment term is up September 17. His wife said last night he planned to reenlist.

China to Receive 70 Million In American Recovery Funds

By The Associated Press

The Marshall Plan for Asia commenctd rolling under a full head of steam yesterday with the tentative allocation of 70 million dollars for Chinese recovery.

Charles L. Stillman, who headed an on-the-spot survey just completed for the Economic Cooperation Administration, said 35 million dollars will be to rebuild key industries and another 35 million dollars to construct new facilities.

Stillman told reporters four reconstruction projects totaling $5,200,000 already are under way. Eight others amounting to $29,800,000 will be launched within six weeks.

The ECA official, on leave as vice president and treasurer of Time magazine, said he returned from China with a "sharply different concept of how ECA funds should be spent there." The principal shift is in increased emphasis on rebuilding existing facilities.

3 Transfusions Fail to Save Life Of Maine Mother

Boston, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—A young Maine mother, whose blood was drained and replaced three times in the Nation's first such operation on an adult, died Saturday of anemia complications, hospital attaches disclosed today.

The victim was Mrs. Jeannette Saperig, 24, of Old Orchard, Me., who was reported "dying" Tuesday night when the 3 hour transfusion was performed.

Envoy's Daughter Placed on Probation

NANCY FLETCHER CHOREMI, Sentence Suspended

New York, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Nancy Fletcher Choremi, daughter of the United States Consul-General at Casablanca, was sentenced to three months in jail for prostitution today, but the judge suspended the sentence so long as she was on "good behavior" in the future.

The slender, dark-haired beauty was convicted with two other women of being $100-a-night call girls after police officers testified about telephone calls into their hotel apartments which had been "tapped."

Mrs. Choremi, who was accompanied to court by her husband, George, a wealthy Egyptian cotton broker, said she was "so happy" after Judge Arthur Markewich suspended the sentence.

Choremi said he, his wife and their 5-year-old son, John, would leave for the country today and would fly to Casablanca and then to Egypt in a few days.

"We're going abroad as soon as possible, but first we are going to the country," Choremi said.

Mrs. Choremi was convicted along with Margaret Starr, daughter of a retired minister, and Madeline Blavier, a Belgian artist. Miss Blavier was alleged to have made arrangements for "dates" with wealthy men.

Mrs. Choremi's attorney, Lawrence Greenbaum, said he would appeal.

Judge Markewich gave the defendants a 20-minute lecture before he passed sentence.

"One of the primary purposes of this court is rehabilitation," he said. "The problem of prostitution is not solved in a courtroom. It is a social, economic and moral problem.

"As far as rehabilitation is concerned, there is no need to place the defendants on probation. All three are adults. They don't need someone over them with whips to keep them from wrongdoing. The only way is to instill fear in the defendants so if the offense is repeated it will meet with swift and sure punishment."

Mrs. Choremi, who has insisted since her arrest that she was innocent and had merely gone on one social evening with Miss Blavier and two friends, said today that her husband had been very understanding.

As Choremi left the courtroom, reporters asked him if European husbands were better than American ones.

"Yes, indeed," he replied.

Light, Strong Metal Now in Production

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 13 (U.P.).—The du Pont Co. announced today it has begun commercial production of titanium, a little-known metal that is less than twice as heavy as aluminum but several times as strong.

The metal, silver-white in color and highly resistant to corrosion, is one of the most plentiful of all minerals. But it is difficult to refine from ores, and has previously been little more than a laboratory curiosity.

Du Pont officials said small-scale manufacture of titanium is now under way at Newport, Del., where a plant is turning out 100 pounds a day.

The present price is $5 a pound, but it was said the company "hopes to be able to reduce the price sharply" if industrial demand warrants mass production.

Police Arrest Masquerader

A 50-year-old man who told police he was an attorney with the Veterans' Administration, yesterday was charged with disorderly conduct after his arrest in a department store women's toilet. He was wearing women's clothing.

The man was taken into custody at the Sears, Roebuck Store, 4500 Wisconsin ave. nw., by Store Detective Luther Wise after several patrons complained. He was identified as Clarence Wilbur Fisk, Kensington, Md. He told police he was the father of a 10-year-old son.

When arrested, Fisk was wearing a modish pink silk blouse and black skirt with a gray jacket. Partly bald, he had a tuft of hair pulled forward so as to peek from under a turban.

Eighth Precinct police said Fisk declared simply that he just "liked to dress up as a woman."

Brakeman's Foot Crushed Under Wheel

Richard C. Williams, 29, of 5221 N. 5th st., Arlington, a brakeman for the Washington Terminal Co., suffered a crushed right foot about 6 p. m. yesterday when he apparently slipped as prepared to mount a gondola car in the Ivy City railroad yards. His foot was caught under a wheel of the car. Williams was taken to Emergency Hospital, when he was treated for dislocation of all toes.

Chemically Active Rain Falls on Isle

Manila (Tuesday), Sept. 14 (AP).—A misty, chemically active rain is adding to the misery of some 5000 Filipinos remainng on volcano-ravished Camiguin island in the Southern Philippines.

Father Arthur Shea, American parish priest on the island, reported the rain had fallen on Mambajao, on the small island's northern coast. It smelled of chlorine gas, which Mount Hibokhibok has been bleching since last week.

The mile-high volcano started erupting September 1, after sleeping in 77 years. Of Camiuin's estimated 50,000 Filipino inhabitants, some 45,000 have been removed—mostly to nearby Mindanao.

Hibokhibok's temper continued grimly unpredictable. After two day of comparative calm over the week end, the volcano rumbed to "renewed and worse activity." Relief workers renewed evacuation of the island.

Arturo Alcaraz, Philippines vocalanologist, and Charles Reynolds, Mackay radio engineer, reported that the rain caused blisters on Filipinos in Bonbon, coastal village on northwest Camiguin.

Accused Slayer's Trial Set Monday

Eugene James, 31-year-old accused slayer of Carol Bardwell, 11, in Rock Creek Park last July, goes on trial for his life in Baltimore Monday for a separate murder.

About 35 prosecution witnesses have been called in by Baltimore authorities to give a preview of their testimony in the forthcoming trial involving the killing of 11-year-old Marsha Brill of Baltimore.

Washington police have lodged a detainer against James. In the event he is acquitted at Baltimore, he could be brought here for trial in the Bardwell case.

Two Women, Man Indicted by Grand Jury in Numbers Gambling Cases

Two women and a man, charged with gambling offenses, were among 16 persons indicted by the regular grand jury yesterday.

They were Mary Spencer, 42, of 1204 O st. nw.; Bessie J. Fields, 30, of 1115 6th st. nw., and Joseph Robinson, 43, of 1433 S st. nw. All were charged with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

Mary Spencer was arrested in her apartment after a police vice squad undercover man had obtained a search warrant. The policeman, Pvt. Theodore R. Thomas, said he had purchased numbers plays from her on seven occasions.

A short time before her arrest, Thomas purchased three plays from her with marked money, which was later recovered from a pocketbook in her apartment, police said.

Bessie Fields was arrested at her home and Joseph Robinson in the 3300 block of Georgia ave. nw., August 19. Vice squad men said they watched Robinson make stops, allegedly to pick up numbers plays, at numerous places on six days before they got a warrant for his arrest.

After each stop, Robinson would place a brown envelope under the front seat of his automobile and drive on to the next stop, according to police. When he was arrested, they found numerous numbers slips under the front mat of his car, they said.

After watching him stop at the home of Bessie Fields, a detective bought numbers slips from her on two occasions, then secured a warrant, police said. She was arrested after accepting marked money for three plays. Robinson was arrested within a half hour later after he left her home and went to the Georgia ave. "pick-up" spot, they said.

Other Indictments

Other persons indicted yesterday, included:

Irving A. Payne, 20, of 1228 U st. nw., charged with impersonating a police officer. Payne was arrested August 15, after he allegedly struck Arthur Gibson, of 409 Florida ave. nw., with a nightstick, and tried to place him under arrest during an argument.

Police said that they found Payne was a member of the "Superior Private Police," an unauthorized agency here, and that he was carrying a toy pistol. Joseph H. Gerone, head of the agency, said it was organized to watch and protect, but its members have no authority to arrest or to carry a gun.

Three men were indicted for forging a $306 Treasury Department check and attempting to cash it April 22. They were Jesse D. Adams, 30, of 1331 Vermont ave. nw., and Rex Wright and Herman Gentry of Asheville, N. C.

Adams said he forged an indorsement on the check after it was brought to him by the other two men. Police said all three tried first to cash it and then to leave it as security with the owner of the Lotus Restaurant for payment of a $15 bill.

Jap Encephalitis Cases Total 6504, Passing '47

Tokyo, Japan, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—There have been 6504 cases of sleeping sickness in Japan since May, surpassing the 1935 epidemic of 5307 cases, health officials reported today. They said an average of 100 new cases break out daily.

Postwar problems haven't licked the Lanks!
AMERICAN FAMILY CLOSE-UP
As they go, so goes the nation!
The Lank family of Harrisburg, Pa.: Navy veteran Dick, 28; his wife, Ruth, 27; and baby Deborah.
Back home from service in the Navy, Dick Lank faced a problem. Like so many other veterans with no business or professional training, he had to find a job that would be fun to learn . . . with a good future. He talked it over with his two brothers and his father.
Each put up $1500 of their savings and founded the electrical appliance firm of O. B. Lank & Sons. But even with a promising job, Dick and Ruth still have the problem of getting ahead in spite of high prices on a salary of $65 a week.
Dick met Ruth in this church in 1939! Five years later they were married in this same church by Ruth's father, a minister.
The Lanks love music! A major source of entertainment, their modest record collection costs little. They have fun, too, in church and community work.
Anything electrical interests Dick. Home repair work earns him $15—$20 extra a month.
Ruth saves food money by careful buying, clever cooking. They also save by having Sunday dinners at their family's. Dick's business lunches, too, help keep home food costs to about $55 a month. Rent is $65, clothing costs $16, recreation $10 a month.
Yes, the Lanks are getting ahead . . . making their way toward their goals despite the difficulties and problems everyone has been facing since the war. With their life insurance agents, the Lanks have worked out a program which now includes $15,660 of life insurance protection. They go over this program with an agent every two years to decide whether family circumstances call for any changes to keep it up to date, make it more useful.
They're saving money, too, for the home they plan to build some day . . . already have $1800 in the bank. By working hard, managing their money wisely, enjoying inexpensive things, Dick and Ruth have found one way to happiness
For travel—a new car some day! Ruth would like to own a children's shop. Dick wants to set up a retirement plan. "They're all on our dream list!"
THE LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THEIR AGENTS
BRING YOU THIS STORY BECAUSE... families like the Lanks show us one way that happiness is earned! You, yourself, probably know a family, right in your own town, that is getting ahead in the same typically American way. Such families prove to all of us that we can solve our own problems by our own efforts.... Their example shows too why it is so important for us to hold to our rights to think for ourselves, to work at what we like, to live as we choose. For what this country amounts to depends upon what happens to its homes!

WE'RE HAVING A "CRASH" NOW At OUR OWN STOCK EXCHANGE

We operate just like the Stock Exchange—our big Board lists PAR, BID and SELLING on the regular brands—and the same '29 factors are at work here! Prices have been high most places, grain crops are huge (that means more of our kind of stock), production is up, trading tremendous.

For days the BID (low elsewhere) and ASKING (at Pearson's) have been dropping. Trading at our Exchange is tremendous, sales have skyrocketed. The clerks are frantic trying to keep up. Our Big Board looks like the New York one in '29.

BUT THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

Hyattsville Favors New Zoning Plans

Hyattsville City Council, following a public hearing last night, recommended with reservations the approval of a proposed new zoning ordinance and zoning map for the county.

The motion, presented by Hiram Lawrence and seconded by Frederick M. Coxen, approved the zoning program with several exceptions, one of wihch would provide that property on the north side of Emerson st. remain in its present zoning classification. Property on 42d pl., also, would remain as it stands.

The approval was recommended to the Prince Georges County Commissioners.

The vote on approval of the zoning law, with the exceptions, was 4 to 2. Acting Mayor H. Wilson Spicknall voted with the majority to give the measure the five votes required by law.

Young GOP Talk

U. S. Buying Can Cut HCL, Beall Asserts

The high cost of living could be lowered with the regulation of Government buying, Representative J. Glenn Beall (R., Md.), candidate for reeection from the Sixth Maryland District, said last night in a talk before the Young Republican Club of Montgomery County.

He said that with the proper Government buying controls, a surplus would be created and returned to the housewife. Emphasizing the record crops reported for this year, Representative Bell said:

"Mr. Truman likes to talk about the high cost of living but he fails to tell you that the foreign obligation is one of the major reasons for it."

He added that in one month the Government is spending 17½ million dollars on foodstuffs alone to send abroad.

Beall defended the Taft-Hartley Act and said it has been attacked as a "slave labor bill, but I say it is a save labor bill."

Beall predicted a strong national defense program under a Republican administration. He advocated more Federal aid for public road programs in sections where they are used by Government workers and called for "better" distribution of funds under the Federal public roads program.

Beall opposes F. Byrne Austin of Takoma Park, the Democratic candidate for Congress.

The Young Republican Club elected William Byrley, Glen Echo, permanent president to succeed William Coyle, Chevy Chase, who declined reelection because he is head of the State Republican Club. Miss Jane Hendershott, Chevy Chase, was named corresponding secretary.

Officers reelected include Mrs. Olga Beck, vice president; Hugh Hasell, recording secretary, and John Kelly, treasurer.

Young Democrats Vote Not to Hear Thurmond Talk

Richmond, Va., Sept. 13 (AP).—Spokesmen for the Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia said today that Frank P. Burton, jr., States' Rights Party chairman, was in error in insisting that Gov. J. Strom Thurmond would address the junior party convention here October 8 as scheduled.

Burton, in the face of a decision of the executive committee of the Young Democrats to "take care" of the already accepted invitation to Thurmond by postponing the convention dates, said that the convention would be held as scheduled and the States' Rights presidential candidate would speak.

W. P. Brown, jr., publicity director of the Young Democrats, said Burton had no authority to make such a statement for the organization and spoke only as an individual.

Burton, a member of the Young Democrats' executive committee as chairman from the Fifth District, was not present at Saturday's meeting when the committee by a vote of 8 to 6 turned thumbs down on Thurmond speaking to its convention. The invitation had been extended by President Thomas Odom of Whaleyville.

N. C. Democratic Club To Aid Regular Slate

Members of the North Carolina Democratic Club of Washington will campaign in the State for the regular Democratic ticket, its president, John A. Lang, said yesterday.

Lang, secretary to Representative Deane (D., N. C.), predicted some 300 members of the club will return to the State to campaign for everyone from "constable to president."

Lang said his group does not approve of the recently formed States Rights party—composed of Southern Democrats who oppose President Truman's civil rights program.

Lang said the club will rally Tarheels behind the regular Democratic ticket at a meeting here September 23 when the North Carolina Democratic nominee for governor, Kerr Scott, and the new State Democratic chairman, Capus Waynick, will address the group.

Senator Kilgore (D., W. Va.), said he told President Truman yesterday the Democrats will carry West Virginia in November "by a majority of 100,000."

He said he predicted the defeat of Senator Revercomb, Republican, by former Senator Matthew M. Neely, Democratic nominee.

U. S. Has Perfected Guided Missiles, D. C. Expert Says

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (NYHT).—The United States already has several guided missiles "in a state of completed development," Dr. Harold K. Skramstad, chief of the guided missiles section of the National Bureau of Standards, told the Instrument Society of America here today. He gave no specific details about the new missiles.

Dr. Skramstad asserted the United States was the first nation to use successfully in combat "a fully automatic guided missile."

This missile, he explained, was the Navy's bat glide bomb, carried under the wing of Navy bombers and used in the final stages of World War II to destroy "many tons of Japanese combatant and merchant shipping."

England Rejects 2d Pole Protest on Six-Power Pact

London, Sept. 13 (AP).—Great Britain today rejected for the second time Polish protests against the London six-power agreement on the future of western Germany.

The Foreign Office handed the Polish Ambassador a note saying the protests seem to be founded on misconceptions and asserting that Russia's actions in Germany forced the six powers to act.

Replying to the second note today, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said the Poles are ignoring "the fact that the unilateral action of the Soviets in Germany, both in the political and economic field, took place long before any independent steps were taken by the western powers in their own zones."

The note added that Britain has no intention to revive in Germany "those forces of reaction and those industries which were responsible for two successive wars."

Egg-a-Day Goal Set for Farmers Throughout 1949

An egg and a fraction a day for everyone in the United States was the goal laid before farmers yesterday by the Agriculture Department.

Americans consumed 380 eggs apiece in 1947 and 1948, the department said. It added it hopes they will get at least that many next year. The prewar average was 298.

To meet large demands for eggs the department proposed that farmers have on hand next January 1,425 million hens and pullets.

Queuille Prepares Financial Bills Critical to Regime

Paris, Sept. 13 (AP). — Premier Henri Queuille today prepared a series of financial measures expected to hit everyone's pocketbook. The new Premier's cabinet is expected to stand or fall by these steps.

Queuille's cabinet is expected to raise the price of postage stamps, cigarettes and cigars, by 40 to 60 per cent; alcohol by 20 per cent; gasoline by 7 per cent; railroad passenger fares by 30 per cent; freight rates by 20 per cent, and Paris subway fares by 100 per cent.

The Socialists in the cabinet were certain to demand that labor be given wage increases and tax cuts to compensate for the new drain on their income.

Dog Complaint Costs Democracy Former Friend

Rome, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—American-style democracy lost a friend today because United States Ambassador James C. Dunn was losing sleep.

Swiss Newsman Piero Scanziani was the former friend. He built a "mutt menagerie," in which he trained dogs, within 500 yards of Dunn's residence. The Ambassador complained the yelps kept him awake at night. Scanziani was ordered to move his dogs. Instead, he stormed the embassy. He was told Dunn had asked only what any citizen in a democratic country had the right to ask.

"That burned me up," the Swiss said. "No one, not even an American Ambassador, can teach a Swiss what democracy means. I keep my dogs, or I sue the Ambassador. The die is cast."

Senator Cain Ends Visit With Buchman

Caux Sur Montreux, Switzerland, Sept. 13 (AP).—Senator Cain (R., Wash.) left this mountain headquarters of Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman's Moral Rearmament Movement today to return to the United States. Cain flew to Europe last week with a group of American and Canadian delegates.

In a statement, the Senator said that "in these mountains I have found the only available and reasonable answer to the sweeping tide of communism."

Palestine Jew Aid Costs Merchant Life

Baghdad, Iraq, Sept. 13 (AP).—Shafiq Ades, widely known Jewish merchant, was sentenced to death by a military court and fined 20 million dollars on charges of aiding the Jews in the Palestine war and organizing Zionism in Iraq.

Shafiq Ades was accused of purchasing surplus British arms and shipping them from Iraq to Palestine for use by the Jews.

Federation Elections Are Debated

Marked by protests of some members, delegates of the Northeast and Northwest Councils of Citizens Associations last night probed methods of improving the elections of officers of the parent body, the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Gordon M. Atherholt, president of the MacArthur Blvd. Citizens Association, recommended that the delegates work together to get the "strongest people possible to take over the work of the federation." If that were done, he added, "we can have a citizens government in the District next to none."

Jerome P. Lynch, president of the Northeast Council, suggested that the two councils "fortify themselves to make the federation stronger than it is."

Protest was raised by Henry Fowler of the Chevy Chase Citizens Association, who said: "I don't think it is in the province of councils to get together to select a slate of officers for election down there." (Councils are made up of delegates from area citizen groups. The federation is the parent body of the joint area associations.)

Discussion of officer elections of the federation was also protested by Mrs. Franklin G. Sartwell, public relations officer of the federation, though she admitted there might be politics in the federation elections, she stressed, however, that "officers of the federation are not steamrollered into office."

At this point the meeting was temporarily adjourned because of the presence of the press, but later resumed on other matters. The meeting was held at the Twelfth Precinct Police Station, 17th st. and Rhode Island ave. nw.

The president of the Dahlgren Terrace Citizens Association, Mrs. Helen Fritz, suggested the councils support a bonus for District veterans. Mrs. Fritz cited bonuses given to veterans by many States and the cost of living in the District as a "genuine" reason for a bonus here.

The meeting adjourned without formal action on Mrs. Fritz's suggestion or the other matters.

Manor Park Citizens

The Manor Park Citizens Association last night voted to ask the District Commissioners to erect a traffic "stop" sign at 4th and Oglethorpe sts. nw., to help cut down accidents there.

The association, meeting in Whittier School, 5th and Sheridan sts. nw., with about 100 members present, admitted 41 new members, and voted to join the North Washington Council of Citizens Associations.

It was advised that the 5th st. sewer, under construction for nearly a year, will be completed in about six weeks.

Hillcrest Citizens

Plans for a membership drive were discussed at a meeting last night of the Hillcrest Citizens Association in the East Washington Heights Baptist Church.

Block representatives were requested to make a door-to-door canvass of prospective members. The group also moved to seek a sidewalk for 32d pl., between W st. and Park dr. se.

Police Say Man Has 2 Homes, 2 Families

Upland, Calif., Sept. 13 (AP).—Arrest of Covina truckline operator, who, police said, has maintained two homes and two wives with three children by each, was announced today.

William B. Bonstein, 35, was arrested today on his return from a vacation trip and booked on suspicion of bigamy and suspicion of failure to provide for his family in Upland.

One on the Aisle—

Two Houses Book Olivier 'Hamlet'

By Richard L. Coe

THE CROWDED CRYSTAL BALL: Olivier's "Hamlet" is set to open here Wednesday, October 20 . . . Where? . . . Two theaters, mes amis, both the Playhouse and the Little, will be running the great British star's film, which is quite a coup for the downtown twins. . . . All seats will be reserved at both theaters on a two-a-day basis. . . . There's nothing you can do about getting seats yet. . . . Announcement of the price scale and mail orders is expected within the next few weeks. . . . If Olivier's "Hamlet" catches on here any way like his "Henry V" did, this will tie up the Miller-Lopert theaters for quite a spell. . . . Hank Cinq stayed at the Little, on the same two-a-day basis, for 28 weeks, from November 7, 1946, to May 21, '47. . . . Rather than tie up both theaters, it seems reasonable to assume that the run at the Playhouse might end before the Little's, where it could take on permanent residence and allow the Playhouse to go on with its regular policy. . . . "Hamlet," by the way, recently was awarded the Grand Prize as the best film of the year at the International Film Festival in Venice. . . . You'll be hearing a lot more of "Hamlet" as time goes by, thanks to a fascinating luncheon the town's reviewers had not long ago with Catholic University's visiting director, Basil Langton, who saw some of the producing details first hand.

. . . With "Hamlet" thus settled, wonder what the next rumor about the National will be?

THOUGH our stage remains empty the living theater resumes in Baltimore next Monday night when Ford's opens its season . . . Janet Blair and Francis Lederer open a week's run in "For Love or Money." . . . This is the F. Hugh Herbert comedy which rocketed June Lockhart, now back in Hollywood, to national celebrity last season on Broadway . . . Ford's matinee days are Wednesdays and Saturdays and its patrons will find the old house has been redecorated during the summer . . . "For Love or Money," by the way, is NOT one of the Theater Guild subscription plays, in case you're wondering.

THE THEATER GUILD'S local office will be getting along for a spell without Director Bess Davis Schreiner . . . Miss S. will be shuttling between Baltimore, Wilminghon and Richmond, where subscription plans are being inaugurated in the last two cities . . . So the quickest way to discuss your Baltimore subscription plans with the guild now is to write Miss Schreiner at Ford's Theater, Baltimore 1, Md.

THE BARTER THEATER, its summer season at Abingdon a memory already, took off last night for eight months of steady trouping . . . Two companies will play 20 States in the South and Midwest this year, one beginning its first eight weeks with dates in North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio and Maryland, the other playing Kentucky and Indiana . . . Last reports don't give much hope for District of Columbia dates, but the tireless Geore Frain is still trying to battle down the bogs of prejudice and the fogs of apathy . . . You now have the spectacle of the Nation's first State-sponsored theater, working under a grant from the congressionally chartered ANTA, being unable to find a stage in the Capital of the country . . . What sort of a Capital is this, anyhooo?

"WHITE COLLAR GIRLS," the March of Time short, has the Trans-Lux plotting another of its gargantuan 14th st. facades . . . Of 60 million United States jobholders, reports the short, 16 million are women . . . And you know how many career girls there are here . . . Which accounts for the Trans-Lux zest in promoting the film, which opens Thursday.

SECRETARY of State Marshall will be the speaker at Saturday night's Humanitarian Award Dinner, climax of the midyear conference of Variety Clubs, International . . . The Statler will be the setting for this top-notch showman affair, which comes under the black-tie-stag heading . . . Completing reservations is the Apex Theater's Frank Boucher, and in the thick of things is Carter T. Barron, as First Assistant International Chief Barker, but one, if the most jaw-cracking, of Barron's many titles.

PRODUCTION WORKSHOPS of the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church drama group got under way last night with a series of lectures for amateur players under the guidance of Catholic University's Leo Brady and George Washington University's Edward Mangum . . . The lectures on Construction, Makeup, Design and Painting, Costuming and Lighting will be held for the next month . . . Further information from Helen Brewer, District 1484.

VAUGHN MONROE is coming this way, but he's a long way off yet, kiddies . . . The big guy will be here for a dance Saturday night, November 20, at the National Guard Armory, sponsored by Name Bands, Inc. . . . Which couldn't have picked a surer shot than Vaughn to begin its season's thunder.

HIPP'S HEROINE: Jacqueline Bouvier in the title role of "Nais," the French film from the Emile Zola story now on the Hippodrome screen. Fernandel plays the hunchback, Toine

Tons Caught in Nets

Fishing Good, Both Legal and Illegal

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

FISHING—legal and illegal—is good on Chesapeake Bay.

I just returned from two weeks of sport, both the rowboat and the yacht Variety and I can report that the Nation's No. 1 salt water inlet is fairly churning with fish—the majority ready and willing to grab a bait or strike a lure.

Haight

Now for illegal fishing.

The guys with the purse nets and the motor-drawn seines are still in action along the bay just as they have been down through the years.

They caught more than their share of hardheads earlier, one net reported to be a mile long sweeping the water of everything that swims. These unfair catches knocked the bottom out of the hardhead prices in Baltimore and Washington at one stage of the season.

On the west shore, Monday morning after the summer colonists had finished their weekends and few were around to spy, the netters went into action with a vengeance. Fish wholesalers, who apparently ask no questions, were swamped with the catches.

With Labor Day marking the end of the vacation season, the netters, with rockfish as their objective, are getting bolder.

Last Saturday, with upward of 50 boats trolling nearby, the Bay slickers lay at anchor against the bank waiting with their two big motor boats and their powered dory for a shot at the big school.

In Herring Bay earlier last week, they were seen at sundown getting their gear ready for possible action in the morning.

Several of the best hauls—illegal, I'm told—were taken by the tons, so many in fact that the netters couldn't transport them.

Early that night, they were offered to us at 14 fish for a dollar. Some of the rock being thus peddled cottage to cottage at North Beach were upward of three each.

Maryland's conservation people have a plane that makes daily trips along the bay coasts looking for this sort of thing. However, the net sharpsters watch for the plane and are innocently anchored under the banks and bluffs when the air patrol flies along.

The illegal netters seem to have no fear of the commercial fishboat captains who should be the first to complain to State authorities. One captain pointed out their boats through the haze and said, "There's where the fish go."

ASKED WHY he didn't do something about it, he simply shrugged his shoulders and changed the subject.

This captain is only one of hundreds with thousands of dollars invested in boat, gear, etc., and dependent on sports fishermen for a livelihood.

As the stableman said on the backstretch when the favorite ran last, "It just don't add up."

Persons living along the shores where these lawless operators work, for the most part wink. Perhaps one resident summed it up, "Those fellows are tough. They might burn my house down while I'm away if I complained."

However, there are plenty of fish that end their days on a hook or lure. Here's the lowdown on what's cooking—or rather what we caught worth cooking.

My most successful outing, came when I turned nature boy, renting a skiff, drifting and cutting bait with my teeth when occasion demanded. Oddly enough, the largest percentage of my catch was the hardhead.

The regulars around Stinett's wharf tried to tout me into believing that the hardheads (croakers) had left the bay. However, I boated a dozen ranging from 19½ to 14 inches in addition to four large trout (weakfish) and a flock of top-size Norfolk spots.

Bait? I used 3½ peeler crabs for a catch that weighed more than 50 pounds. On another day when unable to obtain peelers. I tried Louisiana shrimp, usually the No. 1 hardhead bait, and didn't get a bite.

BLOODWORMS brought an occasional hardhead and a stray trout, but drew finger-length spot in such number it was impossible to keep a fair-size hook baited.

There's no end to the variety to be caught in the bay at this time. One trip resulted in boating eel, toad, flounder, King William perch, white perch, spot, trout, hardhead and skipjack. The last named is a fish seldom hooked in midbay waters.

It's breed between a herring and a shad and somewhat resembling a blue fish in color. However, it is a blank for eating, having tiny bones resembling a portiere hanging from its spinal column. I'm told, like shad, the bones can be dissolved by certain cooking methods. However, the meat isn't tasty enough to warrant the trouble.

Trolling with the commercial guides is better than fair at this time, although there are days and days. Most captains are charging $30 a day for trolling. Boats are returning to harbor with catches of from 10 to 30 rockfish (striped bass) with a few blues tossed in. The rock aren't the tackle-busting kind due around later but range from 1½ to 3 pounds for the most part, although a few big fellows are being taken.

The most productive lure at present is the small white feather. Most rock and blues are being hooked without use of lead. However, we had success with a 1½ Huntington drone trailed by a 4 ounce sinker.

Oddly, there wasn't a seagull around when we made our best catch. However, the gulls, seeking the "leavings" when the big fish are working on the schooling minnows, are still the top fishing guide for trolling.

Browns Halt Tribe Streak At Seven by Winning, 3-2

Cleveland, Sept. 13 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns pushed over three runs against four Cleveland pitchers in the final two innings today to win 3-2 and end a Tribe winning string of seven games.

Starting Pitcher Don Black of Cleveland who twisted his neck batting in the second inning and was taken to a hospital, was the first of six Tribe hurlers of whom Sam Zoldak was charged with the loss.

The Browns bunched three hits in the eighth inning to tie the score at 2-2, then used two more base blows and successive infield errors by Zoldak and Boudreau for a rally that brought the winning run in the ninth.

Bob Dillinger started the damage by leading off the eighth with a single. Jerry Priddy doubled to left and Zoldak replaced Steve Gromek and Yielded a two-run single to Dick Kokos.

Paul Lehner led off the ninth with a single and Johnny Moss reached second on his sacrifice attempt when Zoldak threw wild to first, Lehner going to third. Lou Boudreau then bobbled Sam Dente's grounder to fill the bases, and Joe Schultz, pinch-hitting for pitcher Karl Drews, drove a single to right to bring home Lehner with the winning run.

The Midshipmen will drill with Rutgers in a controlled workout on Farragut Field.

Wera, Bosox Farm Official, Suicide

Oroville, Calif., Sept. 13 (AP).—Julian Wera, 39, business manager of the Boston Red Sox' farm baseball club in Oroville, was found dead today at his home. Police Chief A. F. Kessler said Wera committed suicide by taking an overdose of sleeping tablets after writing two notes to his wife.

Kessler said that Wera was a one-time major league baseball player. Oroville is a member of the Far West Baseball League.

Unconscious in Hospital

Pitcher Don Black Suffers Critical Brain Hemorrhage as He Fouls Ball

Cleveland, Sept. 13 (AP).—Pitcher Don (No-Hit) Black of the Cleveland Indians was in "critical" condition and suffering hemorrhages tonight at Charity Hospital after wrenching his neck while batting against the St. Louis Browns.

Dr. Edward Castle, team physician, said Black suffered a subarachnoid hemorrhage—a hemorrhage over the brain with blood getting into the spinal column.

He said it resulted when an aneurysm, an unnatural growth between a vein and an artery, broke.

He said Black was bleeding "off and on" but that if no major hemorrhage developed the Indians' right-hander might recover.

Castle conferred with Brain Specialist Spencer Braden, who operated on the late Welterweight Boxer Jimmy Doyle in the same hospital last year after his fatal fight with Ray (Sugar) Robinson. He said no operation could be performed on the hurler at this time.

The critically injured pitcher lapsed into unconsciousness shortly after he fell while rapping out a foul ball this afternoon at Municipal Stadium. He failed to regain consciousness in the hospital.

Dr. Castle said ice packs were being applied to Black's neck and head but that only time would tell whether he could pull through.

[The Associated Press reported that Castle said Black had an excellent chance to recover. He reported the condition could not be corrected by surgery and said Black's chances of survival depended on whether a mass hemorrhage developed.

[Earlier, a spinal puncture was performed to aid in the diagnosis.

["If no more hemorrhages develop, he might regain consciousness enough to recognize his friends tomorrow," Dr. Castle said. "Then again, he may stay in his present condition for quite awhile. At any rate, he is through with baseball for the season."

[Whether he will ever play baseball again is debatable, the physician reported.]

Black, an erratic hitter, was batting in the second inning of today's game when he fouled off Bill Kennedy's pitch into the stands to the right of the plate.

He fell to his knees immediately and held his head with both hands. Trainers helped him off the field minutes later but he was unconscious before he reached the hospital.

Black, who made a pitching comeback last year after joining Alcoholics Anonymous, topped his rehabilitation by pitching a no-hitter against Philadelphia on July 10, 1947. He has a 2-2 record this season.

Fight Not So Exciting For 11,631 Customers

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Ezzard Charles upped his battling average against Jimmy Bivins to .750 at Griffith Stadium last night by scoring a unanimous 10-round decision over the Cleveland heavyweight he has fought four times and whipped thrice.

Coming down the stretch like the champion he hopes to become, Charles won four of the last five rounds to gain the votes of Referee Ray Bowen and Judges Robert Kilmartin and J. U. Trigg.

Most of the crowd of 11,631 agreed with the verdict, but there were scattered boos from some customers who thought that Bivins, the 2-1 underdog, should have been declared the winner.

The crowd, second largest in the history of Washington boxing, paid $37,162.64 net to see the Washington Variety Club-sponsored show. The gross gate was $48,560.

Charles weighed 176, Bivins 2½ pounds more. There were no knockdowns.

Tenth Round Best of All

Referee Bowen scored six rounds for Charles, three for Bivins and one even. Judge Kilmartin had it five rounds for Charles, three Bivins and two even while Judge Trigg voted six rounds Charles, two rounds Bivins and two rounds even.

Only two points separated the contestants on Kilmartin's score card. Trigg voted Charles by six points and Bowen had it Charles by eight points, the widest margin of the three officials.

The fistic fireworks which the two leading heavyweight contenders were expected to furnish failed to materialize until the last round. Bivins and Charles then took turns attempting to eliminate each other, Charles getting the better of the exchanges.

Bivins, who appeared tired when the last round began, started it by jolting Ezzard with a stinging right to the head. Charles waded in and unleashed a series of lefts to the body and rights to the head which had Bivins in a bad way as the fight-ending bell sounded.

Know Each Other Well

Had it not been for the gingery final session, the fight could have well been a flop. Not that the contestants didn't try, but because they were too accustomed to each other's styles after three previous bouts.

Slow to get started, Charles showed nothing until the fourth round when he spun Bivins around with a short hook to the side of the head. This took much of the steam out of Bivins and two rounds later Charles could call his shots. But he, too, lacked the steam to take advantage of his many openings.

Charles' best punch was long left to the body, but he was unable to penetrate the Bivins defense with any degree of consistency until the sixth round.

Except for the tenth round, when Bivins was sagging, Charles' best performance came in the sixth round when he tried to measure Bivins for the kill after a hard body blow had buckled him.

With the crowd shouting for a knockout, Bivins managed to tie up the onrushing Charles and ward off what seemed like disaster.

Charles maintained the upper hand in the sixth, seventh, eighth and tenth rounds, but Bivins had a shade the better of it in the ninth, the only round he was credited with after the fifth.

In the semiwindup, Washington's Jimmy Cooper, 123, scored a second-round tko over Baltimore's Johnny Longo, 127.

In the preliminaries, Roscoe Mercer, Washington, 143, won by a TKO over Jackie Ford, 140, Washington, in 2:05 of the first round; Garland Edwards, 153, Washington, outpointed Holly Saunders, 152, Trenton, N. J., in a four-rounder, and Bob Amos, 176, Cleveland, won by a technical knockout over Al Edwards, Washington, 147, in 1:20 of the sixth round.

At Touchdown Lunch . . .

Castiglia Rejoins 'Skins; Marshall Blasts at Arch Ward

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

The bronzed but slightly battered Redskins came home yesterday morning and before they'd been around eight hours there were the following developments:

1. Fullback Jim Castiglia was signed to a 1948 contract.

2. The Redskin squad was officially greeted by the Touchdown Club at a Statler Hotel luncheon, and

3. Owner George Marshall hurled another in a long string of challenges at Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune.

It didn't take Castiglia, former Georgetown ace and one of the National Football League's best ground-gainers last year, and the Redskins long to get together.

Big Jim was closeted only a few minutes with Redskin bosses, both parties being anxious to have Castiglia in a Redskin uniform.

The burly line-bucker who was picked up in midseason last year had expressed a burning desire to play one more year before retiring. At the same time the Redskins had seen several of their plunging prospects fade by the wayside and were in sad need of an experienced hand like Castiglia.

As is customary with the 'Skin management, no announcement was made concerning Castiglia's 1948 salary. But the chances were good that Jim, who held out throughout the training season for $10,000, was given a good raise over his $5000 stipend of 1947.

More than 500 football fans showed up at the Touchdown Club affair at which Professional Comedian Bert Wheeler stole the show, and amateur comedian George Marshall ran second.

It was while answering questions submitted to "Dutch" Bergman by the crowd that Marshall fired his latest volley at Ward, sponsor of the Collegiate All-Star game.

"Do you think Ward will file suit against you for using Harry Gilmer in the Birmingham game?" Marshall was asked.

According to the N. F. L. contract with Ward's paper, teams owning players who refuse to appear in the All-Star game can be assessed $25,000 if those

Injured Evans Scotches Report He Will Quit

McKeesport, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP). Halfback Ray Evans, barely out of the anaesthetic after a rib operation, said today he wants to get back to playing football for the Pittsburgh Steelers as soon as possible.

The former University of Kansas star suffered a fracture of the left costal rib cartilage in yesterday's game with the Detroit Lions which the Steelers dropped, 38-10.

Dr. Ralph Daugherty operated today to reduce the fracture.

Several hours later, sipping orange juice and admittedly "still in a daze," the grid player scotched reports that he would quit football.

Motorcyclist Sets Speed Record of 150 MPH

Atty. Gen. to Honor Mathias Wednesday

Bob Mathias, 17-year-old Tulare, Calif., youngster who won the Olympic decathlon championship, will come to Washington Wednesday to receive an award as the "Youth of the Year."

The award will be presented by Attorney General Tom Clark in carrying out a proclamation by President Truman setting September aside as "Youth Month" on a national scale.

Sports broadcasters, headed by Bill Stern of the National Broadcasting Co., selected Mathias as the "Youth of the Year" at a luncheon in New York yesterday.

Mathias will appear with Attorney General Clark and national sports figures on a 30-minute NBC coast - to - coast broadcast Wednesday night, 9 to 9:30 o'clock.

Strauss Says Winner of Charles-Baksi Fight Nov. 12 'Deserves Heavy Title'

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

"THE WINNER of the Ezzard Charles-Joe Baksi November 12 fight in Madison Square Garden deserves the heavyweight championship."

So spoke Sol Strauss of Twentieth Century Sporting Club, promoter of the Charles-Baksi fight.

"That Charles looked great tonight, didn't he?" said Strauss, who was sitting in Charles' dressing room after last night's fight between Charles and Jimmy Bivins at Griffith Stadium.

When the Walcott-Lesnevich fight, slated for next week in Jersey City was brought up, Strauss snorted, "Who are they? Forget about them. Both those guys lost their last fights by knockouts.

"Baksi deserves a chance at the title more than those two. Suppose he did lose to some Swede in Sweden. He probably got the works by the officials there. And Baksi licked Freddie Mills and Bruce Woodcock, don't forget that," concluded Strauss.

Charles and Bivins were both unmarked in their dressing rooms after the fight, but they were miles apart in their summaries of what went on.

Charles said: "I was cautious early, and when I wanted to slug, I felt stiff. But I thought I beat Bivins by an easy margin. Bivins was in the best shape I've seen him." This was Charles' fourth match against Jimmy.

"I thought I had that fight in the bag," frowned Bivins. "He looked stale to me. He oughta stick to the light heavies," he concluded.

Jake Mintz, Charles worrisome manager, was dancing jubilantly around the dressing room. "You're looking at the next champ. This was the big fight. Nuts to the Walcotts and the rest. I ain't gonna worry no more. Ezzard's the champ as long as Louis stays retired," he muttered. "And I hope he stays retired."

"In my book, Bivins won easily on points," said Leonard Shane, Bivins manager. "Charles should have lost three rounds because of low punches." Charles did lose one round because of low blows.

Of the 30-odd newspapermen at the ringside, only one, Whitey Lewis of the Cleveland News, disagreed with the judges' unanimous verdict in favor of Charles. Felix Bocchicchio, manager of Jersey Joe Walcott, thought the fight was a draw.

Charles' knockout record struck no terror in the heart of a 210-pound Paramount News movie photographer, Tom Cravens, who was recording the fight at the ringside. Cravens was ready to challenge Charles when Ezzard missed the water bucket between the fourth and fifth rounds, and splattered the cameraman . . . Among those introduced were Heavyweights Pat Comiskey and Lee Savold and Lightheavy Archie Moore. Overlooked was Jackie Cranford, a hometown boy who only six months ago was considered an outstanding heavyweight contender . . .

Bel Air Race Meet Opens Wednesday

With Wednesday's program, the Bel Air racing plant will open its 10-day meeting and the last stand of the minor track season in Maryland. The session runs through next week with the horses getting a few days of rest before the start of the bigtime at Laurel on September 30.

A new administration building has been built in the rear of the grandstand of concrete block and of Dutch Colonial style, giving the track the best equipped secretary's office in the State. The building also includes a restaurant, kitchen, offices, hospital, jockey's room and a recreation room for riders.

Two new 50-stall barns have been added, bringing the track's stabling accommodations to 750. A new ladies lounge has been built in the grandstand.

Post time for the first race is 2 p. m. with the daily double closing at 1:45. The B. and O. will provide train service, leaving Union Station at 10:40. Usual buses also will provide transportation for Washington fans.

players appear in exhibition games. Ward has said he would sue not only the Redskins but the league and the Green Bay Packers, who allowed an "ineligible" player to perform against them.

"Mr. Ward has not told the truth about the affair," Marshall said," and it's time the whole case was aired. The Redskins would be delighted to have Ward sue."

It was the only serious note in a homecoming program that also included introduction of all the '48 Redskins, tap-dancing by pretty Rita Johnson and songs by Gene Archer, a grid preview by sportscaster Harry Wismer, and an address by Gen. C. B. Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps.

The Redskins continue their tour of the luncheon circuit, also joining the breakfast circuit today. . . . At 8 a. m. they'll be guests of the Early Birds at the Willard, and at 12:30 they join the Advertising Club for chow at the Statler . . . There'll still be tough workouts before Sunday's appearance in Baltimore against the Chicago Bears for the Variety Club's charity fund . . . That will be the supreme test for at least five players, the squad now numbering that many over the limit of 35.

Tourney Set If Louis Quits

Philadelphia, Sept. 13 (AP).—The National Boxing Association has a plan for selecting the successor to Joe Louis—if and when the heavyweight champion retires.

Abe J. Greene, president of the NBA told a reporter today his group was prepared to recognize the winner of an elimination tournament—between Jersey Joe Walcott, Gus Lesnevich, Jimmy Bivins and Ezzard Charles—as the new heavyweight king if the Brown Bomber officially calls it quits.

But, Greene, emphasized, "We will not force Louis to resign.

Arcaro Up On Winner In Fast Time

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—First Flight, which was voted the 1946 champion 2-year-old and has done little since because of various ailments, flashed down the Widener straightaway in near track record time today to win the $31,700 fall Highweight Handcap.

The 4-year-old filly, Bay Daughter of Mahmoud, outstepped 16 rival sprinters in the thirty-fifth running of the event, the opening day feature at Belmont's 18-day fall meeting.

The filly, owned by C. V. Whitney, defeated Mrs. Ellsworth Augustus' Big Story two lengths, while Greentree Stable's Blue Border was third, another five lengths, back.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro, who made it three successes for the afternoon by taking the main event, brought First Flight along with a great rush about three-sixteenths out and she hit the wire in a flashy 1:08 3/5. This was just two-fifths of a second off the track mark for the six-furlong straightaway held jointly by True North and Bimlette.

The crowd of 21,289 had established Dixiana's Spy Song the favorite at slightly less than 3 to 1, while First Flight, coupled with a stablemate, Dinner Gong, was second choice.

Packing top weight of 140 pounds compared with 123 on the winner, Spy Song was fourth after leading in the first quarter mile. Pipette, barely defeated by Rippey in the race a year ago, was fifth this time.

The crowd gave a big cheer as Big Story, a 30-to-1 shot, with Doug Dodson up, took over the lead driving into the stretch. But First Flight was just getting warmed up to her work. She flew away from the pack, set aim on the wire and closed with a rush to pick up the winner's share of $22,650. The winner paid $8.70, $5.50 and $4.30.

How Long Is Your Line?

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13. (AP).—Want to know why you didn't catch as many fresh water fish as you thought you would this summer?

Your line probably was too short.

E. A. Seaman and Robert F. Stephens of the West Virginia Conservation Commission told the seventy-eighth annual meeting of the American Fisheries Society they made a study of the depth habits of fresh water fish.

This is what Seaman and Stephens learned at Tygart Reservoir near Grafton, W. Va.

"Carp were taken at a maximum of 67 feet, large-mouth black bass at a minimum of 46 feet; rock bass at 82 feet; bullheads at 83 feet and bluegills at a maximum of 25 feet."

9 Teams Talk About Series

Cincinnati, Sept. 13 (AP).—Rules and arrangements for the 1948 World Series will be discussed here Wednesday, the office of Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler disclosed today.

Nine teams have been invited to the annual pre-world series meeting—the four leaders from each league and the New York Giants of the National League.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said discussion subjects will include ticket prices, umpire operations, rules and other routine arrangements.

Club representatives will include:

Louis Perini, president of the Boston Braves; John F. Collins, representing the Brooklyn Baseball Club; A. H. Schlensker, assistant treasurer of the Pittsburg Pirates; Robert Hannegan, president, and Fred Saigh, jr., vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and E. T. Brannick of the New York Giants.

Bill Veeck, president, and Rudy Schaffer of the Cleveland Indians; Roy Mack, vice president of the Philadelphia Athletics, and George Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankees. A representative of the Boston Red Sox was not named.

Falkenburg Hard Pressed To Advance

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP). Bob Falkenburg finally made his debut in the National Tennis Championships today, and it was not a promising one for the tall Wimbledon titlist.

Plainly unsure of himself, Falkenburg struggled long and hard before he won his second-round match from another Los Angeles product, left-handed George Richards, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3, 6—3. Off his form against a virtual unknown, Bob probably can be written off as a serious threat in the present championships.

Budge Patty scored in straight sets today over Arnold Saul of New York, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3. Patty meets Falkenburg tomorrow.

The other high-seeded American players all won fairly easily again, though Gardnar Mulloy of Miami was given quite a tussle before he subdued 37-year-old Sidney Wood, jr., of New York, 8—6, 6—4, 10—8, in a gallery-pleaser in the stadium.

Billy Talbert of New York, second favorite to Frankie Parker to win the title, found another quick victim in Eugene Garrett of Los Angeles, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4. Fifth-seeded Earl Cochell of San Francisco eliminated Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, 6—0, 6—3, 3—6, 6—4, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia squelched Sam Match of San Francisco, 6—3, 6—4, 6—3.

Moving into the fourth round as Mulloy's next opponent was Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, who took out the eighth-seeded foreign player, Enrique Morea of Argentine, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1, 2—6, 6—0.

In the women's division, champion Louise Brough of Beverly Hills turned back Mrs. Dorothy Bundy Cheney of Santamonica, 6—4, 6—2, in the stadium. Mrs. Pat Canning Todd of Lajolla, the other title threat in the lower bracket, smashed Mrs. Helen P. Rihbany of Boston, 6—2, 6—2.

Fifth seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, moved closer to a quarter-final meeting with Miss Brough by beating Barbara Wilkins of New Rochelle, N. Y., 6—2, 7—5. Mrs. Virginia Kovacs of San Francisco accounted for Mrs. Sheila Summers, South American women's champion, by 7—5, 6—3. She draws Miss Fry in the next round.

17-Year-Old Comes Out of Stands, Tosses 8-Hitter, Beats Max Lanier

Gloucester, Va., Sept. 13 (AP).—Tappahannock's semipro baseball team found itself in a pickle yesterday when its star hurler turned up sick and couldn't pitch against arch-rival Gloucester.

So, in desperation, the Tappahannock manager combed the stands for volunteers. A 17-year-old youngster, Chick Fox, said he'd have a try at it. He got the job.

All he did was to shut out Gloucester, 4-0, on eight hits. In so doing he outpitched Max Lanier, former St. Louis Cardinal star now banned from the majors for jumping to the Mexican League.

After the game, some of the Tappahannock fans in the crowd of 400 showed their gratitude. They refunded the price of his admission ticket.

Navy Is Question Mark

Penn State Looms as East's Best—But Army May Surprise

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—Penn State appears to have all the equipment necessary for a successful defense of its mythical Eastern football championship this year, but don't sell Army short.

Up at West Point, Army Coach Earl Blaik also has rounded up an abundance of manpower calculated to return the Military Academy to the gridiron heights. His big problem is molding it into the right combinations.

Behind Penn State and Army in preseason prospects among the major Eastern teams outside the Ivy League come Rutgers and Villanova, with Navy still something of a question mark under its new coach, George Sauer.

Coach Bob Higgins of Penn State has 19 returning lettermen, including half a dozen regulars from the 1947 club that brought the Nittany Lions their first all-victorious season in 35 years.

Halfback Jeff Durkota and Steve Suhey, All-America guard, are among the missing but Higgins has a wealth of backfield material and in triple-threat. Tailback Elwood Petchel he may have one of the country's finest offensive stars. If Penn State has a weak spot, it's at the tackle slots. And Higgins is busy remedying that.

Army will miss Rip Rowan, its high-scoring back of 1947, as well as Joe Steffy and Goble Bryant, standout linemen. But the other backfield regulars—Galiffa, Bobby Stuart and Winfield Scott—are still around, striving to recapture starting positions.

With 22 returning lettermen and a host of likely prospects from last year's Plebe squad battling for regular assignments, some of the 1947 starters may be on the bench when the season opens. Army will make up in depth for what it lacks in experience.

Villanova, which has been taking its annual September licking from Army in recent years, feels this may be the time to change the pattern. The Wildcats have 20 lettermen, including two fine backs in Bob Polider and Joe Rogers. If they can get past Texas A. and M., September 18, without injury, they may spoil Army's bid to regain the winning habit when they open the Cadet season September 25.

Bettye White Medalist in Gal's Golf

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 13 (AP).—Mrs. Bettye Mims White of Dallas won medal honors of the forty-eighth National Women's Amateur Golf Tournament today in a qualifying round. She carded a par 39, 38—77, one over par.

California Champion Dot Kielty of Long Beach voluntarily eliminated herself because of a miscalculated score.

Miss Kielty disqualified herself to USGA executive committeemen.

She had been credited with an 8 on the par eighteenth hole. Instead, she had taken a 9 on the 340-yard finisher, through strokes lost by an unplayable lie and three putts.

Rule 21 of the United States Golf Association read: "No alteration may be made on a card after a competitor has returned it to the committee. If a competitor returns a score for any hole lower than actually played, he (or she) shall be disqualified."

Miss Kielty turned in a card of 49½, 43—82. She actually took 44 on the second nine. The oversight cost her a chance for the most coveted title in women's golf. She is already the Western amateur champion.

Beverly Hanson of Fargo, N. Dak., had 82.

Helen Sigel of Philadelphia qualified with 40-43—83, as did 14-year-old Marlene Bauer of Long Beach, in with 39-44—83, and Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore, 40-43—83.

Five times national queen Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare of Philadelphia qualified with 42-43—85. Mrs. Vare won her first national in 1922, before many of the 108 starters today were born.

Bears, Giants Meet Tonight

New York, Sept. 13 (AP).—The New York pro football Giants will make their local debut tomorrow night when they meet their ancient rivals, the Chicago Bears, in the tenth annual New York Herald Tribune Fresh Air Fund game at the Polo Grounds.

On performances to date, the Bears would rate an edge. The Bears defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 28-14; the Philadelphia Eagles, 24-23, and the Boston Yanks twice by scores of 42-7 and 28-14. The Giants lost to the Green Bay Packers, 7-0, and to the Detroit Lions, 23-20.

Whittington Shoots Ace

Pat Whittington, 600 Mullin st. se., shot a 123-yard ace yesterday at Anacostia golf course. He used a 9 iron. His score for 18 holes was 80.

C. U. Opens Drills; 40 Players Report

Forty football candidates for the 1948 team at Catholic University reported to Coach Tommy Chisari yesterday for the first of the twice-daily workouts leading up to an October 2 opener against the Patuxent Naval Air Base.

The Cardinals will play eight games this year, with 26 lettermen expected to bear the burden. Sam Fox will coach the ends and Bingo Stant the line.

Oatman's 68 Best Score in Pro-Senior

Harold Oatman of the Norfolk Officers Club, yesterday topped a field of 24 pros with a 2 under par 68 to take the pro sweepstakes in the Pro-Senior golf tournament at the Columbia Country Club.

Oatman achieved his par-smashing score the hard way, nullifying four bogies with six birdies. Johnny Bass of Clifton Park, Harry Griesmer of Bethesda, and Bob Barnett of Chevy Chase were right on Oatman's heels with 69s.

John S. McClure birdied Columbia's hilly eighteenith hole and totalled a 74 to lead the amateurs, all over 50 years old, in low gross scores. McClure was on the par four eighteenth green in two and dropped in a 10 foot putt for the birdie. The first prize, however, went to Col. S. Trowbridge for his 76—9—67, the low net score.

Charlie Bassler teamed with his Rolling Road club member, Karl Betts, to shoot the Pro-Senior best ball, 30—33—63. Oatman came in for a prize in the Pro-Senior too, posting 34—30—64 with Spencer Overton of Rolling Road to tie for second place. Bobby Williams and Capt. J. B. Pollard of the Naval Academy also had 64. The amateurs were allowed only three-fourths of their handicaps with which to help their pros in this event.

Results of the pro sweepstakes: Harold Oatman (Norfolk Officers Club), 36,32—68; Johnny Bass (Clifton Park), 34, 33—69; Harry Griesmer (Bethesda), 34, 35—69; Bob Barnett (Chevy Chase), 34, 35—69; Johnny Musser (Alliview), 36, 34—70; George Diffenbaugh (Kenwood), 36, 34—70; Charlie Bassler (Rolling Road), 37, 34—71; Ralph Beach (Suburban), 36, 35—71; Walter Romans (Baltimore), 36, 35—71; Andy Gibson (C.C. of Md.), 38, 34—72; Al Houghton (Prince Georges), 36, 36—72; Bobby Williams (Naval Academy), 36, 36—72; Clagett Stevens (Manor), 37, 35—72; Rick McHale (Chevy Chase), 37, 37—74; Max Elbin (Burning Tree), 38, 36—74; Roger Peacock (Sligo Park), 37, 37—74; Bill Clarke (Baltimore), 37, 38—75; Ward Burgess (Clifton Park), 38, 37—75; Mel Shorey (Indian Spring), 37, 38—75; Johnny O'Donnell (Norfolk Commissioned Officers Club), 40, 35—75; Charlie Betschler (Hillendale), 39, 38—77; Fred McLeod (Columbia), 40, 39—79; Bill Strausbaugh (C.C. of Md.), 39, 41—80; Walter Bogley (Prince Georges), 41, 40—81.

Results of pro-senior best ball: Charlie Bassler and Karl Betts (Rolling Road), 30, 33—63; Harold Oatman (Norfolk) and Spencer Overton (Rolling Road), 34, 30—64; Bobby Williams and Capt. J. B. Pollard (Naval Academy), 32, 32—64; Al Houghton and Jess Baggett (Prince Georges), 33, 32—65; Bob Barnett and Col. S. Trowbridge (Chevy Chase), 33, 32—65; Harold Oatman (Norfolk) and A. W. 9 Negroes' Appeal for Entry To Arlington School Denied

—The Washington Post

Hoffman Boston High School at 14th and South Queen sts., Arlington, Va.

outcome of a suit filed last September in Alexandria District Court by 16-year-old Constance Carter, 3425 S. 22d st., Arlington, who sought and was denied admission to Washington-Lee.

Miss Carter's attorney, Leon Ransom, said yesterday he personally hoped the Alexandria court, after reviewing the Carter case, would follow the Richmond decision and order Arlington to provide school facilities.

The nine-member Negro delegation visiting Washington-Lee quietly waited outside the main entrance while one of their leaders, James B. Cobb, an associate of Ransom, talked to Richmond.

Earlier yesterday, Cobb, and Julius B. Lee, another associate of Ransom's, had inspected the Hoffman-Boston School to see if its facilities matched those at the white high school.

Facilities Viewed

They reported "facilities have not begun to equal" those at Washington-Lee. Attorney Ransom declared their findings probably will be added to files on the Carter test case as "supplementary evidence."

Specifically, Cobb and Lee complained of the following "shortcomings" at Hoffman-Boston High School:

1. An inadequate library, with out-of-date textbooks, including a "New Geography" printed in 1920, and many books with one or both covers missing.

2. No gymnasium, with indoor athletic activities conducted in the school's workshop. A bushel basket hoop, the men said, served as a basketball basket.

3. No stadium, and an athletic field with grass "above your knees."

4. Manually operated machines instead of the electric variety in the domestic science shops, a gas stove but no electric model. Insufficient equipment in the vocational (wood working, auto mechanics) shop.

5. Senior high, junior high and elementary school children together in one building. The Negro leaders said this posed "a disciplinary problem" and added to "juvenile delinquency."

Answering these criticisms, Fletcher Kemp, Arlington school superintendent, said yesterday the school board has spent or contracted to spend "more than $20,000" on the Hoffman-Boston School since last June.

Barnard Joy, school board chairman, has listed several of the improvements made at the school, including hiring of a full-time music supervisor, gym teacher, and librarian and a new home economics teacher.

The home economics room has received new equipment; the library is expecting "at any time" a new shipment of books; the auditorium has been redecorated, heating system improved, and lockers ordered for students.

Two New Classrooms

In addition, the school board has on order a temporary structure which will be placed beside the present building, adding two new classrooms.

Joy said the school board "will continue to work toward improvement of all of Arlington schools, making every effort to provide each of the 31 schools with facilities, staff, and curriculum that are equal."

Leaders in yesterday's test admission case pointed out that the Hoffman-Boston School, which last year had a student body of 23 and only one graduate, never has been accredited.

Last year the school board paid tuition to District schools for Arlington Negro pupils unable to find courses they wanted at Hoffman-Boston.

This year, however, the board has stopped tuition payments for all except Arlington seniors now attending District schools who will need accreditation to go on to college.

Negro parents who asked admission of their children to Washington-Lee are Mrs. Eleanor Taylor, 3425 S. 22d st., mother of Constance Carter whose case is pending in District Court.

Mrs. Mary Hernandez, 2102 S. Glebe rd.; Mrs. Armenia Gaskill, 3524 S. 24th st.; Mrs. Lillia Mae Snow, 2132 S. Monroe st.; Mrs. Josie Bevard, 2014 N. Dinwiddie st.; Mrs. Evelyn McCamey, 3108 S. 18th st.; Mrs. Eleanor Jackson (no address available); Mrs. Mamie Brown, 1941 N. Dinwiddie st.; Mrs. Almeda Perkins, 2018 N. Dinwiddie st., and Moses Owens (no address available).

Moscow Meat Down, Russian Radio Says

London, Sept. 13 (U.P.)—Radio Moscow said today the price of meat on Moscow markets has dropped "another 10 per cent since the beginning of September."

The broadcast said "vegetables are 15 to 20 per cent cheaper than they were, and the markets are flooded with diary produce, meat and vegetables."

New Steps Planned in School Fight

The next step in the attempt to gain better facilities for Negro public school pupils in King George and Gloucester Counties in Virginia will be taken probably on Wednesday or Thursday, the attorney leading the legal drive said yesterday.

Acting on a Federal District Court order to equalize white and Negro school facilities, which he asserts has not been carried out, Martin A. Martin, Negro attorney, plans to file motions for contempt of the court order against the school boards and the superintendents of the two counties.

The motions will go before Federal District Judge Sterling Hutcheson, who made the previous decision and ordered equal facilities. They will be filed in Richmond.

In another legal action planned by Martin and his law associates, Oliver W. Hill and Spottswood W. Robinson 3d, a suit will be filed later against King George County school officials alleging discrimination in the pay of E. B. Webb, principal of the Negro Training School, G. T. Saunders, agriculture teacher, and Miss Lillian C. Brown, commerical education teacher, Martin declared.

The three have been made "assistants" to their counterparts in the King George High School for white students, in what Martin termed a recent "demotion" order signed by Division School Superintendent T. Benton Gayle.

Gayle termed the move an "administrative" one which did not involve any salary changes. However, the attorneys say salaries at the Negro schools do not equal those in the white school.

Attorneys for the Surry County school board, meanwhile, put the finishing touches yesterday on a report of progress in equalizing facilities in white and Negro schools, to be presented to Federal District Court in Richmond on Wednesday. Unlike the other counties, Surry is merely under a court request to make a report.

Wednesday is the deadline for the Surry County "equalization" report before Judge Sterling Hutcheson in Federal District Court.

'Axis Sally's' Arraignment Set for Thursday

Mildred Elizabeth Gillars, 47, called Axis Sally of World War II, who was indicted last Friday on 10 counts of treason, will be arraigned Thursday at 10 a. m. before District Court Judge Jennings Bailey.

Mrs. Gillars, also known as Mildred E. Sisk, has been held at the District Jail without bond since August 21.

The grand jury charged that she aided Hitler's Nazi German government in its psychological warfare against the United States through broadcasts and recordings of messages of captured American soldiers which were later broadcast.

Women's Shoe Prices Are Expected to Hold

New York, Sept. 13 (AP)—Women's shoes retailing from $18.95 up will hold at their present price levels through the early spring season, manufacturers said today.

Emphasis Sought on History

American history, has made the change necessary, Dr. Corning said.

Teachers will be able to spend more time on the events of the present century, including the two world wars.

The superintendent said that the schools' committee on curriculum and the city's high school principals favor the change.

Students now in high school will not be affected if the board approves the plan, but it will apply to students who enter high school next semester.

"We do not want to disturb the programs of students already in high school," Corning said.

The one year of American history is the only social science course now required of high school students.

During the last session of Congress, two bills were introduced to extend this requirement. One called for a four year course in American history and two additional years' study of the Constitution.

Dr. Corning and the Board of Education opposed the measure on the ground that if passed they would disrupt the entire curriculum. Hearings were held but the bills never were reported out of committee.

Dr. Corning said at the time he had undertaken a study to determine if the required course should not be extended a semester.

Electives Offered

In addition to the semester of civics, which would be absorbed by the new history course, the public schools offer as electives a two year comprehensive course in World history, and a one year simplified course, and semester courses in sociology, economics, current world problems, Latin American History and law.

George J. Jones, head of the history department in District white schools, who is recommending extension of the American history program, described it as "much more than a study of facts."

"The course brings out the economic, social and political problems of the country during its history and stresses cultural developments.

"We do what we can," he said, "to give students a good understanding of their democratic government and institutions and instill pride and faith in them.

"We stress very much the duties and responsibilities of citizens."

Commenting on the unit on the Constitution, he said, "We teach students to understand the Constitution, and to respect and admire it."

Health Dept. to Aid Tract 48 Fight

A citizens' fight to improve "deplorable" living conditions in Tract 48—one of Northwest Washington's most congested areas—received a pledge of assistance last night from the D. C. Health Department.

John C. isseleff, supervising inspector of the Bureau of Public Health Engineering, told the Community Welfare Council of Tract 48 that the bureau "will offer guidance and every possible assistance" in helping the council clean up the area.

Kisseleff said the "greatest hindrance" to the Health Department in doing the job it wants to do is lack of personnel. Even so, he declared, "there is hardly any city block in Tract 48 that isn't being aided by the Health Department."

1162 Homes Minus Plumbing

The area, inhabited by about 13,000 Negroes and 400 white persons, covers 31 city blocks bounded by Florida ave. on the north, New York ave. on the south, New Jersey ave. on the east and 7th st. on the west.

According to the council, which held its fourth meeting last night, Tract 48's three square miles contain 2676 dwellings of which 1162 are without plumbing.

Charles C. Beckett, executive secretary of the Urban League of Washington and chairman of the council's housing committee, revealed the council will institute a program of tenant and landlord education for the area, with emphasis on the landlords.

Court Action for Landlords

After a study of Health Department files, which will be opened to the council, to determine owners of tenements and substandard habitations in the tract, the "proper authorities" will be approached, Beckett said, to see that the dwellings are improved. He recommended court action for "those landlords who prove to be recalcitrant—and they are legion."

A further study will be made, the council decided, of the area's dwelling units, including the number of people in each.

A committee, headed by Beckett and Dr. Mary R. Waller, District school teacher, was formed to study methods of focusing public attention on living conditions within the area.

Next meeting of the council is scheduled for 8 p. m. October 11 at Urban League headquarters, 547 Florida ave. nw., scene of last night's meeting.

New Council Meets Tonight In Alexandria

Fireworks are expected tonight when Alexandria's new seven-man city council holds its first official meeting.

The meeting will bring Councilman Marshall J. Beverley face to face for the first time with officials whom he has criticized in repeated public statements during the past month.

These officials will include City Manager Nicholas A. Colasanto who Beverley said was "not capable of managing the city;" three holdover members of the old council, who Beverly said were responsible for the city's "deplorable" financial situation; and City Registrar Fred Petitt, whose office Beverley called "overstaffed."

Listed on the official agenda is a discussion by Beverley on "Finance and Management." Beverley yesterday would give no indication as to what he would say.

Also on the docket are resolutions to be offered by Leroy S. Bendheim, another new councilman, calling for: (1) Fixing of responsibility of department heads to the city manager; (2) setting up police and fire trial boards; (3) study of advisability of creating department of finance; and (4) study of advisability of creating a municipal civil service system for certain classes of city employes.

The council will elect a vice mayor and hear committee appointments from Mayor William T. Wilkins. Holdover members besides Wilkins, are R. Samuel Luckett and John W. Tulloch. New members, besides Beverly and Bendheim, are Roy C. Bragg and Albert A. Smoot.

NLRB Names Machinists as Vultee Agency

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday unanimously decided to allow the International Association of Machinists to continue as bargaining agent for nearly 7000 workers at the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. Plant, San Diego, Calif.

The machinists' majority in the big plant was challenged by the CIO-United Auto Workers. The election, held at the request of the auto workers, was one of the closest in NLRB annals.

The machinists, an independent union, received 3437 in a total of 6851 valid ballots, 11 more than was required for a majority.

The decision climaxed a long postwar struggle between the machinists and the auto workers for control of San Diego aircraft factories.

If Stomach Gas or Sour Food Taste Robs You of Sleep

Here's How You May Help, Whether You Eat 500 Pounds or 2000 Pounds of Food In a Year

You can't feel cheerful, be happy and sleep well, if your stomach is always upset. As age advances the "old stomach" needs more help. The reason is this:

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains very special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Public Reaction Sought at Hearing On School Bonds

Sentiment for and against a proposed bond issue of about four million dollars to build additional schools in Arlington is expected to be voiced at a School Board hearing at 8 o'clock tonight in Thomas Jefferson High School, 816 S. Fillmore st., Arlington.

Dr. Edward J. Braun, consultant to the board, will report on a study of needs for school buildings for the county's 20,000 children now under age, and means of financing them.

Dr. Barnard Joy, School Board chairman, who will preside, hopes for public reaction at the hearing that will enable the board to determine the amount of bonds to be sought and to launch petitions for the 1000 signatures needed to place the question before the voters in a referendum at the November 7 election.

U. N. Group to Meet

Milton S. Eisenhower announced yesterday that the second national conference of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization will be held in Cleveland from March 31 through April 2.

Falls Church Council Joins Arlington Gas Rate Protest

The Falls Church City Council last night asked to be included in an Arlington County protest against what it termed "excessive" Rosslyn Gas Co. rates.

The Arlington County Board last Saturday called on the Virginia State Corporation Commission to investigate the gas company's profits and expenses.

On a motion by Falls Church Councilman J. H. McCarthy, the city council asked that the Arlington Public Utilities Commission include Falls Church in any future negotiations on the matter.

In other action, the council set up six standing committees to handle its major problems this year.

Important among the standing committees set up last night was one to consider problems pertaining to the proposed city annexation of a mile of adjacent Fairfax County land. The committee will be headed by Councilman J. H. McCarthy.

Another group, to deal with finances, will be headed by Councilman Archie Munson. The Public Affairs Committee, which will sift the problems and complaints of citizens, will have J. C. McRae as chairman.

In charge of the Public Buildings and Grounds Committee will be Councilman Sherman Wells. This unit will work to provide better quarters for the city government and more room for city property. The utilities committee, chairmaned by McCarthy, will consider gas and electric rates and public bus transportation problems. The committee of rules will be led by Mrs. Merrill Lee Chanel, the county's only woman member.

Sworn in at their first council meeting last night were three members appointed by the other six to bring the body to the required size—John R. Eskin, real estate, 700 E. Broad st.; Samuel J. Dennis, Commerce Department economist, 419 E. Columbia st., and Lee M. Rhoads, Navy Department contract administrator, 407 Rosemary le.

When Falls Chuch assumed city status August 16, its council size was increased from six to nine.

Army Negotiates Cartridge Contract For Preparedness

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 13 (AP).—Works Manager E. C. Griffing says the Remington Arms Co. will establish a standby or "pilot" line for the production of .50 caliber cartridges for the Army Ordnance Department.

Terms of the contract for the work were announced at Springfield by Lieut. Col. A. M. Johnson, deputy chief of the Springfield ordnance district.

Termed a preparedness move, the line is being established "so large scale production may be started without delay, if required."

Griffing said that actual production of "a small quantity" of ammunition would not be started for several months.

Hughes Flying Boat To Be Tested Oct. 15

Los Angeles, Sept. 13 (U.P.).—Howard Hughes' 25-million-dollar flying boat, world's largest airplane, will take to the water again October 15, a spokesman said today.

Since last November, when it flew briefly, the 200-ton plane has undergone static tests.

U. S. Attorneys To Hold Parley

An annual 3 day conference of United States attorneys from all 48 States and territories will open today at the Department of Justice.

Attorney General Clark will welcome the conferees at 10 a. m., and President Truman will greet them at the White House this afternoon. Conference president is Don C. Miller, United States attorney for the northern district of Ohio.

Peyton Ford, the assistant to the Attorney General, will announce the agenda, embracing seminars to be conducted on law enforcement and other matters.

Hard-Handed Law May Deal Blow to Stephany's Hopes

Daytona Beach, Fla., Sept. 13 (AP).—The wedding plans of Stephany Saja, the coal miner's daughter, and wealthy Frank Hitchcock ran into a big "if" today.

The final divorce decree which would set Hitchcock free comes up Tuesday before Judge E. C. Chillingworth, noted for his determination for proper procedure.

"The court cannot indicate what disposition of the case will be made," he said. Then he added: "When a man signs a marriage license, doesn't he have to swear he is single?"

Neither Miss Saja nor Hitchcock could be reached after Judge Chillingworth made his comment.

Better Pay, Promotion System Urged for Employes by Truman

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 13.—A better salary and promotion system for Government workers was proposed today by President Truman in a message to the National Federation of Federal Employes which opened its biennial convention at the Hotel Schroeder here. The President's letter said in part:

"Certainly none of us can be satisfied with the system which we now follow in fixing the compensation of our salaried employes. I have urged the Congress to modernize the Classification Act of 1928. I shall continue to do so.

"In working out the modernization of the salary structure, we must provide a higher salary ceiling than that which prevails at the present time. In my judgment the salary range for career civil servants should be extended to approximately $15,000. Then adjustments should be made all along the line, designed to make it possible for all employes to receive fair compensation in terms of present day purchasing power of the dollar.

"I also feel that we need to improve our program for providing promotional opportunities for those who are a part of the career service. This is still handled on too much of a hit-or-miss basis. We must not develop a system which will result in delays in carrying forward of the Government's business.

"At the same time, we must have a system which will reduce to the minimum the possibility of the desires of those who seek power for selfish purposes being the controlling factor in making promotions. It is just as important for us to promote persons on the basis of merit as it is for us to recruit them on that basis in the first instance."

The message was read to the record number of 600 delegates by NFFE President Luther C. Steward who earlier, in his report, committed the large independent union to that part of the President's message which proposed overhauling of the Classification Act. Steward said that "greater emphasis must be placed upon the granting of additional salaries to employes whose duties remain unchanged but who with experience acquire a greater degree of proficiency on the job."

Steward was generous in his praise of the Federal worker loyalty program. He said it was "instructive to note the source from which opposition to the loyalty program has come." He said it was significant that the opposition does not spring from employes who expect to make a career of Government.

The NFFE president went even further and suggested a character as well as a loyalty check of applicants for Government jobs. He said, "Experience of the past few years has definitely shown that in recruiting for the Federal service too much emphasis has been placed upon formal education and not enough on character."

Secretary-Treasurer Gertrude McNally reported the union had 1040 locals with membership approaching 100,000. She called for an intensified membership campaign.

Among the Washington delegates here are Thelma Collins, Bernice Collins, Elsie Hays and Joe Webb of Treasury; Dr. Howard Edson of Agriculture, Rene Pinto of Commerce, Mary L. Giordano of General Accounting, Henry Nolda and Grace Picking of Veterans, Gertrude Coyle and William S. Kinney of the Army, Viola Shantz of Interior and Clara Maves of the Bureau of Engraving.

8 Cases Lift Area Polio Total to 142, D. C. to 78

Figures Compare With 25 at Same Time Last Year; Man, 26, Stricken

Nine new cases of infantile paralysis were reported by Washington hospitals yesterday. Of the total, eight are residents of Greater Washington.

This brought the number of cases for Greater Washington so far this year to 142, as compared with 25 last year. Of the new cases reported yesterday, five are District residents, two are from nearby Virginia and two from Maryland.

The new District cases, which brought the local total to 78, as compared with 9 on last September 12, were:

An 11-year-old girl from the 1300 block of L st. se., under treatment at Gallinger.

A 1-year-old boy from the 7800 block of Livington rd. se., under treatment at Children's.

From Prince George County, Md., a 11-year-old boy from the 5100 block of Wheeler rd. se., at Children's.

Firemen Plan Move to Curb Chief's Power

AFL firemen in Washington tonight are expected to consider a resolution to divest Fire Chief Clement Murphy of his power to appoint upper bracket fire officers without competitive examination.

This was reported yesterday by Capt. L. F. Price of Engine Co. 29, president of Local 36, International Association of Fire Fighters. He said the day shift will meet at 8:30 p. m. at 935 G pl. nw.; another meeting will be held at the same time, same place, next Tuesday.

Captain Price said the union probably will "discuss" a proposal to retain special counsel to fight grievances for association members.

A special meeting in July, called to consider proposals both to strip Chief Murphy of his appointive powers and to hire counsel, failed to make much progress on either.

Chief Murphy was cleared by a trial board last January of charges he demoralized the department. The charges had been brought by leaders of the fire fighters' union.

Industrial School Plans to Discuss Training Program

Members of the Industrial Home School will participate in an in-service training program from September 15, 1948, to May 16, 1949, Gerard M. Shea, school superintendent, announced yesterday.

The program is designed to use the specialized information of staff members of the Board of Public Welfare and other District agencies.

In addition to members of the Welfare Department staff, who will address school personnel, other talks will be given by Capt. Rhoda Milliken of the Police Department Women's Bureau; Capt. William Murphy, Juvenile Bureau; Dr. Katherine Rice and Mrs. Phyllis Treusch of the Mental Hygiene Bureau of the Health Department, and Marshall Levy of the District Vocational Rehabilitation Service.

Autoist Gets Even Break On Tickets

Police last week canceled a parking ticket for a District man who had received two parking tickets within an hour for the same offense.

Police "adjusted" 65 other tickets and 57 violators warned and 8, including 7 diplomats, receiving cancellations.

Capt. Albert I. Bullock, Thirteenth Precinct, canceled one of two tickets for William Keller Suddith, 25, of 1916 17th st. nw, after two separate policemen ticketed his car the same morning for violation of a 7-9:30 a. m. no-parking regulation. Suddith paid $3 on the first ticket.

Others who received cancellations were: Paul Blank, French Embassy, parking abreast; Jacques Parat, French Embassy, standing 7:30-9 a. m.; Tulio O. Sugasti, New York City, no parking 7 a. m.-6 p. m.; Eduardo A. Lonardi, Argentine Embassy, speeding; Adnan Pachachi, Kennedy-Warren Apts., parked in entrance; Jean Daridan, French Embassy, no parking anytime; Alfredo Leiton, Argentine Embassy, parked too close to loading zone.

Dutch Aide's Wife Dies of Cab Injuries

Two Women Hurt As Car Hits Bus, Skids Into Truck

Mrs. Leische Poppe, 28, wife of a Netherlands naval representative on the Combined Chiefs of Staff, died at 8:55 o'clock last night in Emergency Hospital of traffic injuries she suffered Saturday night.

Mrs. Poppe was hit by a taxicab as she stepped off a trolley loading platform at Georgia ave. and Van Buren st. nw. She was admitted to the hospital with a broken leg and head injuries.

She was the wife of Lieut. Janus Poppe, 1012 Floral ave., Takoma Park. She was the District's forty-eighth traffic fatality this year.

Driver of the cab was identified by police as William B. Price, 39, of 339 13th st. se.

Two women were injured yesterday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided with a Capital Transit bus and skidded into a truck at 4th and Madison sts. nw.

Police reported that Margaret J. Shugart, 19, of 4707 Connecticut ave. nw., driver of the car, going east on Madison st. nw., was injured slightly and told them she would go to a private physician for treatment. A passenger in the car with Miss Shugart, Miss Jeannette Stuart, 20, of 2809 15th st. nw., also said she would be treated by a private doctor.

Following the collision with the bus operated by Leslie J. Hoffman, 52, of 1441 Spring rd. nw., police said, Miss Shugart's car skidded into a truck driven by Richard A. Mousseau, 23, of 3539 A st. se.

Miss Ethel M. Johnson, 59, a resident at the Scott Hotel, 2131 O st. nw., suffered bruises to her left leg and right arm when she was struck by a car as she was crossing O st. at 20th st. nw., while en route to work at 7:30 a. m.

Miss Johnson, an editor in the Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service, was treated at Emergency Hospital and released. Police listed the driver of the car as William Pitts, 56, of 525 21st st. nw., and charged him with "failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian."

Prince Georges Commissioners To Split Hearings

The five Prince Georges County Commissioners will split up Wednesday and hold hearings simultaneously at Upper Marlboro and Hyattsville.

The monthly zoning hearings are set by law for the third Wednesday of each month at the County Service Building in Hyattsville. Through a confusion in dates, a hearing on reassessments for the Kent election district was set by Louis Kutsch, county tax assessor, for 10 a. m. at the courthouse in Upper Marlboro, the same time as the zoning hearing.

Some of the Commissioners will conduct the reassessment hearing and the others will go to Hyattsville for the zoning hearings. The Hyattsville group also will hear five applications for permits authorizing special use of property.

Telephone Unions Prepare to Launch Wage Conferences

Washington telephone unions affiliated with the Communications Workers of America (Ind.) and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., will launch wage conferences Wednesday at 10 a. m. in Hotel Washington.

This was revealed yesterday by Mrs. Mary Gannon, president of Division 50 of the CWA, which covers about 3000 area workers, including operators, clerical workers, dining service employes and maids; and Glenn Watts, president of Division 36, representing some 3500 commercial, plant and accounting personnel.

Gifts Pour In For Widow Of Policeman

$150 Reward Posted By Citizens for Killer; 8 Men Still Held for Questioning

Contributions poured in yesterday for the widow of slain Alexandria Police Rookie Robert B. Harris while police still waited for a break in the three-day-old murder.

Sums ranging from $1 to $100 were received at police headquarters by late yesterday afternoon for the 22-year-old Mrs. Harris and her 6-month-old son. An estimated $500 had been received late last night.

A $150 reward, meanwhile, has been offered by private citizens for arrest and conviction of the person who shot and killed Harris about 3 a. m. Saturday.

The 23-year-old policeman, who had been on the force only 17 days, was making a routine check in the rear of the Howard Johnson restaurant, North Washington and Montgomery sts., at the time he was killed.

The reward may be upped tonight when the Alexandria City Council meets. Several councilmen yesterday suggested the council might raise the reward to $1000.

Police yesterday still held eight of the 29 men they have questioned. None, however, has been charged. Detective Inspector Russell A. Hawes said they are being held because of discrepancies in accounts of their activities on Saturday night.

City employes yesterday also hunted vainly in storm sewers and fields near the scene for the murder weapon. Since the bullet which pierced Harris' groin has not been found, police are not sure what type of gun they are seeking.

The only clew as to the murderer's description was given by two women who said they saw a Negro about 5 feet 8 inches tall run from the scene just after the shot was fired.

Guard Kills Soldier, 20, At Ft. Myer

A 20-year-old soldier was shot fatally by an Army guard at Fort Myer, Va., when he attempted to flee confinement September 8, the Army revealed yesterday.

Lieut. Col. William F. Nee, public information officer for the Military District of Washington, attributed the five-day delay in releasing the story to the fact that an investigation into the shooting was under way and the full facts had not been determined.

The man, Robert H. Smith, Jamestown, N. Y., died in Walter Reed Hospital two hours after the shooting. The Army said he was shot "several" times with a .45-caliber automatic by the guard, Pvt. Gerald G. Wilkins, as he attempted to bolt after being given permission to go to the latrine in the barracks where he was confined.

An Army spokesman said Smith recently had been released by Metropolitan police after serving a four-month ter mfor auto theft, and was being held by the Army for investigation. He was a rifleman with the Third Infantry Regiment and had 18 months of service.

Pvt. Wilkins of Marshfield, Wis., will be tried at a general court-martial, the Army said. The specific charges have not yet been determined.

Man Shot in Row Dies in Hospital

A 21-year-old man, shot during what police said was an argument at 1159 1st st. nw., died at Casualty Hospital less than an hour later last night.

The man, Clarence Smith of the 1st st address, was shot, police said, in the lower part of the back. Police held David Bruton, 45, of 1102 6th st. nw., for action of the coroner in connection with the shooting which occurred at 9 p. m.

District Schools Predict Growing War Baby Influx

First Day Jump Of 1186 Expected To Reach 5000 By End of Week

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

The war babies moved into District, Montgomery County and Arlington County schools yesterday, but not in the numbers that had been expected.

District school principals reported that attendance was low on the first day, but said they looked for the children to be crowding in before the end of the week.

Preliminary enrollment figures showed, however, that there were 1186 more elementary pupils in District classes yesterday than on the first day of school last year. Washington school officers, basing their predictions on birth rates, said that enrollments might increase as much as 5000.

In all other divisions of the District schools enrollments were below last year's figures.

Early Opening Cause

School officials attributed this to the early opening this year. In past years schools have opened a week later.

Yesterday's total enrollment in the District was 83,112. A year ago it was 83,638.

The two teachers' colleges showed an attendance of 620 or 61 below last year; the high schools 13,377, a loss of 941; the vocational schools 1476 or 143 below last year; and the junior high schools 17,510 or 510 less than a year ago.

Preliminary reports from schools in Montgomery County indicated that attendance will reach from 20,500 to 21,000 or about 2000 pupils more than last year. School officials said that all schools will show increases, with the largest in the primary grades.

In Arlington County

In Arlington County, where students registered for today's opening, Assistant Superintendent Charles J. Walsh said that five elementary schools had reported enrollments up "at least 50 students" at each school. Those reporting were the John Marshall, Cherrydale, Peyton Randolph, Patrick Henry and Walter Reed elementary schools.

White schools in the District with 44,548 students showed an enrollment drop of 2102, while Negro schools with 38,564 showed an increase of 1556.

Principals of two of the District's most crowded white elementary schools said that new pupils had not shown up in the numbers that were expected.

More Pupils Coming

Mrs. May T. Kyle, principal at the Stanton School, Good Hope rd. and Alabama ave. se., said that attendance was 555, but that she knew of 70 additional children not present yesterday. About a fifth of the pupils were new to the school, she said.

Stanton School, which has a capacity of only 450 students, will be one of 17 elementary schools throughout the city on part-time schedules this year.

Miss E. M. Trusheim, principal of the Congress Heights School, 5th st. and Nichols ave. se., another part-time school, said that enrollment at her school was 780, or about the same as at the close of school last June.

"Many parents are on vacation and the children will be entering within the next week," she said.

In Montgomery County, students were welcomed back by E. Stanley Stine, president of the board of education; Dr. Edwin W. Broome, superintendent of schools, and Brooke Johns, president of the board of county commissioners.

The three officials spoke in a radio broadcast carried into the county schools by station WGAY. Miss Nanne Swayzee, senior at Montgomery Blair High School, introduced the speakers.

Following is a listing of District enrollments as reported by senior, vocational and junior high schools and by divisions of the elementary schools:

Monument Landscaping Change Voted

By V. R. Montanari
Post Reporter

A new landscape layout for the Washington Monument Grounds, including elimination of present roadways, was approved in principle by the Fine Arts Commission yesterday as part of the plans for the sesquicentennial celebration here in 1950.

Another proposal for the Monument Grounds, now being discussed by National Capital Porks officials, is the revamping of the Sylvan Theater to accommodate a pageant during the sesquicentennial. This would cost about $250,000, according to Harry T. Thompson, assistant superintendent of National Capital Parks.

Paul Green, producer of historical pageants in Williamsburg, Va., and Roanoke Island, N. C., has proposed that a similar continuing historical show be staged at the outdoor amphitheater during the celebration.

3000 Seats Contemplated

This would involve installation of a stage, semipermanent seats for about 3000, a new sound system, comfort stations and other improvements, Thompson explained.

A preliminary scale model of the proposed landscaping changes at the Monument grounds was submitted to the Fine Arts Commission by Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The Fine Arts group suggested revisions which will be discussed further.

Access to the monument would be gained only on foot under General Grant's plan and the landscaping plan, which would involve surface treatment rather than any contour changes, also includes the addition of a number of trees.

Would Submerge 14th Street

The plan is designed to bring the Monument Grounds more into harmony with the composition of the Mall, Lincoln Memorial and other nearby areas, it was explained by H. P. Caemmerer, secretary of the Fine Arts Commission. Congress will be asked for funds.

The scale model presented to the commission includes a submerged section of 14th st. along the side of the Monument Grounds, underpassing exits from the Mall roadways. This feature is proposed for future consideration and not for the 1950 celebration.

Theme of the sesquicentennial observance, which will celebrate the founding of the National Capital, will be Freedom, Edward Boykin, director of the Sesquicentennial Commission, has announced.

"Compelling" Pageants Planned

Historical pageants will depict the "most compelling picture of American history that can possibly be arranged" during the celebration from April 15 to November 22, 1950, according to Boykin.

Plans call for exhibits by the 48 States, the Federal departments and by Latin-American nations, as well as parades, special days for veterans and other groups, loan art exhibits and other features.

Emphasis on American history through the pageants was indorsed by Dr. Luther Evans, librarian of Congress, who said, "We shall be celebrating the enduring national unity of a great people whose ability to govern themselves is here exemplified."

Sculpture Considered For Courthouse Grounds

The Fine Arts Commission considered yesterday a preliminary scheme for sculpture on the grounds of the new Federal Court House to be built at 3rd st. and Constitution ave. nw., presented by A. T. Thorn, acting supervising architect of the Public Buildings Administration, and Louis Justement, Washington architect.

A site is provided also for a statue of Sir William Blackstone, the father of English law, which has been authorized by Congress.

Area News in Brief

Battling the Police Found Unprofitable

George Adams, 58, 3601 Benning rd. ne., yesterday found out the hard way that police fighting doesn't pay.

Adams, a passenger in a truck driven by Vernon L. Sampson, 26, of 508 10th st. se., became entangled in a brawl with Police Pvt. Wyatt J. Roy, jr., 23, after the latter reproved Sampson for driving the truck past a crosswalk at 34th st. and Benning rd. ne.

According to police, Adams kicked Roy in the groin during the melee, whereupon the policeman blackjacked his opponent. Roy was treated for a bruised groin at Gallinger Hospital and four stitches were taken in Adams' head.

Adams was charged with drunkenness and assaulting an officer, Sampson with drunk driving and failure to exhibit a driver's permit. Both are slated for Municipal Court appearance today.

Asks Divorce After 50 Yrs.

A 68-year-old great-grandmother yesterday asked District Court to end her 50-year marriage by granting her a divorce from her 70-year-old husband on grounds of voluntary separation.

The suit was filed by Mrs. Maggie Frances Edelen, 1248 Penn st. ne., against Francis Lee Edelen, 105 W. Bellefonte ave., Alexandria, Va. The couple has 9 living children, a number of grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, relatives said. Two children died in infancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Edelen were married in December, 1898, in Prince George County, Md., according to the suit. They have been separated since 1930.

3 Get Scholarships

Three Washingtonians have been awarded scholarships in fashion modeling at Southeastern University as winners in a contest sponsored by Lansburgh & Brothers.

The winners are: Miss Melle W. Webber, Arlington Farms; Miss Mary Larsen, 2700 Brentwood rd. ne.; and Mrs. George Artman, 1305 N. Pierce st., Arlington.

Prisoner Shifted

Peter S. Hill, 34, Silver Spring, Md., convicted bookmaker, yesterday was transferred from Rockville jail to the Maryland House of Correction at Jessups, Md.

He was sentenced last fall by Montgomery County Circuit Court in Rockville to serve nine months in jail and pay a $1000 fine, after his conviction on a charge of accepting a $2 race bet in August, 1947.

Hill has just finished a three-month jail term which he elected to serve in lieu of the fine. He now begins the nine-month sentence.

Badly Hurt in Fall

An 18-year-old youth fell 25 feet yesterday from a ladder, suffering a possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

The youth, John Harrington Donald, 4445 13th st. ne., was painting the front of his home, police said. At Casualty Hospital, he was reported in serious condition.

$5 Will Get You 6—Maybe

A Champlain st. print shop operator yesterday suggested a new way to make a dollar—he'll pay $6 for a $5 bill.

It's one particular bill, police were told by Ray Pitsch, who opened his shop at 2368 Champlain st. nw., last March.

The first money he collected in his new business was a $5 bill, which the customer inscribed with his signature. Pitsch placed the souvenir beneath the glass on top of his desk.

Thieves broke in his front door over the weekend, Pitsch told police, and took nothing but the $5 bill.

Glass Throwing Costly

Mrs. Helen L. Haskell, 28, of 2512 Burns st. se., accused of throwing 10 beer glasses at her husband, Charles, 27, pleaded guilty in Municipal Court yesterday to charges of being drunk and disorderly and destroying private property.

Municipal Court Judge Aubrey B. Fennell ordered her to pay a $10 fine or serve five days in jail on each of the three charges.

Mrs. Haskell was arrested early Sunday in the Navy Yard Restaurant, 240 11th st. se. Police said she walked into the cafe, demanding that her husband return home, and then became angry at his answer and threw the glasses at him.

Electric Gear Stolen

Electrical equipment and tools valued at $1075 were stolen from a garage at the Arcade Market, 1418 Park rd. nw., over the weekend, Harold B. Johnson, 5503 Connecticutt ave. nw., reported to police yesterday.

Johnson said thieves broke in through a rear door of the garage and made off with three electric motors, an air compressor and motor, four floor-model electric fans and a wooden box containing engineering tools.

Taxi Driver Found Dead In Bedroom

Silas F. Heflin, 35, a cab driver, of 445 Delafield pl. nw., was found dead yesterday with a half empty box of sleping tablets nearby.

Separated from his wife and four children for two years, Heflin was found on the floor beside his bed at 4:30 a. m. yesterday by Joseph Gillespie, with whom he made his home. Gillespie had been awakened by the sound of someone falling. Dr. James J. McGuire, who arrived in a Health Department ambulance, pronounced Heflin dead.

Homicide Squad Detective Sergt. George Cook said he found a half-empty box of sleeping tablets near Heflin, and about 50 similar boxes, empty, dating back two years, were in the room.

Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald performed an autopsy but withheld issuance of a death certificate until the stomach contents and the tablets have been analyzed.

Sergeant Cook said Heflin operated a Diamond cab under a lease which the company terminated yesterday, but had not appeared in poor spirits.

$41,722 DamageSuit Filed

Rollin H. Transue of 3919 McKinley st. nw., yesterday filed a $41,722 damage suit against the Cedar Hill Cemetery at Suitland, Md., for failing to repurchase lots as allegedly promised.

Transue charged, in a suit filed in Federal Court, Baltimore, that a Cedar Hill representative told him when he bought 200 lots there 10 years ago that the company would buy them back in 10 years at three times the price.

Transue said the lots were bought in 1937 and 1938 and have not been repurchased. He also claims interest on the $41,722.

Named to Safety Unit

Arlington Policeman William H. Perry, 1322 S. Pollard st., has been appointed to serve with the Police Traffic Safety Division by Police Chief Harry Woodyard. Perry, who began his new job yesterday, has been on the Arlington force four years. He will coordinate activities of Arlington's 600 school safety patrol boys and girls.

Bethesda Youths Fined

Two Bethesda youths were fined $10 each for discharging fireworks by Trial Magistrate Warren Browning in Bethesda Police Court yesterday.

They were Stephen L. Jennings, 18, of 7201 Bradley blvd, and William L. Read, 18, of 5009 Dalton rd. Jennings also was fined $30 on charges of reckless driving.

Police said Jennings and Read threw lighted firecrackers around the home of Mrs. T. L. Sherbert, 8204 Colfton pl., Chevy Chase, Md. Neighbors chased them at high speed through the area until police captured them.

W.A. Dennison Succumbs at D. C. Hearing

William A. Dennison, 60, for 30 years foreman of grounds at St. Elizabeths Hospital, suffered a fatal heart attack yesterday at 11 a. m., immediately after he testified at a hearing in the District Building.

Mr. Dennison had appeared before District Commissioner John Russell Young and Lieut. Col L. E. Cox, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, to oppose the closing of certain alleys near apartment building for which he was manager.

He had testified and returned to his seat when he was stricken. Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District coroner, issued a certificate of death due to natural causes.

A native of Washington, Mr. Dennison attended old Eastern High School. He lived with his wife, Mrs. Mary Sue Dennison, and a sister, Miss Margaret Ellen Dennison, at 3937 4th st. se. He was a member of Naval Lodge, A. F. & A. M.

He also leaves a son, Albert W. Dennison; a daughter, Mrs. Geneva Garrett, of Forestville, Md.; another sister, Mrs. Effie Burns, Tampa, Fla., and two granddaughters.

Eastern Ave. Extension Fete Draws 1000

The new four-lane extension of Eastern ave. into Takoma Park, Md., was formally opened last night and hailed as a "practical application of the good neighbor policy."

C. H. Whitbeck

An automobile caravan and ribbon-cutting ceremonies highlighted official opening of the one-mile, rolling road linking New Hampshire ave. ne. and Laurel st. in Takoma Park.

With more than 1000 District and Maryland residents looking on, Mayor John C. Post of Takoma Park and District Commissioner Gordon R. Young jointly snipped a white ribbon stretched across the road which has actually been open to traffic since August.

Young Congratulated

Later, speaking from a platform erected in a nearby vacant lot in the 6500 block of Eastern ave. ne., Post extended congratulations to Young "for your new baby—a handsome, healthy, promising youngster."

Young recalled that the project, planned in 1939, was stymied by war shortages of manpower and material and not actually begun until August, 1947.

He expressed the hope that the $145,000 it cost "can be deemed to have been well spent, and will result in an improvement in the traffic situation and a large increase in property values."

The motorcade of some 20 cars, bedecked with colored crepe and bearing officials and civic leaders, began at 7:30 p. m. at 3d st. and New Hampshire ave. ne., then tooled along the new extension of Eastern ave.

Two Bands Heard

Spearheading the parade was the Metropolitan Police Band, which alternated with the Washington Gas Light Co. Band in providing musical background for the ceremonies.

Other speakers at the ceremonies, presided over by C. H. Whitbeck, president of the Citizens Association of Takoma Park, D. C., which urged the extension as early as 1935, were W. C. Magathan, past president of the association and E. D. Merrill, president of Capital Transit Co. The invocation was given by Dr. R. Paul Shearer of Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

Gambling Texan Says 3 Eskimos Due by Wednesday

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Dallas oilman who bet $20,000 that he could bring three Eskimo women back to Texas says "We've already got 'em and they're coming down with a chaperone."

L. L. Horne, president of the Horne Oil Co., said the Eskimos willing to come to Texas to settle his bet had been found in Alaska.

"My pilot in Seattle, Lew Leach, is awaiting word from me to buy a new plane and bring those Eskimos down here," Horne said. "And they're gonna be down in the Blackstone Hotel at Fort Worth by Wednesday.

"I don't know how or where Leach got them, but they're all about 18 years old and they'll be here with their chaperone."

DAR Receives $30,000 Gift For New, De Luxe Voting Room

To take uncomfortable kinks out of ballot-casting, Miss Katherine Matthies of Seymour, Conn., third vice president general, Daughters of the American Revolution, yesterday costs for a comfortable de luxe

The gift will cover construction costs for a comfortable, deluxe voting room in the new $900,000 addition to the Administration Building at National DAR headquarters here.

"Voting places, generally, are an abomination, and need modernization," said Miss Matthies. "And DAR voting arrangements are no exception.

"Why should our precious right of casting a ballot be an ordeal?" she continued. "Perhaps more people would go to the polls if voting could be made a pleasure with no long waiting in line, poor lighting, bad ventilation and other inconveniences."

In accepting the gift, Mrs. Roscoe O'Byrne, president general of the society, said it would cover completely the cost of the new voting room which has been needed badly for many years.

DAR elections are held each April during sessions of the Continental Congress. They are by ballot and the polls are guarded carefully. Each candidate has a representative in the voting room with the tellers, who have no outside communication until tallies are completed and the delegates march around the building to give their report. Under present arrangements, they often have worked in cramped quarters behind locked doors until 3 and 4 a. m. to complete the count.

That ordeal Miss Matthies experienced, for she was formerly national chairman of the Tellers Committee.

Her gift is by far the largest yet received for the new building project, which will connect Memorial Continental Hall with Constitution Hall and provide added office space, a new library, museum and other quarters.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Man Is Warm, Loving Husband and Father But Wife Feels Their Marriage Seriously Threatened by His Unpredictable Rages

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I would very much appreciate your opinion on this problem, which is seriously threatening our marriage.

Although Jim is a warm and loving husband and father, he also has an ungovernable temper and his outbursts are ugly and frequent, regardless of the presence of the children or of guests.

His family background is interesting and fine in many respects; but also shows a definite disregard of the amenities in social situations, whereas my own parents are unusually gentle people and their manners much more conventional.

Children Are Aping Father's Tantrums

I DON'T want to magnify the problem, but as I observe the children imitating Jim's unpleasant behavior pattern I am becoming increasingly discouraged. In the past I had accepted his tempers as a superficial bad habit and had believed he would learn to control them if I were patient.

I am sure that Jim has no doubts of my love for him, and my respect for his accomplishments and ideas; therefore I can't understand his cruel public attacks on me. He is always very quickly repentant and often surprised that I have reacted with shattered emotions.

The result of all this is that we have increasingly isolated ourselves from other people, an adjustment which does keep us on a more even keel, but which I think is unwholesome, nevertheless. Please advise.

S. L.

Man Unconsciously Craves Discipline

DEAR S. L.: Jim's addiction to frequent ugly outbursts of allegedly ungovernable temper is a definitely infantile manifestation; thus the findings of child psychology apply to it.

Such behavior in infants or young children is a form of assertiveness or a form of complaint, and the unconscious aim or desire of the infant is to come to grips with somebody about something.

Assuming the infant is being physically or affectionately neglected, his vehement outburst is a demand for comforting ministrations. Assuming he is a pampered child, however, whose environment seems infinitely malleable to his whims, his outbursts at intimates are an attempt to contact the limits (if any) of their subservience to his will.

Close students of child psychology know that a child feels maximum security in a familiar framework of permissible behavior, where the rules are dispensed and the limits fixed by reliable humane authority, and not by him!

His Character Shaped by 'Ungoverned' Types

THE CHILD who feels no restraints imposed on his temperament will also feel instinctively betrayed, as if bereft of some vital assurance of protective strength outside himself, hence in outrage, in resentful protest, may develop a habit of hysterical clamor for he "knows not what," that is often mistaken for incorrigible temper.

So with Jim in his infancy and formative years, no doubt. The persons who shaped his character were themselves "ungoverned" types, hence hadn't the wit to help him, and now you are coping with the result, in his pernicious infantile rages, which don't merit the tolerance you've shown them.

Meek suffering acceptance isn't the antidote to his affliction, as you've lived to learn. Self-respecting vigorous denunciation of his despicable tantrums would be a far more mature reaction, and you should have made a major issue of his outbursts long ago, instead of crawling into your shell to reduce risks of social humiliation. Now that his bad example is permeating the children's behavior, it's high time to have a showdown, and my advice to Jim is to get psychiatric help in mending his manners from the roots.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of The Washington Post.

The Cotton to Match

When dyeing curtains for draperies, a few single threads of white cotton may be added to the dye water so that the cotton for the hem will exactly match the curtain materials. Home dyes frequently turn out rather unusual shades.

Ceramics to Be Shown at Zonta Meeting

Miss Eleanor Cox, local sculptress, will exhibit her "Alice in Wonderland" ceramics at the Washington Zonta Club's luncheon meeting, Wednesday, September 15 in the Dodge Hotel. Mrs. Alice Fay, a former member of the club for whom the ceramics were designed, will assist with the display.

The ceramic figurines have been displayed at the National Museum and currently are being exhibited at the Shirlington Art Show.

Miss Glass to Visit Overseas Service League

Miss Rose Glass of Seattle, national president of the Women's Overseas Service League, will pay a three-day visit to the Washington unit of the League, September 15, 16 and 17. While in town, she will stop at the Statler Hotel.

On Wednesday Miss Glass will lead a pilgrimage to Arlington to place a wreath on the grave of General Pershing. She will be honored at a dinner Thursday at the Columbia Country Club with the Washington League as hostess.

Returns to Capital

Hans Olav, Counselor of the Norwegian Embassy, has returned to Washington following a four-week visit to his home country.

Diplomatic Notes

Senora de Gonzalez-Arevalo and her three children have returned to Washington from Rehoboth Beach, where they have spent the summer. This fall, the two oldest children will attend Sidwell Friends School.

On the occasion of Independence Day of Guatemala, the Ambassador and Senora de Gonzalez-Arevalo will receive members of the Guatemalan colony at a reception tomorrow from 5 to 8 o'clock.

Senorita Anita Ramirez-Duque of the Panamanian Embassy has been promoted from attache to First Secretary, succeeding Aquilino Boyd who has been elected to the Panama Congress. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd left Washington early in August.

Senorita Ramirez has been in Washington for 10 years, and is a very popular member of the younger diplomatic group. She will be succeeded as attache by Ricardo Miro.

The Maharajah and Maharani of Jaipur are visiting in Washington. On Thursday they will be the guests of the Indian Ambassador and Lady Rama Rau at a cocktail party from 6 to 8 o'clock. Armanath Atal, finance minister of Jaipur, will share honors with their highnesses at the party.

Mrs. Chapman Visits Maj., Mrs. Sayler

Mrs. A. H. Chapman of Columbus, Ga., is spending several days in Washington visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Major and Mrs. Henry Benton Sayler, jr., and young grandson, Lee Benton Sayler, who arrived Monday, September 6.

The child is the grandson of A. H. Chapman of Columbus, president and co-publisher of the Columbus Ledger and Enquirer Sun papers, and of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry Benton Sayler of Washington.

Mrs. Sayler is the former Miss Wyline Chapman of Columbus, and is a member of the Washington Junior League. She is a Sweet Briar alumna. Major Sayler is with the Air Force, a member of the West Point class of 1943. The major saw service as a fighter pilot in World War II.

Adams, 2d, Dana Belser, jr., Jerome Brastow, Gordon Daisley, jr., Lieut. John Perkins, Thomas W. Perry, jr., William Rollow, Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Schmalbach.

Mme. Cailloux
. . . farmer in Tunis

Mme. Cailloux Here to Study U. S. Farming

As a representative of the French government for Tunisia, Mme. Maurice Cailloux is visiting this country to study dry farming. She was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Fuller of the State Department over the weekend, and just before boarding a plane for Montana last evening, she was received by the French Ambassador, Henri Bonnet.

In Montana, Mme. Cailloux and a group of accompanying agriculturists will be the guests of Brig. Gen. Thomas D. Campbell, outstanding authority on dry farming and owner of a 43,000-acre farm. The general has arranged many other places as well for Mme. Cailloux to visit during her stay here. Although Montana has much the same farming conditions as Tunisia, Mme. Cailloux will also be interested in visiting farms in New Mexico, Arizona and California.

In Tunisia, Mme. Cailloux is the owner of a 10,000-acre farm, producing wheat, olives and grapes. While she is here she also plans to take a look at some good wineries in the Middle West.

Mme. Cailloux and her mission are said to represent a kind of unofficial Marshall Plan. Tunisia's grain crop needs to be increased to keep up with the birth rate there which is multiplying at the rate of 60,000 a year. General Campbell has stated that he believes Tunisian wheat fields within three years can be made to produce a surplus for Europe if modern methods are adopted.

Mme. Cailloux is head of the Red Cross of Tunisia as well as one of its biggest grain growers, and if she finds time she will study our blood-bank system.

To White Mountains

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Wailes of Washington have gone to the White Mountains of New Hampshire to visit Mr. Wailes' mother, Mrs. James Greene of Washington, and Mr. Greene.

A large cocktail party was given Saturday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Wailes.

Ching Portrait To Be Shown

Portraits by Joseph Wallace King will be shown at a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus S. Ching, 8-10 p. m. at 1313 F st. nw.

It will be the first showing of the artist's portrait of Mr. Ching, director, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. A native of Winston-Salem, N. C., Mr. King has been a resident of Washington for many years.

Miss Boots, Fiance To Be Honored

Dr. and Mrs. J. Ogle Warfield, jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Earle will entertain at a supper party this evening following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Jane Boots and Raymond A. Marks. The couple will be married tomorrow evening at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

Showers have been given for the bride-elect by Miss Carole Jackson, Mrs. Frederic P. Lee and Mrs. James A. White and Miss Joann Wharton. Mrs. G. L. Toel and Miss Myra Nan Toel gave a tea in honor of Miss Boots, and a supper party will be given by the bride-elect's parents for the bridal party. Last evening Richard C. Boggs gave a dinner in honor of Mr. Marks.

Streamlining Made Easy

Stretch, Twist, Bend for a Slim Waistline

By Ida Jean Kain

If you're naturally the non-athletic type, but are mildly determined to keep your figure streamlined, you'll be interested in exercises that produce results with a minimum of time and effort on your part.

Kinesology, the science of bodily movement, is the key. Once you get the hang of music action, you can, with no waste motion, carry on to streamlines. To slim a particular measurement, the muscles which control the measurement must have live tone. The more accurate the movement, the more streamlining the exercise.

Since it's the middle measurement that spreads first, let's begin in the middle. Get a mental picture of an invisible girdle made up of four powerful bands of muscle—one pair running lengthwise whose muscular pull is straight upward or downward; two pairs coming in bias-wise whose muscular pull is inward and sideward, and a deep, inner, horizontal band which flattens the abdomen.

Work on Muscles

Taking it from there, you can see that a stretch will reach the up-and-down muscles, and a side-bend and twist will bring the crosswise and bias muscles into play. So there's the midriff slimming technique. The action must always be concentrated through the midsection, with the muscular pull up and in. Various versions of the stretch-twist-bend will give not only a nice, flat frontline and a slimmer midriff but a trimmer waist as well, for the bias muscles bind the waist.

It's always fun to have a model to follow, particularly a Hollywood model. Their figures have to be perfect as the camera exaggerates any flaws. Today's model is Jacqueline White, costar of RKO's "Mystery in Mexico." These two exercises put kinesology to work to flatten the stomach and slim the midriff. They are not for softies . . .

Here's How

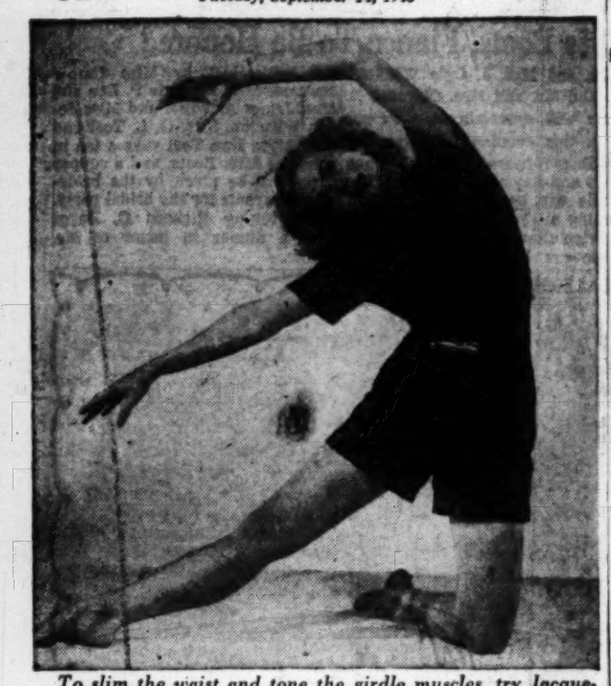
Position: Flat on back on floor, arms at sides, legs straight down.

Movement: Reach for your feet with your hands, pulling body off the floor by sheer force of the stomach muscles. Go on over until outstretched fingers touch toes . . . keep pulling up and in with girdle muscles. Now slowly lower your body to original position, and repeat. This is harder than it looks. All slimming bets are off if you lift your feet—you'll probably need to anchor feet until the stomach muscles have more tone.

Now for midriff slimming:

Position: Kneeling on floor, pulled slim through the middle, right foot extended straight out to side, knee straight, arms curved overhead.

Movement: Bend to the right, reaching to extended toe. Rock down toward toe, rock back. S-t-r-e-t-c-h . . . and stretch again. Make it an easy rocking-horse movement . . . it's fun. Now reverse position and rock to the left. Don't let hip jut out sideward, and keep a firm grip on the girdle muscles.



To slim the waist and tone the girdle muscles, try Jacqueline White's special exercise routine—as described in Ida Jean Kain's column (right). Jacqueline costars in RKO's "Mystery in Mexico."

Joining September's Bridal Procession

Miss Barbara Jeanne Egbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Egbert, of Mount Rainier, Md., became the bride of HM 3/c Owen Murphy Jenkins, USN, on September 12. The ceremony took place at 3 p. m. at Mount Rainier Christian Church, Chaplain Harold G. Elsam officiating. Mr. Jenkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Graham of Washington.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white organza and a finger-tip veil of illusion which was held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses centered with purple orchids.

Miss Mary Ruth Egbert, the bride's sister, was maid of honor, and Miss Marilyn P. Lejonhud was bridesmaid. The best man was Joel D. Layton, and the ushers were HM 2/c George S. Ponton, USN, and John F. Lorence, jr.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony. After a wedding trip to Norfolk, Va., the couple will make their home in Mount Rainier.

Logan—Palumbo

Miss Frances Alice Palumbo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Palumbo, and Patrick Hugh Logan, were married September 11 in St. Aloysius Church with the Rev. William A. Horrigan officiating at the ceremony. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Mary Tuohy Logan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of candlelight satin made with a sweetheart neckline embroidered in seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was held by a tiara of orange blossoms and her bouquet was of white roses.

Mrs. Josephine Fannon was her sister's matron of honor, and other attendants were Miss Nancy Eberman, Mrs. Alma Kinsing, Mrs. Dolores Robson and Miss Filippa Totaro. They wore taffeta gowns in autumn shades and carried bouquets of pink roses.

Joseph Fannon served as best man and ushers were Rudy Daleny, Francis Gleason, James Patrick O'Brien and Arthur John Robson.

State Societies Plan Receptions, Dances

Following a summer lull, the State societies in the Nation's Capital are gearing for an active season. Several have slated receptions and dances in the near future.

The Mississippi State Society will swing into action with a reception, Sunday, September 18, 4 to 6 p. m. at the Washington Club. With Dr. Robert Howe Harmon as conductor, a male quartet of the Barber Shop Society, will present a program of American folk songs. Soloist will be Mrs. J. R. Warrington.

H. Holden Rhyness, jr., president of the society, will head the receiving line. Other officers receiving with him will be Col. John A. O'Keefe, first vice president, and Mrs. O'Keefe; Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, second vice president; James A. Davis, third vice president, and Mrs. Davis; Jacob Beiser, fourth vice president; Thomas Jeff Busby, jr., treasurer; Miss Susan P. Burress, secretary, and Mrs. Sue Fite Ramsey, historian.

Arrangements for the reception are in charge of an entertainment committee, whose members will act as hostesses at the reception. This committee consists of Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, chairman; Mrs. Jeff Busby, Mrs. W. L. Fulton and Mrs. A. L. Jagoe as assistant chairmen; Mrs. James W. Cummings, jr., Mrs. Ann Dodge Goodbee, Mrs. William Holland Heron, Judge Lucy Howorth, Miss Virginia Moseley, Mrs. Homer Rhymes, Mrs. Virginia Simmerman and Mrs. R. L. Welpton.

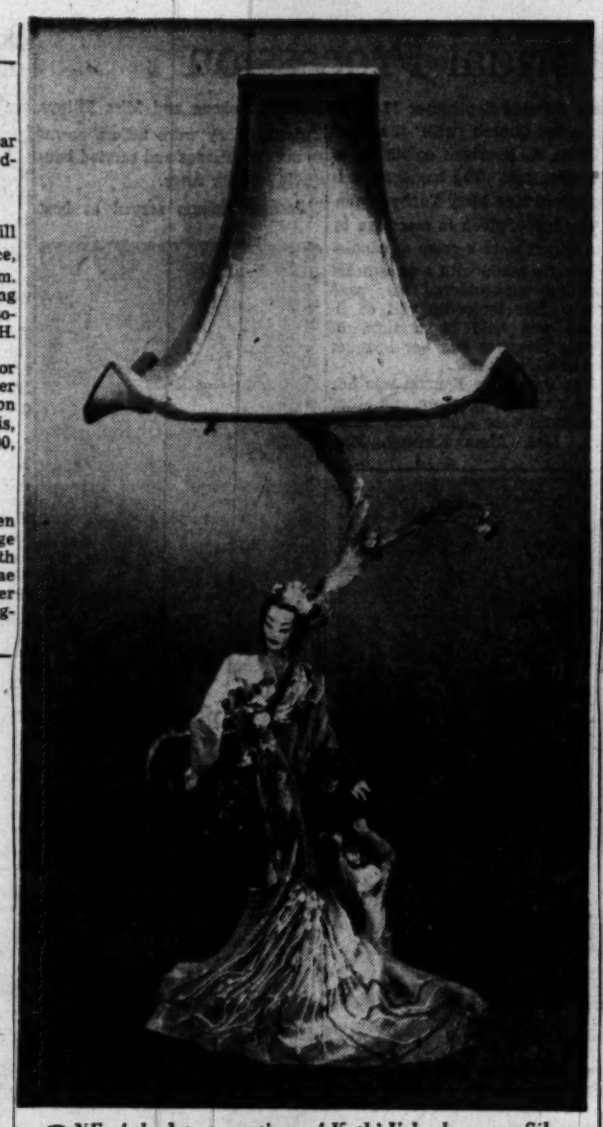
Serving at the tea tables will be Mrs. Thomas G. Abernathy, Mrs. Spencer Aiken, Mrs. R. V. Fletcher, Mrs. Harry R. Fulton, Mrs. G. R. Gaillard, Mrs. R. W. Harned, Mrs Vernon Holleman, Mrs. E. L. Lucas, Mrs. George W. Porter, Mrs. Sue Simms Swann, Mrs. Eugene O. Sykes, Mrs. William N. Thomas, Mrs. Leslie H. Whitten, Mrs. William M. Whithington, Mrs. Oscar Wilkinson and Mrs. Ellen E. Woodward.

D. C. Iowa State Society will open its social season with a dance, Saturday, September 25, 10 p. m. at the Shoreham Hotel, according to an announcement by the society's president, Representative H. O. Talle.

There will be a series of door prizes for the lucky number holders. For further information telephone Miss Gertrude M. Louis, society secretary, at Decatur 0800, extension 426.

Public Relations Post

Mrs. Helen Hackett has been appointed by Finch Junior College as director of public relations, both for the college and for the alumnae drive. Mrs. Hackett is the sister of Mrs. Roy St. Lewis of Washington and Rockville, Md.



ONE of the latest creations of Kathi Urbach, young Silver Spring artist, is this unique lamp. Its base is a Chinese figurine, a beautiful example of Mrs. Urbach's fabric sculpture method. The rod is a gently curved miniature tree, bejeweled and adorned with lovely lotus blossoms. The silk pagoda shade further carries out the Oriental motif. Mrs. Urbach's lamps and other figurines are made in the basement studio of her Silver Spring home, sold in exclusive shops throughout this country and South America

Ask Anne: Where to Get Recordings

I am very anxious to purchase a certain record. No one seems to have it, although one of our local radio stations plays this record quite often. My father who is 80 and my 10-year-old son are just crazy about it and I would like to please them both by surprising them with it. Would like to know where it could be purchased or rented for the time it would take to have a copy made. I understand there is a place in Washington which will duplicate one's favorite or priceless records. The record is: "Grand-Pa's Getting Younger Everyday." It's a Vogue record and the artists are Scotty and Lulu-Belle. H. T.

The company which made this recording is not in business at the present time. Because the recording was made from a year and a half to 2 years ago, your only chance of getting it from a record shop would be to find one which has a back log of old records. I called several Washington record shops and was unable to find one which had a copy. Possibly an Ask Anne reader has this record which she would sell or rent to H. T. If you are able to find a copy on a rental basis, there are several firms in Washington which would make a copy. For such a firm, look under "Recording Studios" in the yellow pages of the telephone book.

Would anyone know if any late recordings have been made of the following songs:? Also, would like to know which artist made the recording: "Ramona," "Rose Marie," "Indian Love Call" and "Everything I've Got Belongs to You." H. T.

It seems there have been no very recent recording of "Romona" and "Everything I've Got Belongs to You," but in the past year Frankie Carl recorded "Rose Marie" and Tony Pasteur recorded "Indian Love Call."

About five months ago we bought a double-bed box spring on sale at a good department store along with a good-brand mattress not on sale. The spring has gradually developed more and more squeaks until turning over in bed awakens the baby in the next room. Is there anything we can do about this? D. C. H.

I would suggest that you discuss this matter with the adjustment department of the store from which the box spring was purchased. I am told that they will send a representative to your home to examine the springs, determine what causes the noise and take steps to have it corrected.

We bought a second hand chifferobe and refinished it. Thinking we could find drawer pulls very easily, we threw away the old ones. Now, we are unable to locate the kind we want—3-inch diameter, saucer-shaped, silver metal ones. Can you help us? L. S. T.

A check with several hardware and antique shops fails to find any silver metal pulls. However, there is an upholstery supply shop on E st. which has a very complete stock of pulls in other metals and perhaps you can find some there which would be suitable. They can be reached by calling National 3621.

Ann's Washington "Pie"

1 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
2 cups sifted cake flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsps. Double Acting Rumford Baking Powder
¾ cup milk
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Beat in egg. Add Rumford Baking Powder (no alum) and other sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk and vanilla; beat thoroughly. Rumford gives you quicker, easier beating batter . . . and your cake stays fresh longer. Pour into two greased 8-inch layer pans. Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) for 25 minutes. Cut cooled layers crosswise making four layers. Fill layers with raspberry jam; dust top of cake with powdered sugar.

On the Washington Club Front . . .

By Genevieve Reynolds

BASEBALL is too noisy, too fast and unrefined for British youth. They prefer cricket—a less rowdy game. So declared Charles M. Fyfe, executive director, Boys Club of Washington, who returned recently from a survey of boys' clubs in the British Isles.

He made his observations yesterday before members of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Washington, who gathered for a luncheon meeting in the Washington Hotel.

Mr. Fyfe went to England at the invitation of M. Arthur Villiers, leader of the Eaton Manor Boys Clubs. Comparing the boys' clubs of the two countries, he said that those of England are not charity organizations and are run and financed by a board of Eaton men. "And never, never are the boys referred to as underprivileged in the English clubs," he explained, "they are simply called boys."

So far as buildings and indoor equipment go, the Boys' Clubs in Great Britain lag far behind those in the United States. But when it comes to international projects, the British excel, according to the speaker. He said that the Boys Clubs in England have brought in several hundred teen-agers from European countries for "training and get-aquainted" sessions. Mr. Fyfe pointed out that a future experiment along that line will be conducted when 50 English boys go to Canada next spring.

The Opti-Mrs. Club, organized about one year ago, helps to support the Boys Club of Washington, located at 28th and M sts. In addition to giving the club $1000, the group regularly donates books for the libraries.

Mrs. W. H. Whittlesey, president, Opti-Mrs. Club presided and introduced the speaker.

Magruder Chapter, DAR Plans Card Party

Magruder Chapter, DAR, has issued invitations for a card party Friday, September 24, at 8 p. m., in the D. C. Chapter House. The regent, Mrs. William Henry Meyers, and the officers of the chapter will act as hostesses.

Among those invited are Mrs. David L. Wells, State regent, and the State officers of the District; Mrs. Roy C. Bowker, vice president general of the National Society, DAR; Mrs. Rex. Hays Rhoades, treasury general; Mrs. David D. Caldwell, chairman of buildings and grounds; Mrs. Charles Carroll Haig, president of the chapter house corporation; Mrs. Gregory Creyke, past vice president general of the national society; Mrs. Wilfred J. Clearman and Mrs. Harry C. Grove, past State regents of the District Daughters.

Reservations may be obtained from Mrs. O. O. van den Berg, the Highlands, zone 9.

Mrs. Matthews Heads Fort Meade Club

Mrs. S. F. Matthews was elected president of the Fort Meade Woman's Club at a recent meeting held in the post officers' mess.

Others elected were Mrs. C. R. Steward, vice president; Mrs. R. T. Bunker, secretary; Mrs. W. R. Donaldson, treasurer.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Bill Says 'Ough Mpats' To 'Ghoti' Item

The argument over the pronunciation of French Premier Queuille's name revives the old complaints about the unreasonable irregularities of foreign languages.

But the same charges could be leveled at our own language. A good example is furnished by an indolent newspaper friend of mine, who would much rather contemplate life's mysteries than settle down to an honest day's work.

He points out that there's a perfectly logical way to pronounce the good English word "ghoti." If you can't figure it out for yourself, you'll find the answer at the end of this column. But don't peep until you've tried.

INFORMATION PLEASE

"Do you suppose that any District Liner knows the words to the 'Ode to a Pineapple Upside Down Cake' from Disney's 'Reluctant Dragon'?" asks Edward J. Barrett of 1300 South Thomas st., Arlington, Va.

"You see, I like pineapple upside down cake, and I'd like to recite that ode when we have some, because I think it deserves some such special ceremony.

"And inasmuch as District Liners seem to know everything, maybe they'll even know who supplied the voice for the Dragon. Will you please ask them?"

Sure. Will all dragon and/or pineapple upside down cake fanciers, please signify by the usual sign?

SURPRISE!

Richard W. Westwood, editor of the American Nature Association's Nature Magazine, passes along a true story.

The truck driver for a local auto dealer came into the Jefferson Spring Service Co. in Georgetown the other day to pick up some parts for his boss.

Carefully, the driver wrote "John Henry."

Tacitly admitting defeat, Lew said, "Okay—now sign your name." Perplexed, the driver shook his head and protested:

"That's my name — John Henry."

If the next driver that shows up is named John Hancock, Lew isn't going to believe it.

SQUARE PEG, ROUND HOLE

My patience is at an end. I admit defeat. I need help.

Is there a simple way to fold a 7¼x8½ letterhead into a 3½x6¼ envelope?

District Liners often write in and ask questions, and inclose a self-addressed envelope for my convenience in answering. I usually reply on a Washington Post "half-sheet" of the above dimensions—and then the fun begins.

Regardless of how I maneuver, the letter requires three folds, and therefore an ungainly six thicknesses of paper.

With a large (4 by 9½) envelope, it's easy. One fold, two thicknesses of paper, bingo! But with the small envelopes, my letters look more like a schoolboy's paper wads than correspondence.

EXTRA! MAN BITES DOG

I accidentally bit my dog
Then everything went dark.
And now that canine writes my stuff
While I just howl and bark.
Pop Grey.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

The only parking space I could find the other day was beside a faulty parking meter. It was jammed, and wouldn't take my nickel.

I felt sure I'd get a ticket, and would no doubt be properly indignant about it. But the cop on the beat explained the proper procedure in such cases:

"Call the police on National 4000, Extension 313, and report the damaged meter. Then if you do get a ticket, the report you turned in will serve as an airtight alibi."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

In telling the story of a freak accident, one of the major press associations recently stated:

"Someone had dropped the lighted cigarette from the upper floor of a building inside his shirt." A. M. B. S. of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., muses:

"It must have been a rather roomy shirt to have a building inside it."

Oh, I don't know about that. We've been looking at some of these new bungalows and believe me, they're not running very large this season.

As Fred Allen says: "They're so small the mice are hunchbacked."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two female puppies, one male; very effectionate." (Overlook 2328).

"Three male kittens, 7 weeks old." (Write Mrs. Mildred Newman, RFD 1, Edgewater, Md.)

PERSONAL NOTES

Mrs. W. P. Hunnewell, 130 Woodridge ave., Silver Spring, Md.: Thanks for the report. I'm glad to hear that the kittens and the District Line have both found good homes.

Robert W. Fairbairn, 1934 N. Quintana st., Arlington, Va., and Charles Hoff, Raleigh Hotel: It was such an embarrassing typo I thought I'd get dozens of clippings; but you two were the only ones who spotted it.

ANSWER TO "GHOTI"

The "gh" is pronounced as in "enough," the "o" as in "women," and the "ti" as in "nation."

Put them all together and you have "fish."

And if that doesn't convince you that foreigners have a right to consider our language as ridiculous as we think theirs, just list the various pronunciations of "ough."

There's bough, bought, rough, through, and though—roughly the equivalent of ow, aw, uff, oo and oh.

It's enough to make a guy say, "Ough, mpats." (The "ough" as in "bought," the "mp" as in "comptroller," the "a" as in "sofa." The finished product: aw, nuts.)

NEW YORK.—Gene Fowler, in describing the current hysteria in Hollywood, said: "The air here is dark and full of spears and arrows" . . . Al Capp, who battled with radio executives during his broadcasts for Drew Pearson, is seeking revenge by introducing a new radio executive character in his comic strip. The cartoonist says that the new character is so loathsome that to avoid a libel suit he is making the character look like Capp himself . . . Farrar & Straus will publish the Information Please Almanac.

Van Heflin, the movie star, once received words of praise from John Barrymore. Heflin completed a series of Broadway engagements when he was introduced to Barrymore—who stared at him, then patted his back, and said: "You are great. You are magnificent. In you, young man, I see Mansfield and Drew, Muskvin, Kathalov and the hope of Stanislavsky" . . . "You saw all those great artists in me?" Heflin beamed, hoping that this was one of Barrymore'se lucid moments. "When did you notice it?" . . . "It was whispered to me by an angel," replied Barrymore, "when I slept on the steps of the Moscow Art."

New York's institutions for the insane are so overcrowded not because more people than ever are suffering mental ills, but because the new life-saving drugs have increased the life span of the older patients by at least 10 years . . . John Chamberlain is the new editorial writer at Life magazine . . . The New York Star will start an 8 p. m. bulldog edition this week, in direct competition for the first time with the New York morning tabloids . . . Jennie Hecht, the young daughter of the Ben Hechts, is a patient at Doctors Hospital . . . Elia Kazan, who directed "Sundown Beach" without a fee, at the urging of Producer Cheryl Crawford, is directing Miss Crawford's production of "Love Life" at the highest fee ever paid a Broadway director—15 per cent of the gross receipts.

Henny Youngman, now the most imitated comic in New York, has been signed for the Diamond Horseshoe. The tall, lean Youngman still is frustrated in his desire to appear in a Broadway show. The closest he came to realizing this wish was when a producer sent for him, heard him read the lines, and then sighed: "Too bad. Your delivery is exactly what we need. But the trouble is that the role is that of a member of a large family—and nobody in the family is over 5 feet 3. You're over 6 feet tall. That's the trouble" . . . "That's the trouble?" replied Youngman. "Couldn't it be glandular?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Calm Bradley Pentagon Power

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's note.—Today the brass ring, good for one free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, goes to Gen. Omar Bradley, United States Army Chief of Staff.)

If war should come to beleaguered Berlin, the men at the top of the U. S. Army today are among the most competent, human, and civilian-minded that this newsman has seen around the War Department in many a year.

General Bradley

This appraisal, by the way, comes from a long-time and vigorous critic of the brass hats.

Responsible for this new deal around the Pentagon Building are General Eisenhower and his successor, modest Omar Bradley.

It is important for the American public to know that when the daredevil boys of the Air Forces and the drop-the-bomb-now men of the Navy gather at joint Chiefs of Staff meetings, there is always present one calm conscience who never forgets the 380,000 G. I.'s buried under white crosses from Guadalcanal to Sicily.

Take off his uniform and Omar Bradley looks like a college professor. He is quiet, gracious, generous, good-natured and basically a very plain person. Everybody who ever worked with Bradley remarks on his simplicity. His mess sergeant in France had orders never to use Bradley's name to wangle food for headquarters. Once during the historic landings at Normandy Bradley, then a three-star general, took off his fleece-lined jacket and handed it to a shivering corporal.

"Here, son," he said. "It will be easier for me to get another than it will be for you."

Bradley Studies Like G. I.

Bradley has so monotonously plugged away for the little guy both in war and peace that he is almost taken for granted.

Typical of his quiet manner is the fact that, after being appointed Chief of Staff, but while waiting to be sworn in, he took two months of refresher courses at the Pentagon side by side with other officers. They report that Bradley was never late for class, took careful notes, shamed many a colonel or one-star general by his promptness and interest, compared with their casual attitude.

It may have been because Omar Bradley was from Moberly, Mo., that President Truman picked him to be Veterans administrator, later Chief of Staff. If so, this geographical coincidence was the good luck of the American people. However, it was not luck that put Bradley at the top.

When a youngster he worked for the Wabash Railroad; being poor yet anxious for a college education he applied to his Congressman for a West Point appointment. To take the examination in St. Louis, he had to promote a pass on the Wabash.

Eisenhower's Classmate

Bradley was graduated from West Point in the class of 1915. Another famous member of that class was Dwight Eisenhower of Kansas. Ike ranked 100th. Bradley ranked 44th.

Bradley's start in the recent war was none too happy. He commanded the Twenty-eighth Division, officered in part of Republican politicians from Pennsylvania. Senator Ed Martin was commanding general, later relieved (for age) by Bradley, while Jay Cooke, one of Stassen's hot supporters, was a battalion commander.

After various difficulties with the Twenty-eighth Division, Bradley stepped up to command a corps under General Patton in Sicily, later became top commander of the European theater, entrusted with carrying out the strategy of General Eisenhower and the Allied Chiefs of Staff. He faced some tough problems.

Battle of the Bulge

One of them was getting along with temperamental, grandstanding Field Marshal Montgomery. Bradley had no regard for Monty's lack of nerve and reluctance to advance. But realizing Montgomery was a symbol to the British people, he said no word against him.

Bradley got part of the blame for the Battle of the Bulge, and toward the end of this battle Montgomery, his rival, was given command of part of Bradley's forces.

Only his close friends know it, but Bradley himself was worried before the attack, to a trip down to the Saar to talk it over with "Old Blood and Guts" Patton. His explanation to Patton was that "topside" had ordered him to leave the Ardennes woods exposed, since the Germans could not possibly attack. After it was all over, Bradley, like the soldier that he is, took the blame for the Battle of the Bulge on his own shoulders.

Helping the Veterans

But the toughest job Bradley ever faced came after Potsdam, when Truman asked him to unravel the muddled Veterans Administration. The VA is the world's largest social-welfare agency, the world's biggest dispenser of pensions, the world's biggest operator of hospitals and one of the world's largest banks.

Running it is one of the most thankless jobs in the United States. Unfortunately, when men in Government do a good job they get little applause. Bradley did so well that he attracted scant attention until he took on the gentleman who is supposed to be able to do no wrong—the commander of the American Legion—and publicly whipped him.

When Bradley first became Chief of Staff, Secretary Forrestal kept him so busy on strategic problems that he had little time to revamp the administrative side of the Army.

However, Bradley has now begun to move in with some of his own men, including Gen. Bryant Moore, former commander at Trieste; Gen. "Buck" Lanham, formerly in charge of the Army's education program, and various others.

Bradley believes that one way to avoid war is to take all the profits out of war. And at staff conferences you will hear his nasal Missouri drawl formulating plans for training green troops, outlining strategy in case the worst happens in Berlin—yet at the same time hoping against hope that nothing will happen and "we can all go fishin'."

They wait too long

Some people wait too long in life . . . To use their clever brains . . . And then they find it is too late . . . To make impressive gains . . . They will not take the time to get . . . The knowledge they require . . . To reach the glorious success . . . To which their hearts aspire . . . For they would rather have their fun . . . And play around today . . . Than try to reach a certain goal . . . That seems so far away . . . The value of their dreams in life . . . Is something that they measure . . . In terms of idle wanderings . . . And moments made for pleasure . . . And strange as it may seem, they have . . . The nerve to weep and wail . . . And wonder why with all their brains . . . Their feeble efforts fail.

"Take an ad, lady! Well traveled gent with loaf of bread wishes to meet refined lady with pound of Land O'Lakes Sweet Cream Butter....object, buttered toast!"

YOU'LL GET RESULTS from that ad, Bo. Every one likes toast buttered with Land O'Lakes. Its sweet cream flavor makes all other foods taste better. At your food store, get Land O'Lakes Sweet Cream Butter. America's finest!
